Jews Open Dam, Claim 500 Arabs Drowned

Torrents Trap Soldiers, Tanks And Equipment

Haganah Fighters Drive Into Acre

HAIFA, Palestine, May 17 (AP)—A Jewish source said tonight that up to 500 Arab soldiers were drowned when the Jews opened a hydro-electric dam and flooded a plain south of the Sea of Galilee.

The source said Arab troops with tanks and heavy equipment were trapped in a rush of swirling water unleashed from a dam near Deganya on the southern tip of the biblical sea.

Some of the Arab tanks were mired in the muddy torrents, the source said. The waters were reported to have swept over a plain which lies below sea level in the Jordan Valley along the Palestine-Trans-Jordan frontier.

Haganah fighters drove into Acre today, the old Arab seaport city 12 miles north of Haifa. Their commander said an estimated 4,000 Arabs were penned in the ancient walled area.

The commander said his forces were in complete control of the highway through the city—a key to Jewish communication by road to northern settlements. Acre is just outside of the territory of Israel as defined in United Nations partition plan.

Earlier, Haganah reported successes against invading Arab forces in Northeastern Israel. Tel Aviv underwent its third straight day of enemy air attack.

Arabs Attack In Jerusalem

Haganah, the Jewish army, announced in Tel Aviv that Arab troops had launched a heavy attack against the Jewish quarter of Jerusalem's old walled city.

A British account of the Jerusalem attack said the Arabs suffered 15 casualties dead or wounded. It added that an Arab spokesman had claimed approximately 20 Jews were killed or wounded.

The British account said Arab soldiers were reported to have captured Barclay's bank and Darouti's hotel in the heart of Jerusalem.

A number of Stern group members were reported held captive by the Arabs while Jewish forces were said to be holding the Italian hospital and to have penetrated an Arab school.

Haganah reported heavy fighting near the Jaffa and Damascus gates to the old city of Jerusalem. The Israel army said the Jewish Agency was informed by the Armenian patriarch of the walled city that Arabs had stormed into the patriarchate against his protests.

Haganah added that Arab forces attacked a branch of the Hadassah Hospital killing one doctor, one nurse, a patient and wounding several others.

Employes Are Required To Hear Anti-Union Talks

WASHINGTON, May 17 — (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board ruled today that an employer may require his workers to attend a meeting on company time and property and listen to anti-union speeches.

The board based its decision on the Taft-Hartley Labor Act. It reversed the doctrine of a 1946 case which held exactly the opposite under the Wagner Act.

In the earlier "free speech" ruling, called the Clark Brothers Company case, the NLRB had held that delivery of an anti-union speech at a compulsory meeting of workers violated their constitutional freedom of speech.

However, the Taft-Hartley law now says that expression of an employer's views is not evidence of an unfair labor practice if the expression contains "no threat of reprisal or force or promise of benefits."

U. S., Russia Demand That U. N. Order Halt To War In Holy Land

USSR DECIDES TO RECOGNIZE JEWISH STATE

MOSCOW, May 17 (AP)—The Soviet government announced tonight its official recognition of the new Jewish state of Israel.

Recognition of the new state set up in Palestine Saturday was accorded by the Russian government at the request of Moshe Shertok, foreign minister of Israel.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov replied in a note to Shertok that "the government of the USSR has decided to recognize officially the state of Israel and its provisional government."

(President Truman proclaimed last Friday the United States' recognition f Israel as a de facto government.

(Political circles in London where the texts of Shertok and Molotov's notes were received in a broadcast of the Moscow radio, said the Russian recognition appeared to be broader in scope than the United States'.

Austin Would Use Force, If Necessary

LAKE SUCCESS, May 17 (AP)—The United States and Russia joined today in a demand that the United Nations order the war stopped in Palestine.

United States Delegate Warren R. Austin, with last-minute instructions from Washington, told the Securiy Council the situation was a threat to world peace.

The United Nations should invoke its most potent article to stop fighting in Palestine, he said.

Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko then jumped on the bandwagon with this statement to the council:

"There is a war in Palestine and the Security Council must react. The Security Council must take a decision to stop the war."

The council wrangled for more than an hour over submitting a list of questions to the Arabs and Jews and adjourned until 9:30 a. m. (EST) tomorrow without voting.

Gromyko made no direct comment on the terms of the American plan.

There was feeling here among some delegations that the United States had again beaten Russia to the punch by getting a stop-war resolution on the table first.

Proposal Has Firm Tone

This same group had felt that Washington outmaneuvered Moscow with President Truman's immediate recognition of the new Jewish state of Israel last Friday. That supposition was given support today with an announcement from the Kremlin that the Soviet Union now has given recognition to the Jewish nation.

Austin demanded that the council vote an order to "all governments and authorities" to cease fighting and issue cease-fire and stand-still orders to their forces within 36 hours after passage of the resolution.

The United States moved under Chapter Seven of the Charter which contains the United Nation's only big stick—the use of international force. If under the American plan, peaceful efforts at settlement failed the council could move ahead to invoke economic and diplomatic sanctions and throw air, sea and land forces of United Nations members into action.

The firm tone of the American proposal contrasted with previous council resolutions which had merely appealed to the Jews and Arabs to stop fighting. Austin said it was clear that the previous council decisions had been ignored.

Jewish Agency Planned

The surprise American plan was announced to reporters just before the meeting began. It caused a flurry of excitement in the corridors such as that which followed President Truman's sudden move to recognize Israel last Friday night.

Commenting on the Russian recognition, a spokesman for the Jewish agency said:

"We are very pleased. It is extremely heartening to have the United States and the USSR once again in agreement on the question of Palestine."

The move for action to stop the Holy Land fighting brought the United States and Russia closer together in the United Nations than

Railroad Unions, Operators Begin New Talks Today

White House Orders Meetings Resumed

WASHINGTON, May 17 — (AP)—The White House arranged today for new meetings tomorrow between railroad operators and workers who threatened a strike last week.

The meetings will be held just one day ahead of a court hearing on whether to extend the injunction which barely headed off a walkout of three unions last Tuesday after government seizure of the lines. The hearing will be held before Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough.

Some management and labor officials recently and privately have been predicting a pay settlement but there was no open indication whether agreement was near.

Ross Declines Forecast

Charles G. Ross, Presidential press secretary who announced the new conferences, declined to make any forecast on the outcome. He told reporters merely that the sessions had been arranged at the suggestion of John R. Steelman, Presidential aide, "in an effort to reach an agreement under which the government can turn the railroads back to private management."

The talks will begin at 9 a. m. (EST) in the Hotel Statler.

Ross said that Steelman, who took part in long and fruitless White House talks with both sides before the government seizure, will not sit this time.

Technically the railroads are being run by the Army under government seizure, though actually the details of management are being carried out by the private operators.

Three Disputing Unions

The disputing unions are the Brotherhoods of Locomotive Engineers, headed by Alvanley Johnston; Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, headed by D. B. Robertson; and Switchmen, headed by A. J. Glover.

The brotherhoods are demanding a 30 per cent pay increase, with a minimum raise of $3 a day, plus a number of working rule changes

Arab Countries Report Ground, Air Successes

Egyptians Only 30 Miles From Tel Aviv

CAIRO, May 17 (AP)—Egypt, Syria and Iraq claimed aerial successes over Palestine tonight as Arab ground forces continued to strike at the Holy Land from the south and northeast.

Arab dispatches claimed their armies had penetrated into the northeastern sector in an operation which could determine control of that fertile area. The region now is claimed by the new Jewish state of Israel.

Coupled with this action was the Egyptian army's advance into Palestine from the south which the Arabs say has taken the soldiers of King Farouk to within 30 miles of Tel Aviv.

An Egyptian communique said Egypt's air force had bombed Tel Aviv for the third straight day, starting numerous fires with high explosive and incendiary bombs.

The communique, issued in Damascus, claimed the city airfield and harbor were hit as well as the Jewish colony of Shnid where ammunition and fuel dumps were set afire. Direct hits were claimed on oil stores and refineries in the port area in a morning attack. The communique said six planes were destroyed on the ground at Tel Aviv airport in an afternoon raid.

City Of Tiberias Shelled

A Syrian army communique claimed an enemy plane was shot down over Tiberias in operations "undertaken jointly by the armies of Syria and Iraq." The communique said Arab planes shelled the city of Tiberias and sank two enemy boats as well as destroying part of the Jewish settlement of Ramat Naftali.

The communique further claimed 35 Jews were killed when Arab liberation army troops attacked an enemy ambush between two Jewish colonies in the Samakh region near the Lebanese frontier. It claimed the Jews defended their positions fiercely but suffered heavy losses.

An Iraqi army communique from Baghdad said: "Our planes bombed effectively and with heavy bombs the villages of Kaisher, Beit Yusuf and Ajda" in the northeastern sector.

A dispatch from the Iraqi army sector in Northern Palestine said King Abdullah, of Trans-Jordan, today had personally directed infantry and artillery attacks. They were said to have resulted in the capture of the Jewish settlement of Naharayim and the Gesher police post.

The Gesher police post and Naharayim, a border town, have been obstacles holding up the Iraqi advance for 48 hours. They are situ-

PICKET LINE VIOLENCE MARKS CHRYSLER TIEUP

DETROIT, May 17—(AP)—A flurry of picket line violence punctuated the six-day Chrysler strike today as the CIO United Auto Workers threatened General Motors with a second postwar strike.

Gov. Kim Sigler ordered state police reinforcements into suburban Highland Park to help quell an outbreak of fist-fighting, rock throwing and other incidents at a Chrysler plant. The flareup was short lived.

The Governor acted as the CIO United Auto Workers sought to tighten their grip on 16 strike-bound Chrysler plants and talked of plans to call out 225,000 General Motors employes within a fortnight.

Chrysler's 75,000 employes left their jobs last Wednesday after scaling down their wage demand from 30 to 17 cents an hour above the present industry-wide average of about $1.50. The company's refusal to reinstate a previous six-cent offer sent the demand back to 30 cents.

A walkout in 90 General Motors plants across the nation is a "very good possibility" unless a contract dispute is settled by May 28, said T. A. Johnstone, acting head of the UAW's GM department.

Swift Offers Plan To Settle Strike

CHICAGO, May 17. (AP)—Swift and Company tonight offered federal conciliator's three conditions as a basis for settling the two months old strike of 100,000 CIO United Packinghouse Workers.

The company, following a meeting with the conciliators and Gov. Luther Youngdahl, of Minnesota, outlined these points:

1. Acceptance by the union of the nine cents an hour wage increase put into effect May 3.

2. The union to order striking employes to return to work as directed by the local plant superintendents.

3. Employes who were discharged for unlawful acts to have the right to process their grievances in accordance with provisions of the existing contract.

John E. Wilson, general superintendent of Swift, submitted the proposal voluntarily to Gov. Youngdahl and the conciliators. He said the 24 Swift plants which were struck along with other major packers March 16 were operating.

Ralph Helstein, president of the UPWA, said "we have not received the proposal officially yet, and we will reserve comment until we do and we know all the implications."

Gov. Youngdahl, whose state has been the scene of disorder which necessitated his calling out the National Guard to patrol three areas, came to Chicago today to seek an end to the nationwide strike.

Also involved in the dispute over wages are Cudahy, Wilson, and Armour packing firms. Scores of independent packers also are strike bound.

Radio Debate

Clash Over Whether It Bans Communism

PORTLAND, Ore., May 17 (AP)—Republican Presidential Aspirants Thomas E. Dewey and Harold E. Stassen met over the radio tonight to debate their clashing views on outlawing of the Communist Party in the United States.

Before a studio audience limited to reporters and cameramen, Dewey hammered on his theme that Communism should be kept in the open and that to drive it underground only enabled it to grow in power.

"You cannot shoot an idea with a law," he asserted.

On the affirmative, Stassen called for a stop to "coddling" Communists, and enactment of laws to deny them the "blessing of legality" under which they are permitted to gain power.

Both grimly serious, they sought to drive home their arguments in a campaign highlight to Oregon's Republican presidential primary.

They clashed sharply over the Mundt bill, now before Congress.

Stassen held that it would outlaw the Communist Party, Dewey that it would not.

"If Mr. Dewey," Stassen concluded, "will agree to support the Mundt bill unequivocally, then I will agree we are in complete union on this issue."

Gov. Dewey's Rebuttal

But Gov. Dewey, in his rebuttal, answered:

"I gather from Mr. Stassen that he has completely surrendered. The Mundt bill does not outlaw the Communist Party. If Mr. Stassen says that is all he wants, then he doesn't mean it when he asks that the Communist Party be outlawed—because the author of the Mundt bill and the congressional committee both say it does not outlaw the party."

In concluding his original 20-minute presentation, Stassen argued:

"To make my position very clear, I say very definitely that it does not add up to me to say that loyal, patriotic young Americans must of necessity be drafted, that their liberties must be taken away in order to make America strong in the face of the menace to peace caused by Communist organizations of the privileges and blessings of legality

Parrot's Appeal, "Firemen, Save Me," Answered

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., May 17 (AP)—After firemen thought the last of eight families was safely out of a burning block tonight they heard cries of "Firemen, save me."

William Horsfall, a spectator, dashed into the burning building to the rescue.

House Group OKs Super-Carrier

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—A House committee which previously approved an Air Force it hopes will be the world's most powerful today cleared the way for the Navy to build the largest ship ever launched.

The Air Force bill eventually was passed by both House and Senate and waits only President Truman's signature.

The measure approved unanimously by the House Armed Services Cubcommittee today would enable the Navy to get started on a 65,000-ton aircraft carrier almost half again the size of present ships of that type.

Navy authorities said the super-carrier would be the largest ship of any type ever built. Its cost would be about $124,000,000. Construction will take four years, although this could be shortened in an emergency.

The carrier would be about 10 feet longer than the Normandie, former French luxury liner. It would have a waterline length of 1,030 feet, but counting its flight deck overhang it would be 1,090 feet.

Presumably, multiple-engine bombers capable of carrying an atomic bomb thousands of miles could take off from its flight deck.

In order to get started on the huge ship, the subcommittee approved a Navy plan to stop work on 13 unfinished ships, diverting about $229,000,000 for the carrier and several vessels designed to launch guided missiles.

John L. Lewis Authorized To Negotiate Mine Pact

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP) — John L. Lewis' 200-man policy committee authorized him today to negotiate a new contract on 11 general subjects affecting the pay and working conditions of 400,000 soft coal miners.

After a full day of meetings, punctuated by resounding "ayes", the committee adopted a resolution authorizing Lewis and his small negotiating committee to hammer out the new contract.

The negotiations start with an "open town meeting" at the Shoreham Hotel here tomorrow. The soft coal agreement expires June 30.

Anthracite negotiations, which had been scheduled to begin next Thursday, have been postponed a week. The contract talks will start May 27 in Philadelphia. Lewis has notified the hard coal operators that he intends to terminate that agreement, covering 80,000 Eastern Pennsylvania anthracite workers, July 10.

Henry Wallace Is Surprised Stalin Answered Letter

SAN FRANCISCO, May 17 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace, third-party presidential candidate, was shown stories of Russian Premier Stalin's reply to Wallace's open letter and commented that:

"If I have done anything that moves the world further forward toward peace, I feel that my campaign will have been a success."

Declaring that he was "very much surprised" that Stalin had replied, he also remarked that perhaps world diplomats should examine his letter to Stalin.

"This is a statement by the Premier of Russia to the people of the United States, offering peace," Wallace later commented in a radio interview. "It's a real and definite offer by Russia to sit down and discuss our differences to find ways and means of ending the cold war."

Tests Of Three Atomic Weapons Are Successful

Battle Over Terms Of Board Continues

WASHINGTON, May 17 — (AP)—The government today announced completely successful tests of three improved atomic weapons, in what was described as a "milestone in atomic development."

Secrecy cloaked all details of what may well be tremendous developments beyond the a-bomb which wrote new history in the horrors of war by wrecking Hiroshima August 6, 1945.

Today's report came from the White House after Chairman David E. Lilienthal and four other members of the Atomic Energy Commission gave Mr. Truman an oral report on the recent tests. They were held at Eniwetok Island, far Pacific atoll which is the proving ground for America's No. 1 weapon.

The report came as the commission became more deeply tangled in political and labor troubles.

Committee Approves Extender

On Capitol Hill, the Republican-dominated joint committee on atomic energy approved 11 to 5 a bill to extend the terms of the five commissioners a flat 23 months. President Truman has renominated Lilienthal to a five-year term and the others to staggered terms of one to four years.

Sen. McMahon (D-Conn) charged the Republican leadership with an indirect attempt "to make sure that in two years they get a chance to throw Mr. Lilienthal out."

"Conceivably we might have atomic industrial power within two years," said McMahon, and then the Republicans could remove Lilienthal—a public power advocate—from the commission.

The authors of the 23-month extender said the bill merely gives Congress time to see how the atomic program is developing before making the full term appointments.

Atom Commission Admits Failure

LAKE SUCCESS, May 17 — (AP)—The United Nations Atomic Energy Commission suspended today all attempts to agree on world atomic control.

It was the first major United Nations organ to acknowledge failure because of the Russian-Western Power impasse.

The vote to stop work now was 9 to 2.

The United States, France, China, Britain, Argentina, Belgium, Syria, Canada, and Colombia voted for the suspension. They want fresh orders from the 58-nation Assembly this fall.

Russia and the Soviet Ukraine opposed suspension. They want the commission to continue negotiations.

Ready To Talk Peace On Basis Of Proposals

Russian Minister Hails Open Letter

MOSCOW, May 17 (AP) — Prime Minister Stalin said tonight Russia is prepared, if the United States is willing, to use Henry A. Wallace's recent "open letter" to him as the basis for a two-power agreement aimed at ending strained relations between the two nations.

Stalin's statement was dated today and issued by the Soviet press department. It replied to Wallace's proposals, made at a political rally in New York's Madison Square Garden May 11 and addressed to the Russian leader.

Stalin said his government considers that "despite the difference in the economic system and the ideologies, the co-existence of these systems and a peaceful settlement of differences between the USSR and the United States are not only possible, but also necessary in the interests of a general peace."

"I do not know," Stalin said, "whether the United States government approves of Mr. Wallace's program as a basis for agreement between the USSR and the United States."

"As far as the government of the USSR is concerned, it considers that Mr. Wallace's program could serve as a good and fruitful basis for such an agreement and for the development of international co-operation.

Stalin Lists Proposals

Stalin gave a concise and factual summary of the points Wallace addressed to him and the United States government at the New York rally. He said these proposals "are known to everybody," and listed them as:

1. A general armaments reduction and the prohibition of atomic weapons.

2. Conclusion of peace treaties with Germany and Japan, and the question of evacuating troops from these countries.

3. Evacuation of troops from China and Korea.

4. Respect for the sovereignty of individual countries and non-interference in their domestic affairs.

5. The inadmissibility of military bases in member countries of the United Nations.

6. World development of international trade. No discrimination within the United Nations framework in assistance to, and economic restoration of, countries which suffered in the war.

7. The defense of democracy and ensuring the civil rights in all countries, "and so on," Stalin concluded.

"It is possible to agree or to disagree with the program of Mr. Wallace," Stalin said, "but one thing is, nevertheless, beyond doubt: There is no statesman caring for peace and co-operation among the peoples who can ignore this program, since it reflects the hopes and strivings of the peoples towards consolidation of peace, and it doubtless will have the support of millions of ordinary people."

Recent Exchange "Inadequate"

Stalin spoke of the "inadequacy" of the recent diplomatic exchange between the two governments. On

Two Held At Baltimore In Shooting Of Reuther

BALTIMORE, May 17. (AP)—Two Detroit automobile workers were arrested here today for questioning in connection with last month's shooting of Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union, Captain of Detectives Henry J. Kriss announced.

He said eastern district police took the two men in custody on a "tip."

Both men gave Baltimore addresses. They were docketed at Eastern Police Station as being "held for investigation; suspected of assault and shooting."

Reuther was wounded the night of April 19 by a gunman who fired through the kitchen window of the union chief's home. More than $120,000 in rewards have been offered for capture of the gunman.

Sister Defends Young GI Who Went A WOL For Love

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The sister of the young American soldier alleged to have gone A.W.O.L. in Russia for love of a Russian female spy came to his defense today.

And the family of the other United States soldier to whom the woman was married said he didn't know she was a spy, as the State Department reported. Anyhow, his family said, he had already taken steps to get a separation from her.

The State Department announced yesterday that Sgt. James M. McMillin, 21, Boulder, Colo., defied orders to leave Russia because he was in love with a Russian married woman described as an experienced Soviet agent.

The woman, identified as Mrs. Galina Duneava Biconish, fanned the youth's love because the Russian government told her to, the State Department indicated.

Today it was learned:

1. Her husband, Tech. Sgt. John Biconish, 23, serving with the enlisted student detachment of the Army Ground General School at Fort Riley, Kan., didn't know she was a spy, hasn't seen her since 1946, and had started separation proceedings.

2. Young McMillin's father is an Army colonel, Col. James M. McMillin, stationed at the Huntsville Arsenal, Alabama.

3. The young sergeant's sister, Miss Patricia McMillin, 19, a sophomore at Radcliffe College, Cambridge, Mass., said she didn't believe her brother had deserted.

Biconish's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Biconish, Binghamton, N. Y., told of the separation plans today. They said their son had told them of it last March.

He was asking for separation because he felt his wife would "never be permitted to leave Russia."

Official Washington Silent On Premier Stalin's Offer

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The White House and State Department were silent tonight on Premier Josef Stalin's offer to negotiate a settlement with the United States, and the capital generally kept its fingers crossed.

They were waiting to see whether Stalin's remarks represent:

1. An attempt to befuddle and confuse the United States and thereby weaken its hand, or

2. A genuine change in the Russian tactics which have led to one impasse after another in international gatherings called to straighten out a war-torn world.

The atmosphere here was full of suspicion, but there was a disposition to hold the door open to see what the future might bring.

For example, Sen. Connally (D-Tex), ranking Democrat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told a reporter:

"If Premier Stalin's proposal is a renewal of an offer to negotiate in accordance with Ambassador Smith's conversations, I feel the United States will be glad to enter into negotiations for a peaceful settlement of our differences."

He referred to Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, United States ambassador to Moscow. Smith, in a recent statement to Foreign Minister Molotov, reviewed United States grievances against Russia and served notice that this country intends to pursue its European recovery program, but declared it has no hostile intentions toward Russia. He emphasized that there will be no surrender of American principle but said the door is always open to discussion of differences.

The Russians jumped on this as an invitation to negotiate and, with a great publicity play, accepted it. The State Department backed away, saying it wanted no two-power negotiations of general issues affecting other powers.

Haganah Fighters Drive Into Acre

HAIFA, Palestine, May 17 (AP)—A Jewish source said tonight that up to 500 Arab soldiers were drowned when the Jews opened a hydro-electric dam and flooded a plain south of the Sea of Galilee.

The source said Arab troops with tanks and heavy equipment were trapped in a rush of swirling water unleashed from a dam near Deganya on the southern tip of the biblical sea.

Employes Are Required To Hear Anti-Union Talks

WASHINGTON, May 17 — (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board ruled today that an employer may require his workers to attend a meeting on company time and property and listen to anti-union speeches.

The board based its decision on the Taft-Hartley Labor Act. It reversed the doctrine of a 1946 case which held exactly the opposite under the Wagner Act.

In the earlier "free speech" ruling, called the Clark Brothers Company case, the NLRB had held that delivery of an anti-union speech at a compulsory meeting of workers violated their constitutional freedom of speech.

However, the Taft-Hartley law now says that expression of an employer's views is not evidence of an unfair labor practice if the expression contains "no threat of reprisal or force or promise of benefits."

U. S., Russia Demand That U. N. Order Halt To War In Holy Land

USSR DECIDES TO RECOGNIZE JEWISH STATE

MOSCOW, May 17 (AP)—The Soviet government announced tonight its official recognition of the new Jewish state of Israel.

Recognition of the new state set up in Palestine Saturday was accorded by the Russian government at the request of Moshe Shertok, foreign minister of Israel.

Austin Would Use Force, If Necessary

LAKE SUCCESS, May 17 (AP)—The United States and Russia joined today in a demand that the United Nations order the war stopped in Palestine.

United States Delegate Warren R. Austin, with last-minute instructions from Washington, told the Securiy Council the situation was a threat to world peace.

The United Nations should invoke its most potent article to stop fighting in Palestine, he said.

Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko then jumped on the bandwagon with this statement to the council:

"There is a war in Palestine and the Security Council must react. The Security Council must take a decision to stop the war."

The council wrangled for more than an hour over submitting a list of questions to the Arabs and Jews and adjourned until 9:30 a. m. (EST) tomorrow without voting.

Gromyko made no direct comment on the terms of the American plan.

There was feeling here among some delegations that the United States had again beaten Russia to the punch by getting a stop-war resolution on the table first.

Proposal Has Firm Tone

This same group had felt that Washington outmaneuvered Moscow with President Truman's immediate recognition of the new Jewish state of Israel last Friday. That supposition was given support today with an announcement from the Kremlin that the Soviet Union now has given recognition to the Jewish nation.

Austin demanded that the council vote an order to "all governments and authorities" to cease fighting and issue cease-fire and stand-still orders to their forces within 36 hours after passage of the resolution.

The United States moved under Chapter Seven of the Charter which contains the United Nation's only big stick—the use of international force. If under the American plan, peaceful efforts at settlement failed the council could move ahead to invoke economic and diplomatic sanctions and throw air, sea and land forces of United Nations members into action.

The firm tone of the American proposal contrasted with previous council resolutions which had merely appealed to the Jews and Arabs to stop fighting. Austin said it was clear that the previous council decisions had been ignored.

Jewish Agency Planned

The surprise American plan was announced to reporters just before the meeting began. It caused a flurry of excitement in the corridors such as that which followed President Truman's sudden move to recognize Israel last Friday night.

Commenting on the Russian recognition, a spokesman for the Jewish agency said:

"We are very pleased. It is extremely heartening to have the United States and the USSR once again in agreement on the question of Palestine."

The move for action to stop the Holy Land fighting brought the United States and Russia closer together in the United Nations than

Railroad Unions, Operators Begin New Talks Today

White House Orders Meetings Resumed

WASHINGTON, May 17 — (AP)—The White House arranged today for new meetings tomorrow between railroad operators and workers who threatened a strike last week.

The meetings will be held just one day ahead of a court hearing on whether to extend the injunction which barely headed off a walkout of three unions last Tuesday after government seizure of the lines. The hearing will be held before Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough.

Some management and labor officials recently and privately have been predicting a pay settlement but there was no open indication whether agreement was near.

Ross Declines Forecast

Charles G. Ross, Presidential press secretary who announced the new conferences, declined to make any forecast on the outcome. He told reporters merely that the sessions had been arranged at the suggestion of John R. Steelman, Presidential aide, "in an effort to reach an agreement under which the government can turn the railroads back to private management."

The talks will begin at 9 a. m. (EST) in the Hotel Statler.

Ross said that Steelman, who took part in long and fruitless White House talks with both sides before the government seizure, will not sit this time.

Technically the railroads are being run by the Army under government seizure, though actually the details of management are being carried out by the private operators.

Three Disputing Unions

The disputing unions are the Brotherhoods of Locomotive Engineers, headed by Alvanley Johnston; Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, headed by D. B. Robertson; and Switchmen, headed by A. J. Glover.

The brotherhoods are demanding a 30 per cent pay increase, with a minimum raise of $3 a day, plus a number of working rule changes

Arab Countries Report Ground, Air Successes

Egyptians Only 30 Miles From Tel Aviv

CAIRO, May 17 (AP)—Egypt, Syria and Iraq claimed aerial successes over Palestine tonight as Arab ground forces continued to strike at the Holy Land from the south and northeast.

Arab dispatches claimed their armies had penetrated into the northeastern sector in an operation which could determine control of that fertile area. The region now is claimed by the new Jewish state of Israel.

Coupled with this action was the Egyptian army's advance into Palestine from the south which the Arabs say has taken the soldiers of King Farouk to within 30 miles of Tel Aviv.

An Egyptian communique said Egypt's air force had bombed Tel Aviv for the third straight day, starting numerous fires with high explosive and incendiary bombs.

The communique, issued in Damascus, claimed the city airfield and harbor were hit as well as the Jewish colony of Shnid where ammunition and fuel dumps were set afire. Direct hits were claimed on oil stores and refineries in the port area in a morning attack. The communique said six planes were destroyed on the ground at Tel Aviv airport in an afternoon raid.

City Of Tiberias Shelled

A Syrian army communique claimed an enemy plane was shot down over Tiberias in operations "undertaken jointly by the armies of Syria and Iraq." The communique said Arab planes shelled the city of Tiberias and sank two enemy boats as well as destroying part of the Jewish settlement of Ramat Naftali.

The communique further claimed 35 Jews were killed when Arab liberation army troops attacked an enemy ambush between two Jewish colonies in the Samakh region near the Lebanese frontier. It claimed the Jews defended their positions fiercely but suffered heavy losses.

An Iraqi army communique from Baghdad said: "Our planes bombed effectively and with heavy bombs the villages of Kaisher, Beit Yusuf and Ajda" in the northeastern sector.

A dispatch from the Iraqi army sector in Northern Palestine said King Abdullah, of Trans-Jordan, today had personally directed infantry and artillery attacks. They were said to have resulted in the capture of the Jewish settlement of Naharayim and the Gesher police post.

PICKET LINE VIOLENCE MARKS CHRYSLER TIEUP

DETROIT, May 17—(AP)—A flurry of picket line violence punctuated the six-day Chrysler strike today as the CIO United Auto Workers threatened General Motors with a second postwar strike.

Gov. Kim Sigler ordered state police reinforcements into suburban Highland Park to help quell an outbreak of fist-fighting, rock throwing and other incidents at a Chrysler plant. The flareup was short lived.

The Governor acted as the CIO United Auto Workers sought to tighten their grip on 16 strike-bound Chrysler plants and talked of plans to call out 225,000 General Motors employes within a fortnight.

Chrysler's 75,000 employes left their jobs last Wednesday after scaling down their wage demand from 30 to 17 cents an hour above the present industry-wide average of about $1.50. The company's refusal to reinstate a previous six-cent offer sent the demand back to 30 cents.

A walkout in 90 General Motors plants across the nation is a "very good possibility" unless a contract dispute is settled by May 28, said T. A. Johnstone, acting head of the UAW's GM department.

Swift Offers Plan To Settle Strike

CHICAGO, May 17. (AP) — Swift and Company tonight offered federal conciliator's three conditions as a basis for settling the two months old strike of 100,000 CIO United Packinghouse Workers.

The company, following a meeting with the conciliators and Gov. Luther Youngdahl, of Minnesota, outlined these points:

1. Acceptance by the union of the nine cents an hour wage increase put into effect May 3.

2. The union to order striking employes to return to work as directed by the local plant superintendents.

3. Employes who were discharged for unlawful acts to have the right to process their grievances in accordance with provisions of the existing contract.

John E. Wilson, general superintendent of Swift, submitted the proposal voluntarily to Gov. Youngdahl and the conciliators. He said the 24 Swift plants which were struck along with other major packers March 16 were operating.

Ralph Helstein, president of the UPWA, said "we have not received the proposal officially yet, and we will reserve comment until we do and we know all the implications."

Gov. Youngdahl, whose state has been the scene of disorder which necessitated his calling out the National Guard to patrol three areas, came to Chicago today to seek an end to the nationwide strike.

Also involved in the dispute over wages are Cudahy, Wilson, and Armour packing firms. Scores of independent packers also are strike bound.

UNUSUAL TWINS—John Plunkett holds his twins born six days apart in a Sydney, Australia, hospital to his wife, Mary, 36. Roger Thomas (right) was born on May 2 and Mary Ann (left) on May 8. The Plunketts have one other child, a son, 15.

Henry Wallace Is Surprised Stalin Answered Letter

SAN FRANCISCO, May 17 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace, third-party presidential candidate, was shown stories of Russian Premier Stalin's reply to Wallace's open letter and commented that:

"If I have done anything that moves the world further forward toward peace, I feel that my campaign will have been a success."

Declaring that he was "very much surprised" that Stalin had replied, he also remarked that perhaps world diplomats should examine his letter to Stalin.

"This is a statement by the Premier of Russia to the people of the United States, offering peace," Wallace later commented in a radio interview. "It's a real and definite offer by Russia to sit down and discuss our differences to find ways and means of ending the cold war."

Radio Debate

Dewey, Stassen Disagree Sharply Over Mundt Bill

Parrot's Appeal, "Firemen, Save Me," Answered

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., May 17 (AP)—After firemen thought the last of eight families was safely out of a burning block tonight they heard cries of "Firemen, save me."

William Horsfall, a spectator, dashed into the burning building to the rescue.

Clash Over Whether It Bans Communism

PORTLAND, Ore., May 17 (AP)—Republican Presidential Aspirants Thomas E. Dewey and Harold E. Stassen met over the radio tonight to debate their clashing views on outlawing of the Communist Party in the United States.

Before a studio audience limited to reporters and cameramen, Dewey hammered on his theme that Communism should be kept in the open and that to drive it underground only enabled it to grow in power.

"You cannot shoot an idea with a law," he asserted.

On the affirmative, Stassen called for a stop to "coddling" Communists, and enactment of laws to deny them the "blessing of legality" under which they are permitted to gain power.

Both grimly serious, they sought to drive home their arguments in a campaign highlight to Oregon's Republican presidential primary.

They clashed sharply over the Mundt bill, now before Congress.

Stassen held that it would outlaw the Communist Party, Dewey that it would not.

"If Mr. Dewey," Stassen concluded, "will agree to support the Mundt bill unequivocally, then I will agree we are in complete union on this issue."

Gov. Dewey's Rebuttal

But Gov. Dewey, in his rebuttal, answered:

"I gather from Mr. Stassen that he has completely surrendered. The Mundt bill does not outlaw the Communist Party. If Mr. Stassen says that is all he wants, then he doesn't mean it when he asks that the Communist Party be outlawed—because the author of the Mundt bill and the congressional committee both say it does not outlaw the party."

In concluding his original 20-minute presentation, Stassen argued:

"To make my position very clear, I say very definitely that it does not add up to me to say that loyal, patriotic young Americans must of necessity be drafted, that their liberties must be taken away in order to make America strong in the face of the menace to peace caused by Communist organizations of the privileges and blessings of legality

House Group OKs Super-Carrier

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—A House committee which previously approved an Air Force it hopes will be the world's most powerful today cleared the way for the Navy to build the largest ship ever launched.

The Air Force bill eventually was passed by both House and Senate and waits only President Truman's signature.

The measure approved unanimously by the House Armed Services Cubcommittee today would enable the Navy to get started on a 65,000-ton aircraft carrier almost half again the size of present ships of that type.

Navy authorities said the super-carrier would be the largest ship of any type ever built. Its cost would be about $124,000,000. Construction will take four years, although this could be shortened in an emergency.

The carrier would be about 10 feet longer than the Normandie, former French luxury liner. It would have a waterline length of 1,030 feet, but counting its flight deck overhang it would be 1,090 feet.

Presumably, multiple-engine bombers capable of carrying an atomic bomb thousands of miles could take off from its flight deck.

In order to get started on the huge ship, the subcommittee approved a Navy plan to stop work on 13 unfinished ships, diverting about $229,000,000 for the carrier and several vessels designed to launch guided missiles.

Ready To Talk Peace On Basis Of Proposals

Russian Minister Hails Open Letter

MOSCOW, May 17 (AP) — Prime Minister Stalin said tonight Russia is prepared, if the United States is willing, to use Henry A. Wallace's recent "open letter" to him as the basis for a two-power agreement aimed at ending strained relations between the two nations.

Stalin's statement was dated today and issued by the Soviet press department. It replied to Wallace's proposals, made at a political rally in New York's Madison Square Garden May 11 and addressed to the Russian leader.

Stalin said his government considers that "despite the difference in the economic system and the ideologies, the co-existence of these systems and a peaceful settlement of differences between the USSR and the United States are not only possible, but also necessary in the interests of a general peace."

"I do not know," Stalin said, "whether the United States government approves of Mr. Wallace's program as a basis for agreement between the USSR and the United States."

"As far as the government of the USSR is concerned, it considers that Mr. Wallace's program could serve as a good and fruitful basis for such an agreement and for the development of international co-operation.

Stalin Lists Proposals

Stalin gave a concise and factual summary of the points Wallace addressed to him and the United States government at the New York rally. He said these proposals "are known to everybody," and listed them as:

1. A general armaments reduction and the prohibition of atomic weapons.

2. Conclusion of peace treaties with Germany and Japan, and the question of evacuating troops from these countries.

3. Evacuation of troops from China and Korea.

4. Respect for the sovereignty of individual countries and non-interference in their domestic affairs.

5. The inadmissibility of military bases in member countries of the United Nations.

6. World development of international trade. No discrimination within the United Nations framework in assistance to, and economic restoration of, countries which suffered in the war.

7. The defense of democracy and ensuring the civil rights in all countries, "and so on," Stalin concluded.

"It is possible to agree or to disagree with the program of Mr. Wallace," Stalin said, "but one thing is, nevertheless, beyond doubt: There is no statesman caring for peace and co-operation among the peoples who can ignore this program, since it reflects the hopes and strivings of the peoples towards consolidation of peace, and it doubtless will have the support of millions of ordinary people."

Recent Exchange "Inadequate"

Stalin spoke of the "inadequacy" of the recent diplomatic exchange between the two governments. On

Tests Of Three Atomic Weapons Are Successful

Battle Over Terms Of Board Continues

WASHINGTON, May 17 — (AP)—The government today announced completely successful tests of three improved atomic weapons, in what was described as a "milestone in atomic development."

Secrecy cloaked all details of what may well be tremendous developments beyond the a-bomb which wrote new history in the horrors of war by wrecking Hiroshima August 6, 1945.

Today's report came from the White House after Chairman David E. Lilienthal and four other members of the Atomic Energy Commission gave Mr. Truman an oral report on the recent tests. They were held at Eniwetok Island, far Pacific atoll which is the proving ground for America's No. 1 weapon.

The report came as the commission became more deeply tangled in political and labor troubles.

Committee Approves Extender

On Capitol Hill, the Republican-dominated joint committee on atomic energy approved 11 to 5 a bill to extend the terms of the five commissioners a flat 23 months. President Truman has renominated Lilienthal to a five-year term and the others to staggered terms of one to four years.

Sen. McMahon (D-Conn) charged the Republican leadership with an indirect attempt "to make sure that in two years they get a chance to throw Mr. Lilienthal out."

"Conceivably we might have atomic industrial power within two years," said McMahon, and then the Republicans could remove Lilienthal—a public power advocate—from the commission.

The authors of the 23-month extender said the bill merely gives Congress time to see how the atomic program is developing before making the full term appointments.

Atom Commission Admits Failure

LAKE SUCCESS, May 17 — (AP)—The United Nations Atomic Energy Commission suspended today all attempts to agree on world atomic control.

It was the first major United Nations organ to acknowledge failure because of the Russian-Western Power impasse.

The vote to stop work now was 9 to 2.

The United States, France, China, Britain, Argentina, Belgium, Syria, Canada, and Colombia voted for the suspension. They want fresh orders from the 58-nation Assembly this fall.

Russia and the Soviet Ukraine opposed suspension. They want the commission to continue negotiations.

Two Held At Baltimore In Shooting Of Reuther

BALTIMORE, May 17. (AP)—Two Detroit automobile workers were arrested here today for questioning in connection with last month's shooting of Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union, Captain of Detectives Henry J. Kriss announced.

He said eastern district police took the two men in custody on a "tip."

Both men gave Baltimore addresses. They were docketed at Eastern Police Station as being "held for investigation; suspected of assault and shooting."

Reuther was wounded the night of April 19 by a gunman who fired through the kitchen window of the union chief's home. More than $120,000 in rewards have been offered for capture of the gunman.

Sister Defends Young GI Who Went AWOL For Love

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The sister of the young American soldier alleged to have gone A.W.O.L. in Russia for love of a Russian female spy came to his defense today.

And the family of the other United States soldier to whom the woman was married said he didn't know she was a spy, as the State Department reported. Anyhow, his family said, he had already taken steps to get a separation from her.

The State Department announced yesterday that Sgt. James M. McMillin, 21, Boulder, Colo., defied orders to leave Russia because he was in love with a Russian married woman described as an experienced Soviet agent.

The woman, identified as Mrs. Galina Duneava Biconish, fanned the youth's love because the Russian government told her to, the State Department indicated.

Today it was learned:

1. Her husband, Tech. Sgt. John Biconish, 23, serving with the enlisted student detachment of the Army Ground General School at Fort Riley, Kan., didn't know she was a spy, hasn't seen her since 1946, and had started separation proceedings.

2. Young McMillin's father is an Army colonel, Col. James M. McMillin, stationed at the Huntsville Arsenal, Alabama.

3. The young sergeant's sister, Miss Patricia McMillin, 19, a sophomore at Radcliffe College, Cambridge, Mass., said she didn't believe her brother had deserted.

Biconish's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Biconish, Binghamton, N. Y., told of the separation plans today. They said their son had told them of it last March.

He was asking for separation because he felt his wife would "never be permitted to leave Russia."

John L. Lewis Authorized To Negotiate Mine Pact

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP) — John L. Lewis' 200-man policy committee authorized him today to negotiate a new contract on 11 general subjects affecting the pay and working conditions of 400,000 soft coal miners.

After a full day of meetings, punctuated by resounding "ayes", the committee adopted a resolution authorizing Lewis and his small negotiating committee to hammer out the new contract.

The negotiations start with an "open town meeting" at the Shoreham Hotel here tomorrow. The soft coal agreement expires June 30.

Anthracite negotiations, which had been scheduled to begin next Thursday, have been postponed a week. The contract talks will start May 27 in Philadelphia. Lewis has notified the hard coal operators that he intends to terminate that agreement, covering 80,000 Eastern Pennsylvania anthracite workers, July 10.

Official Washington Silent On Premier Stalin's Offer

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The White House and State Department were silent tonight on Premier Josef Stalin's offer to negotiate a settlement with the United States, and the capital generally kept its fingers crossed.

They were waiting to see whether Stalin's remarks represent:

1. An attempt to befuddle and confuse the United States and thereby weaken its hand, or

2. A genuine change in the Russian tactics which have led to one impasse after another in international gatherings called to straighten out a war-torn world.

The atmosphere here was full of suspicion, but there was a disposition to hold the door open to see what the future might bring.

For example, Sen. Connally (D-Tex), ranking Democrat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told a reporter:

"If Premier Stalin's proposal is a renewal of an offer to negotiate in accordance with Ambassador Smith's conversations, I feel the United States will be glad to enter into negotiations for a peaceful settlement of our differences."

He referred to Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, United States ambassador to Moscow. Smith, in a recent statement to Foreign Minister Molotov, reviewed United States grievances against Russia and served notice that this country intends to pursue its European recovery program, but declared it has no hostile intentions toward Russia. He emphasized that there will be no surrender of American principle but said the door is always open to discussion of differences.

The Russians jumped on this as an invitation to negotiate and, with a great publicity play, accepted it. The State Department backed away, saying it wanted no two-power negotiations of general issues affecting other powers.

Treasury, Labor Raps Oleo Taxes

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The United States Treasury, several congressmen and union leaders today urged repeal of federal taxes on oleomargarine.

The Senate Finance Committee heard testimony of about 25 witnesses favoring repeal as it began a two-day hearing on what to do with the 62-year-old tax on oleo. Those against the bill will testify tomorrow.

Opponents, mostly from dairy states, say the tax is needed to eliminate fraud in its sale. Those in favor of repeal, many of them from cotton and vegetable oil states, call the tax discriminatory.

The repeal bill already has been passed by the House and sentiment in the Senate apparently favors similar action, although a bitter fight is promised.

Getting the hearing before the Finance Committee was a victory for oleo backers. Opponents favored the Agriculture Committee, thinking there was a better chance to have it pigeon-holed there.

Testimony today centered around a concession offered by Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) who has led the fight for repeal. Fulbright said the "fraud" angle could be met by requiring public eating places which serve oleo to post signs saying so.

He said those favoring repeal are not against such a step. However, he aid, there already are adequate safeguards to prevent oleo from being passed off as butter. He pointed to the Pure Food and Drug Act.

Sen. Taft (R - Ohio) said that posting signs is "a very poor method." He said signs get covered up. He recommended that the notice be carried on the bill of fare or on the oleo serving plate.

Both the CIO and the American Federation of Labor urged repeal. Their cases were stated by Donald Montgomery for the CIO and Lewis G. Hines for the AFL.

Youth "Attacks" Radio Station's Transmitter

LOGAN, W. Va., May 17 (AP) — A youth who complained to radio station WLOG personnel that "you're always on the air" tried to halt the station's broadcasting today by smashing the transmitter with a microphone stand, Acting Police Chief John Queen reported.

But after a "terrific" slugfest, the chief said, the program schedule remained uninterrupted.

Queen identified the youth as Leonard Trammell, about 22, of Monclo. He was lodged in the Logan County jail pending arraignment tomorrow on a charge of wilful destruction of property.

Torrents Trap

correspondents in Jerusalem dated Sunday said virtually all the heart of the Holy City was in the hands of Jewish fighters after 51 hours of furious street fighting that followed the British withdrawal on Friday. Arab shells were falling into the city at that time, the dispatch said.

(Foreign correspondents in Jerusalem have been cut off from normal communications since the British withdrawal. The pooled dispatch came over facilities made available by the United States Navy.)

A communique from Haganah, the army of Israel, said its fighters drove back Arab attacks in the Samakh area on the southern shores of the Sea of Galilee, and at Gesher, six miles south of Samakh.

Gesher was reported previously under enemy air bombardment and artillery fire after its defenders refused a surrender ultimatum.

North of the Sea of Galilee, Haganah claimed the capture of the police station of Nebu Yusha. This is two miles east of Malikya, the town on the Lebanese border which was attacked on the first day of the proclamation of the Jewish state.

Today's air attack on Tel Aviv came just after dawn. It was aimed apparently at the port area. It was believed that only two planes—one a light or medium bomber—passed over the city.

Union Workers Fired

NEWARK, N. J., May 17 (AP)—The Fairmount Construction Company announced today that it had fired all 300 union employes working on the $12,000,000 Ivy Hill housing project in order to institute an "open shop" to cut down the high cost of union labor.

Yugos Capture Boats

TRIESTE, Free Territory, May 17—(AP)—Civil police in Venezia Giulia said tonight that police of the Yugoslav occupation zone had captured seven fishing vessels with 80 persons aboard.

Ready To Talk

May 4, United States Ambassador Walter B. Smith conferred with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

This talk and the exchange of notes between Smith and Molotov "go no further than declaring the desirability of settling the Soviet-American differences," Stalin said.

In a note May 9 to Smith, Molotov said the Soviet Union was "in agreement" with an American proposal for "discussion and settlement" of mutual differences.

(United States government sources said later in Washington, however, that Smith had not issued an invitation to Russia for bi - lateral talks).

Contrasting Wallace's "open letter" with the Smith-Molotov exchange, Stalin said the "important meaning" of the third party presidential candidate's letter "consists in the fact that it does not limit iself to a declaration, but goes further, makes a serious step forward and gives a concrete program for peaceful settlement of the differences between the USSR and the United States."

The Prime Minister hailed Wallace's proposals, with some reservations, as the "most important document" concerning peace "of recent times."

Two Fishermen Are Reported Missing

CONOWINGO, Md., May 17 (AP)—The Maryland State Police today reported two Manhein, Pa., men missing on the Susquehanna River after they had failed to return from a fishing trip below the Conowingo Dam.

Paul Sweigert, who rented the boat to Sylvester Heagy, 33, and Robert Seidel, 23, at 1 a. m., Sunday, said he searched the river for five miles today before reporting their disappearance to the police.

Flyer Crash-Lands His Plane At Connellsville

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., May 17 (AP)—A Clinton, Md., flyer was forced to crash-land his plane near here today to avoid hitting a radio tower which loomed up suddenly out of a heavy, smoky haze.

Clyde M. Livesay, a Capital Aircraft Repair Company employe on the way from Pittsburgh to Washington, was unhurt in the crash. The plane's landing gear was wrecked and one wing ripped off.

"Stratospheric Chamber" Tests Airplane Guns

ABERDEEN, Md., May 17. (AP)—The Army now has a new "stratospheric chamber" here to test guns and ammunition under simulated combat conditions at altitudes of seven miles and above.

The facility was dedicated today at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds along with a new supersonic wind tunnel. It was the first public mention of a "stratospheric chamber" here.

Disclosure of the chamber here followed by about one month the Air Force - Army Ordinance announcement that both groups had set up a "joint stratospheric" bombing unit.

The stratosphere is usually considered as beginning about seven miles up, extending to about 50 miles—both levels far above the operational ceiling for World War II combat planes.

B-29 On Way To U. S. With Father Flanagan's Body

BERLIN, May 17 (AP)—A B-29 Super Fortress was en route to the United States today from Frankfurt with the body of Msgr. E. J. Flanagan, founder of the internationally-known Boys Town, Nebraska.

A solemn funeral mass was held in Berlin this morning with Cardinal Count Konrad Von Preysing, Bishop of Berlin, saying the prayers for the dead.

ated only a few miles south of the Sea of Galilee.

Israelite Foreign Minister Moshe Shertok told reporters in Tel Aviv that the Arabs were exerting heavy pressure in the northeast and the south.

Significant Operation

(Of the two operations the one in the northeast in the vicinity of the Sea of Galilee appears to be the more significant. It is taking place in Jewish-claimed territory near the borders of Syria, Lebanon and Trans-Jordan. The area is well populated and is a major source of water and hydro-electric power for Palestine.

(The Egyptian movement, on the other hand, is through an arid, sparsely-settled region. In the main, at least, it seems to have been confined thus far to Southern Palestine territory assigned to the Arabs under the United Nations partition plan.)

A Damascus dispatch quoted military sources there as saying that Arab forces "are pouring" across Jordan River bridgeheads into Northeastern Palestine.

Syrian and Iraqi columns, the informants said, are deploying for possible advances up the western shore of the Sea of Galilee and westward through the strategically important Beisan Valley.

Dewey, Stassen

should be taken away from the Communist organizations themselves, which in fact are causing the menace that makes the drafting necessary."

"Immoral" Proposal

Dewey branded the outlawing proposal immoral, in violation of the constitutional bill of rights, the method of totalitarianism itself, and a "panacea" which won't work.

The way to handle Communism, he said, is to keep it out in the open.

"I am unalterably, whole-heartedly and unswervingly against any scheme to write laws outlawing people because of their religious, social or economical views."

Such a proposal, he declared, "is an attempt to beat down ideas with a club"—a "surrender of everything we believe in."

In his speech Dewey said that William Z. Foster, head of the American Communist Party, and Stassen say the Mundt bill would outlaw the Communists.

He then quoted from the report of the House Un-American Activities Committee in purported refutation of Stassen's claim.

Stassen's view was that the Communists used the "blessings of legality" to gain power in other countries. He said outlawing Communists would not endanger civil liberties of other persons.

Treasury, Labor Raps Oleo Taxes

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The United States Treasury, several congressmen and union leaders today urged repeal of federal taxes on oleomargarine.

The Senate Finance Committee heard testimony of about 25 witnesses favoring repeal as it began a two-day hearing on what to do with the 62-year-old tax on oleo. Those against the bill will testify tomorrow.

Opponents, mostly from dairy states, say the tax is needed to eliminate fraud in its sale. Those in favor of repeal, many of them from cotton and vegetable oil states, call the tax discriminatory.

The repeal bill already has been passed by the House and sentiment in the Senate apparently favors similar action, although a bitter fight is promised.

Getting the hearing before the Finance Committee was a victory for oleo backers. Opponents favored the Agriculture Committee, thinking there was a better chance to have it pigeon-holed there.

Testimony today centered around a concession offered by Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) who has led the fight for repeal. Fulbright said the "fraud" angle could be met by requiring public eating places which serve oleo to post signs saying so.

He said those favoring repeal are not against such a step. However, he aid, there already are adequate safeguards to prevent oleo from being passed off as butter. He pointed to the Pure Food and Drug Act.

Sen. Taft (R - Ohio) said that posting signs is "a very poor method." He said signs get covered up. He recommended that the notice be carried on the bill of fare or on the oleo serving plate.

Both the CIO and the American Federation of Labor urged repeal. Their cases were stated by Donald Montgomery for the CIO and Lewis G. Hines for the AFL.

which would give them higher take-home pay. The carriers have been holding out for a raise of 15½ cents an hour or about 11 per cent, plus fewer rule changes. That is what a federal fact-finding board recommended. It also is the basis on which railroad workers of 19 other unions settled months ago.

Youth "Attacks" Radio Station's Transmitter

LOGAN, W. Va., May 17 (AP) — A youth who complained to radio station WLOG personnel that "you're always on the air" tried to halt the station's broadcasting today by smashing the transmitter with a microphone stand, Acting Police Chief John Queen reported.

But after a "terrific" slugfest, the chief said, the program schedule remained uninterrupted.

Queen identified the youth as Leonard Trammell, about 22, of Monclo. He was lodged in the Logan County jail pending arraignment tomorrow on a charge of wilful destruction of property.

correspondents in Jerusalem dated Sunday said virtually all the heart of the Holy City was in the hands of Jewish fighters after 51 hours of furious street fighting that followed the British withdrawal on Friday. Arab shells were falling into the city at that time, the dispatch said.

(Foreign correspondents in Jerusalem have been cut off from normal communications since the British withdrawal. The pooled dispatch came over facilities made available by the United States Navy.)

A communique from Haganah, the army of Israel, said its fighters drove back Arab attacks in the Samakh area on the southern shores of the Sea of Galilee, and at Gesher, six miles south of Samakh.

Gesher was reported previously under enemy air bombardment and artillery fire after its defenders refused a surrender ultimatum.

North of the Sea of Galilee, Haganah claimed the capture of the police station of Nebu Yusha. This is two miles east of Malikya, the town on the Lebanese border which was attacked on the first day of the proclamation of the Jewish state.

Today's air attack on Tel Aviv came just after dawn. It was aimed apparently at the port area. It was believed that only two planes—one a light or medium bomber—passed over the city.

Union Workers Fired

NEWARK, N. J., May 17 (AP)—The Fairmount Construction Company announced today that it had fired all 300 union employes working on the $12,000,000 Ivy Hill housing project in order to institute an "open shop" to cut down the high cost of union labor.

Yugos Capture Boats

TRIESTE, Free Territory, May 17—(AP)—Civil police in Venezia Giulia said tonight that police of the Yugoslav occupation zone had captured seven fishing vessels with 80 persons aboard.

May 4, United States Ambassador Walter B. Smith conferred with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

This talk and the exchange of notes between Smith and Molotov "go no further than declaring the desirability of settling the Soviet-American differences," Stalin said.

In a note May 9 to Smith, Molotov said the Soviet Union was "in agreement" with an American proposal for "discussion and settlement" of mutual differences.

(United States government sources said later in Washington, however, that Smith had not issued an invitation to Russia for bi - lateral talks).

Contrasting Wallace's "open letter" with the Smith-Molotov exchange, Stalin said the "important meaning" of the third party presidential candidate's letter "consists in the fact that it does not limit itself to a declaration, but goes further, makes a serious step forward and gives a concrete program for peaceful settlement of the differences between the USSR and the United States."

The Prime Minister hailed Wallace's proposals, with some reservations, as the "most important document" concerning peace "of recent times."

Two Fishermen Are Reported Missing

CONOWINGO, Md., May 17 (AP)—The Maryland State Police today reported two Manhein, Pa., men missing on the Susquehanna River after they had failed to return from a fishing trip below the Conowingo Dam.

Paul Sweigert, who rented the boat to Sylvester Heagy, 33, and Robert Seidel, 23, at 1 a. m., Sunday, said he searched the river for five miles today before reporting their disappearance to the police.

Flyer Crash-Lands His Plane At Connellsville

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., May 17 (AP)—A Clinton, Md., flyer was forced to crash-land his plane near here today to avoid hitting a radio tower which loomed up suddenly out of a heavy, smoky haze.

Clyde M. Livesay, a Capital Aircraft Repair Company employe on the way from Pittsburgh to Washington, was unhurt in the crash. The plane's landing gear was wrecked and one wing ripped off.

"Stratospheric Chamber" Tests Airplane Guns

ABERDEEN, Md., May 17. (AP)—The Army now has a new "stratospheric chamber" here to test guns and ammunition under simulated combat conditions at altitudes of seven miles and above.

The facility was dedicated today at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds along with a new supersonic wind tunnel. It was the first public mention of a "stratospheric chamber" here.

Disclosure of the chamber here followed by about one month the Air Force - Army Ordinance announcement that both groups had set up a "joint stratospheric" bombing unit.

The stratosphere is usually considered as beginning about seven miles up, extending to about 50 miles—both levels far above the operational ceiling for World War II combat planes.

B-29 On Way To U. S. With Father Flanagan's Body

BERLIN, May 17 (AP)—A B-29 Super Fortress was en route to the United States today from Frankfurt with the body of Msgr. E. J. Flanagan, founder of the internationally-known Boys Town, Nebraska.

A solemn funeral mass was held in Berlin this morning with Cardinal Count Konrad Von Preysing, Bishop of Berlin, saying the prayers for the dead.

Arab Countries

ated only a few miles south of the Sea of Galilee.

Israelite Foreign Minister Moshe Shertok told reporters in Tel Aviv that the Arabs were exerting heavy pressure in the northeast and the south.

Significant Operation

(Of the two operations the one in the northeast in the vicinity of the Sea of Galilee appears to be the more significant. It is taking place in Jewish-claimed territory near the borders of Syria, Lebanon and Trans-Jordan. The area is well populated and is a major source of water and hydro-electric power for Palestine.

(The Egyptian movement, on the other hand, is through an arid, sparsely-settled region. In the main, at least, it seems to have been confined thus far to Southern Palestine territory assigned to the Arabs under the United Nations partition plan.)

A Damascus dispatch quoted military sources there as saying that Arab forces "are pouring" across Jordan River bridgeheads into Northeastern Palestine.

Syrian and Iraqi columns, the informants said, are deploying for possible advances up the western shore of the Sea of Galilee and westward through the strategically important Beisan Valley.

Dewey, Stassen

should be taken away from the Communist organizations themselves, which in fact are causing the menace that makes the drafting necessary."

"Immoral" Proposal

Dewey branded the outlawing proposal immoral, in violation of the constitutional bill of rights, the method of totalitarianism itself, and a "panacea" which won't work.

The way to handle Communism, he said, is to keep it out in the open.

"I am unalterably, whole-heartedly and unswervingly against any scheme to write laws outlawing people because of their religious, social or economical views."

Such a proposal, he declared, "is an attempt to beat down ideas with a club"—a "surrender of everything we believe in."

In his speech Dewey said that William Z. Foster, head of the American Communist Party, and Stassen say the Mundt bill would outlaw the Communists.

He then quoted from the report of the House Un-American Activities Committee in purported refutation of Stassen's claim.

Stassen's view was that the Communists used the "blessings of legality" to gain power in other countries. He said outlawing Communists would not endanger civil liberties of other persons.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Right Kind Of Young Man Conforms To Convention

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Recently I met a fellow who likes me very much and wants to take me out, but there are two catches.

One is that he is 25 and I am only 16, and I have never gone out with anyone as old as that in my life. I am not implying that 25 is old, but it's just the principle of the thing.

The second thing is, any boy I have ever gone out with has always come into my home and met my family. This boy refuses to do that. He says he will pick me up in a taxi, and naturally take me home, but he does not want to meet my family.

What should I do? Go out with him behind my parents' back and start sneaking? I'm trying to avoid that. But how can I make this boy understand that coming into my home and being introduced to my mother isn't a great ordeal?

"VERY CONFUSED"

Dear "Very Confused": There's something wrong somewhere when a young man as old as 25 refuses to conform to convention in the way you mention. Either he is not the kind of person a well-brought-up girl like yourself should be going out with at all, or else he lacks the manners he ought to have. At his age, he certainly should know the correct thing to do, and be able to meet your parents without self-consciousness. You should make it perfectly plain that you expect certain things of any young man you go out with, and that you don't go out on any other basis.

Frankly, I do think 16 is too young for 25, for many reasons, and that it would be much better for you to stick to friends in your own age group.

The Chrysler Strike And What It Could Lead To

The Chrysler strike, which was still in progress when this was written, differs somewhat from the rail walkout that has been averted and the month-long work stoppage in the soft coal fields earlier this spring. Of itself, it does not threaten paralysis of the nation's productive system and thereby imperil the national health and safety. But it is a matter of nationwide concern.

It is serious because it is plainly meant to be a test of strength. If the UAW wins a clear victory, it will be forerunner of other strikes in motors—to be followed by still others throughout manufacturing industry. The result could be a sort of creeping paralysis that would result in grave losses of output. Or it could be a third round of wage increases that would give the inflationary spiral another dizzy upward thrust.

This is an old story. The nation has seen it unfolded twice before, to the accompaniment of similar warnings, only to have the prophecies borne out. Union leaders deny that the first and second rounds brought the higher prices they now cite as a reason for demanding another wage increase—yet the predictions are on record and they have been fulfilled.

The United Auto Workers contend that workers must have more money to match the rise in the living costs. But wage increases not justified by greater output result in increased costs of production and higher prices. The consequence is that even the workers who are able to exact more pay through their unions, eventually find that they are the losers. Less favored workers, who cannot get raises, are hurt even worse.

The public reaction to strikes for sharply increased pay is now bad. Every school child realizes that wage raises without increased production simply mean higher prices for everybody. The Taft-Hartley Act is another limiting factor. While it does not, of course, outlaw strikes, it limits picketing, sympathy strikes and other strike-aids under the Wagner law. Finally, the Government is now forbidding strikes in essential industries, like coal and rail transport.

All this helps explain why so many recent strikes have been lost and why there have been fewer strike threats. The number of cases before the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service declined from 182 to 107 between May 1, 1947, and May 1, 1948.

To repeat, the outcome of the Chrysler case will have an important bearing on the future industrial picture. If the strikers win 17 cents an hour raise, they will encourage a more vigorous third round effort. If they come out with only the six cents offered by the company, they will probably make the third round, at most, a feeble imitation of its predecessor in '46 and '47. Then maybe the Nation's industries can buckle down to raising worker income through increased production, which would benefit everybody.

England's prize milk producing cow drinks a half gallon of beer a day. Presumably, consumers blow the foam off the milk.

Cost of Two World Wars Has Been Tremendous

While the world will continue to stand in fear of another war unless a peaceful understanding is reached with Moscow, the United States and the two European powers, it will do no harm to consider, in a general way the tremendous cost of the last two in which the United States had major parts.

The people realize in a vague way the financial cost to the United States, although it is difficult for the average person to visualize $250,000,000,000, the present national debt. This is what the last two wars cost, in addition to the hundreds of billions that have been paid on account.

But there have been other costs which are not directly represented in dollars and cents and for that reason are not readily apparent.

Although cities of the United States have not been touched by bombs, they have been damaged by inability to make improvements for which there would have been materials and capital had there been no war. There would be no housing shortage at the moment had not war destroyed vast quantities of the materials from which homes are constructed.

And because of the cost of war, and the national debt that resulted, inflation has reduced the value of the dollar and all those things in which dollars are invested.

Even so, the United States is much better off than any other nation. Economists say that it will require at least 100 years to restore such countries as Germany, France and even England. Not only are they prostrate economically, but the national spirit has been damaged seriously.

If future wars could be postponed until past wars are paid for, there would be no more wars.

A church group suggests improving Russo-American relations. Yes, of course. How do we start?

Portent In Korea

Koreans have declared emphatically in favor of a free and independent nation. That is the meaning of the election held in the American-occupied zone of that country.

More than 90 per cent of eligible voters went to the polls. The Communists and some other minor political parties boycotted the election. Not content with that, the Communists used threats and actual terrorism in an effort to intimidate voters into staying home. There were at least 79 deaths in disturbances just before and during the balloting. But the returns show that most Koreans insisted on exercising their right to vote even though it cost some of them their lives.

The constituent assembly will be made up mostly of moderates devoted to the ideal of a sovereign Korean state with a democratic system of government. At least it will not be likely to listen to Russian blandishments or to submit to Russian attempts at coercion.

Full realization of Korean aspirations is, no doubt, far distant. Dr Syngman Rhee, who may become the chief executive of the new government, has pointed out that this was the first election in 4,000 years of Korean history and that it came "after 40 years of bitter and unwilling slavery under the Japanese."

Nevertheless, Koreans have shown that they know where they want to go. What happened in Korea is a hopeful portent.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

The anxiety reflex is present in all human beings and acts as a protective mechanism to keep us on the alert against danger. But should the feeling of apprehension become habitual and increase in strength and dominance, it may surpass all other impulses and continue as the guiding principle in life.

Dr. Van Dellen

One of the characteristics of chronic anxiety is that the tension which is present all the time gives rise to symptoms resembling those resulting from disease. This is more noticeable in adults, which is why it is important to recognize the state early. In this way much can be done to prevent nervous disorders in the future.

A child would not be normal if he never became timid or alarmed but if these tendencies are so persistent and intense as to interfere with everyday living, something is wrong. As a rule, the newborn has only two fears: a loud noise and loss of equilibrium. A baby will jump, cry, or tense his muscles when a sudden noise is made or the parents go through the motions of dropping him. But by the eighth month, expressions of other fears may be noted. Thereafter such reactions are individual problems and depend upon how the youngster evaluates each scare as it presents itself.

Anxieties that occur as a result of poor adjustment and insecurity do the most damage because they stem from imaginary rather than real dangers. Tension prevails even during sleep, leading to restlessness combined with manifestations of fear, piercing cries, weeping, or incoherent talking. They are forgotten by morning but the difficulties which some parents encounter in trying to put their offspring to sleep at night may indicate that the tots are more aware of the situation than the family realizes.

In others, tenseness leads to digestive troubles, poor appetite, diarrhea, bedwetting, or speech difficulties such as stuttering. The spoiled child or juvenile delinquent may also fall into this category. Furthermore, the youngster who is unduly anxious begins to meet every experience with a feeling of inadequacy. Those who are imaginative have the faculty of fancying hazards that do not exist; as grownups, they are real "calamity Janes." New situations throw them into despair; they look for support and usually obtain it. The tension is due to rebellion against their upbringing, acting as a compensation for their feeling of uselessness and inability to cope with the world.

Many have not received the attention and love so necessary in the early years of life. Some become frustrated when they are not allowed to develop at a pace in keeping with their age. As two-year-olds they were punished for following their natural impulses of exploring, and often breaking, every new article they could find. Bowel control was expected of them long before they were ready. Others were pampered instead of being given tasks to strengthen their sense of responsibility. This type of personal satisfaction is the best antidote for emotional instability and only in this way can the child demonstrate that he is an efficient and approved member of his family and school.

Perfect. The amount of iron in the blood cells (hemoglobin) can be measured by various methods and is reported in percentage figures or in grams. Thus in one type of test an individual having 14.5 grams per 100 ccm. of blood, has a normal percentage.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Relax men, now you can let the wind blow your top.

Thursday, May 13, was official straw hat day here in Los Angeles and to whip up business the downtown business men's association dropped miniature straw hats with parachutes out of a helicopter. It was a sort of airborne bonnet barrage.

I can visualize that thrilling scene in the plane. As soon as they flew by the haberdashers, a voice was heard on the inter-com, "Panama to straw Katie . . . over target."

The imported Baku weave turned to the coconut braid with a striped band and said, "All right, men, this is it."

Just before the jump they all synchronized bands, then the sturdy-crown shape . . . square in back, pointed in front . . . opened the escape hatch and they all plunged earthward, heading for the nearest head.

Of course, they expected a few casualties. Beforehand, they got word that the anti-hat group was sending out horses to eat up their reserve.

But this surely was an exciting event and I hope the operation was a success. Just picture those headlines, "Mission accomplished . . . stock low . . . profits high."

LONG STYLES ARE BACK IN LOUISIANA

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Sec. Royall Would Resign Before Ordering Segregation Abolished In Army; Sen. Wherry Sends Personal Telegrams "On Government"

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, May 17—Secretary of Defense James Forrestal and Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall had a secret session with the Senate Armed Services Committee the other day at which Royall stated that he would resign before ordering segregation abolished in the Army.

This significant incident took place after Southern Senators mutinied against the draft bill and demanded a guarantee that white inductees would not be forced to serve with Negroes.

Immediately a four-bell alarm was put through to Secretary of Defense Forrestal. He hurried up to Capitol Hill, bringing with Him as a reinforcement Secretary Royall, a native of North Carolina.

Forrestal explained to Senators that any amendment protecting the right of an inductee to serve exclusively with members of his own race would be "unworkable from an administrative point of view."

Senator Russell of Georgia, however, brushed this aside. Picking up a copy of the President's civil rights message, Russell read:

"During the recent war and in the years since its close we have made much progress toward equality of opportunity in our armed services without regard to race, color, religion or national origin. I (Truman) have instructed the Secretary of Defense to take steps to have the remaining instances of discrimination in the armed services eliminated as rapidly as possible."

"What about this?" demanded the Senator from Georgia, laying down the mesasage and glaring at Forrestal. It looked, observed Russell, as if the Secretary of Defense had a directive from his Commander-in-Chief to abolish segregation.

Royall To Rescue

Forrestal mumbled that there was no cause for alarm. Whereupon Royall interceded: "I don't believe that was in the mind of the President. If such a provision is put into operation, I will no longer be Secretary of the Army.

Forrestal remarked that the alarm of some members of the committee is ill-advised, but Russell and Maybank of South Carolina stuck to their guns.

"I am not going to vote for any bill, not knowing what the President is going to do," snapped Maybank.

The above amendment upholding segregation was not submitted by Russell, as reported in the press, but by an anti. segregation Yankee, New Hampshire's Senator Styles Bridges. Bridges made it clear, however, he did not support the bill, only offered it "for discussion."

Actually Russell had introduced an earlier amendment, recognizing only two races—the "principal minority race' and all other Americans. It further stipulated that officers disobeying the segregation clause would be court-martialed for "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman."

Maj. Gen. Verne D. Mudge, Army adviser to the Senate Armed Services Committee, approved Russell's general idea, but suggested toning down the language.

Southern Senators accepted this sugar-coated, rewritten amendment, but Senator Russell appealed for "someone outside the South" to introduce it. That was how Bridges happened to agree to bring it up for discussion, though not to support it. After hearing it read, however, he gasped, "My God, I'm sick," and walked out.

When the debate reached the voting point, Oregon's Senator Wayne Morse protested against taking the roll call vote in secret.

"I want no secrecy," he blurted. "I have been accused of leaking information to Drew Pearson, and I don't want a secret vote, then be blamed when it appears in Drew Pearson's column."

So the results of the vote were announced, 7 to 4 against the segregation amendment, but not how each Senator voted. However, here is the secret roll call: Hill of Alabama, Byrd of Virginia, Maybank of South Carolina voted "present" on the final bill, but with Russell for the amendment. Gurney of South Dakota, Wilson of Iowa, Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Morse of Oregon and Baldwin of Connecticut voted against segregation. Gurney also held the proxy of Yyoming's Robertson. Bridges stayed away, and Kilgore of West Virginia was absent.

GOP Economy

Nebraska's economy-preaching Senator Kenneth Wherry sent off 93 political telegrams the other day, and charged them to the U. S. Government whose funds he is always slashing.

Wherry wired at Government expense to 93 Republican county chairmen in Nebraska as follows:

"Please convey my sincere greeting to your Republican county convention and regret I cannot join you . . . Your session is vital for it fixes the grass-roots pattern for success we can confidently anticipate if everyone does not share in behalf of our common goal."

When political opponents exposed what he had done, Wherry hurriedly paid up the bill, claimed the Western Union operator had made a mistake.

Big Change At White House

Reminiscing with friends recently, Mayor David Lawrence of Pittsburgh, who is Democratic national committeeman from Pennsylvania, uncorked the following barbed comments:

"Back in the days when I used to call on Franklin Roosevelt, he always made a point of asking me: 'How are things going in Pennsylvania? What are they saying about me?'

"F. D. R. always wanted to know the score, especially about any trends in public opinion. But Harry Truman, while I admire his honesty and sincerity, never asks us questions like that. It isn't that he isn't interested, but he depends too much on a little clique of White House advisers to tell him what's going on in the country. And more often than not he gets bum advice.

"When the Democratic National Committee had its last meeting in Washington, we expected Chairman Howard McGrath to invite us to get our problems off our chests when we called on the President. We thought that would be the first order of business, as it used to be in the old days. But neither McGrath nor the President made a move to ask us. Finally, some of us spoke up on our own.

"Yes, there's a big change at the White House," concluded Mayor Lawrence, "and I doubt that it's helping the party."

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Stassen In Action

KLAMATH FALLS, ORE.

The strangest aspect of this strange, decisive Oregon primary is the opportunity of seeing men running for the Presidency as though they were running for county sheriff. Harold E. Stassen and Thomas E. Dewey both appear, so to speak, in the sweaty undress of candidates who must sniff out the last, lingering vote in Lovely Street and Possum Hollow. And since they have torn off their official togas for the struggle, the real men are suddenly on view, with all their wens, warts and other distinguishing marks. Occasionally, it is an odd spectacle.

From this ordeal, Harold E. Stassen emerges as probably the most remarkable younger leader American public life has produced since the beginning of the Roosevelt era. He has, first of all, stature. Nature made him a very big man, with a head so large that it seems almost out of proportion to his small, rather regular features. Early middle age has added a good deal to nature's original design, so that in mere bulk he dwarfs all the thousands who daily swarm to hear him and to shake his hand.

His bulk helps him, undoubtedly, yet it is far from being bulk which mainly contributes to this initial impression of the size of the man. Determination, coolness and good humor in difficulty, a certain obvious solidarity of character, an agreeable plainness and absence of calculated graces, an extraordinary self-confidence and feeling of power — these are some of the traits which permit him to dominate, without great effort, the uncounted gatherings that he addresses daily. He does not have to assert his own importance. He is a big man, in both senses of the word, on his face.

Only an inherently big man could avoid looking ridiculous as a Presidential candidate, and still go through this routine of bus trips, plane journeys, stops to be nice to school children, stops to speak in front of railroad stations, ceremonial greetings by Indians, luncheons in Grange halls and public dinners of tired fried hen and pallid canned peas.

As one trails behind Stassen through this grueling routine, its main incidents begin to form a composite picture. Before entering Hood River, or Klamath Falls, or wherever it may be, there is a short whispered conference at the front of the bus — Stassen's local manager is telling the candidate what local special interests require loving mention. Then there is the panorama of the grand entrance: The superb mountains of this superbly green and beautiful Oregon landscape form a backdrop for the little town. The shop fronts and shabby public buildings form a backdrop for the crowd of one or two or three thousand people.

The people are plain, cheerful, full of visible intelligent interests, singularly various in type, but almost all, whether young and vigorous or old and weatherbeaten, calculated to inspire what the candidate is later to describe as "confidence in this great America of ours." They cheer Stassen mildly. There follows the introduction by a local notable, and the speech by the candidate, delivered from an often rather shaky improvised rostrum.

Here in Oregon, Stassen is attempting no Gladstonian Midlothian campaign, with one great exposition of a complex subject following another up to a crashing climax. The speech is always the same speech.

"I bring a message of confidence in America" — "We must build a better future" — "I have always favored reclamation" (for irrigation, or whatever the local interest may be) — "We must remain strong" — "The Communists cannot be allowed to attack our system both overground and underground." The same points are always applauded, especially the attacks on the Communists. There are even the same jokes, that get a laugh although they appear to have been borrowed from the collection of anecdotes in Sigmund Freud's essay on humor, which comprises the unfunniest funny stories in the world.

After the speech there is the

Change In Soviet Personnel May Mean Change In Policy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 17 — Is Russia on the verge of a gradual change in external policy throughout the world?

More significant perhaps than the recent declaration of the Soviets of their willingness to enter into a discussion of existing differences is the abrupt change of front by Russia in reopening the Port of Dairen in China which had been closed to Americans for three years and also the sudden recall of important Soviet personnel from various posts.

Thus, Ambassador Gromyko, who had skillfully and suavely handled Russian affairs in the United Nations for several months, has been replaced by another envoy—Jacob Malik, just arrived from Moscow. Likewise, in Berlin, many of the high officers of the Russian command are being recalled to Moscow and others are being sent in as replacements.

When some governments make a change either in their presidents or prime ministers or parliaments, shifts in national or international policy are taken for granted. In the case of a totalitarian government, a shift in program is often brought into being by a complete change in spokesmen.

When the Russians in 1939 embarked on their pro-Hitler policy they removed M. Litvinoff, foreign minister, who had been friendly to the democracies. Other such changes have occurred many times since and have heralded important alterations in policy.

Change Is Logical

If the Soviet Union has determined on an era of mild co-operation rather than harassment and annoying negation in international conferences, then it is natural for different personnel to be selected. It would not do, for instance, for Ambassador Gromyko now to make statements diametrically opposed to what he had been saying.

It may well be that in the Kremlin a shift in policy is regarded as a natural reorientation of policy in changing circumstances and that there is no embarrassment felt about reversing previous positions in a bargaining process.

Certainly within a week or two it should be possible to know the extent to which the Soviets have changed front. Evidence will be forthcoming doubtless in various committees of the United Nations. It would not be at all surprising, for instance, to see Russia consent to a modification of the veto on procedural matters. Such a change is really not substantial but it would create a favorable impression everywhere.

Moscow may be getting ready also to show in other ways a conciliatory disposition. A reconvening of the four-power conferences to settle German and Austrian questions may be confidently expected if the Russians indicate the nature of the revisions of previous policy they now are willing to make.

Two-Power Exchange Overlooked

There is reason to believe that Ambassador Smith at Moscow did not interpret the Molotov reply as meaning a reopening of two-power conversations but as a rejection of a four-power conference at this time. So much has the American government been expecting the action of Russia to concern a resumption of four-power consultations that the significance of the Russian willingness to talk things over first in two-power exchanges through diplomatic channels appears to have been overlooked. Maybe the departure of the American ambassador on a fishing trip prompted the Russians to make public the notes as one way of accelerating action.

The exposure of all the details of the exchanges of last week has helped to point up the possibility that much exploratory work can be done at Moscow between the American and Soviet governments and that an outline of what may be accomplished in such a larger conference now can be made.

One thing seems necessary and that's a return of Ambassador Smith from his fishing trip. There is considerable puzzlement as to why he didn't receive instructions to cancel the trip and start in on the consultations that could prove the forerunner of big developments in the world.

Meanwhile, the administration is receiving criticism for failing to keep the door open wide. The truth is that the publicity given the diplomatic exchanges has been of such a varied nature that the Soviets are tending to discount the harsh official utterances here that have greeted Russian willingness to enter into discussions. The pressure to pursue the exchanges of notes and to find a basis for agreement is strong. There is suddenly a conviction that peace talks need not be futile and that they could conceivably be constructive, though agreements at an early date and on all outstanding issues can hardly be expected until both sides have indicated a true willingness to adjust their viewpoints.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The President and Congress

REALLY great Presidents seek to preserve orderly government within the Constitutional framework. Ours is a peculiar type of government, doctrinaire in many respects, particularly in the division of powers among the Executive, the Legislative and the Judicial. The theory is that by means of this division of powers, tyranny becomes impossible. A process of checks and balances was instituted in the hope that no one man or one part of the government would act wilfully, in opposition to the rights and interests of the people.

The extreme New Dealers have regarded this form of government as confusing and expensive. Their objective has been a concentration of power in the Executive, Congress becoming a "rubber stamp," and the Courts, instruments of the Presidential will.

The "rubber stamp" Congress, in theory, would be closer to the British Parliament than to traditional American representative government. The President would, in effect, control the Congress as the Prime Minister controls Parliament.

The fallacy in all this is that whereas the members of the British Parliament represent a political party in the House of Commons and each man only himself in the House of Lords, a member of the American Senate represents the sovereign state which chooses him and a member of the House of Representatives is the representative of the whole of a particular constituency irrespective of party. The British parliamentary system makes the government, in both its legislative and executive functions, the activity of a majority party. The judiciary is separate, permanent, and non-political. In the United States, the political party is not much more than a vehicle for the election of officials; in office, each official functions individually. Thus, when votes are counted in either the Senate or the House of Representatives, it is not unusual to find members of either party on the opposite side of the party's leadership.

Mr. Truman assumes, for the Executive, an authority which is British rather than American. He regards the Republican Congress as a personal opposition and he fights it politically. Congress has shown unusual forebearance in its treatment of the Executive.

For instance, Averell Harriman, on orders of the President, declined to give a Congressional Committee information which it rightly desired in pursuit of its legislative business. The Speaker of the House could have sent a sergeant-at-arms to arrest Mr. Harriman, bring him before the House, give him an opportunity to purge himself of contempt, and if not, to keep him under arrest until he did purge himself. It is not necessary for the House to go through any judicial branch of the Government.

Or, it could have taken a milder step. When Mr. Harriman's name came before the Senate for confirmation as Ambassador associated with ERP, the Senate could have, and in my opinion should have, refused to confirm him on the ground that he had been contemptuous of Congress and therefore is unworthy of its confirmation. The Constitution clearly gives the Senate this power.

The leadership of Congress has been extraordinarily weak in its failure to safeguard and preserve its prerogatives. And this failure is harmful to the country because when due process is evaded, confusion must follow. Shallow minds regard legalisms as obstacles to swift action; yet, experience and wisdom show that it is not speed that promotes order but adherence to the rules. Anyone who passes through a red light knows the difference.

Harry Truman's smart-aleck repetition of Andrew Jackson's vulgarism that Congress can try to enforce its decisions, is a juvenile retort to a great political problem involving the very existence of our form of government. In a word, if the Executive defies Congress and Congress defies the Executive, we have not a government but an anarchy.

If Congress refused the Executive appropriations would Mr. Truman collect them anyhow? If he did, he would become a thief, and if he arrested citizens for not paying, he would become a tyrant. This extreme example shows how illogical Truman's position is.

The fact of the matter is that Truman is loyally trying to cover up the errors of the Roosevelt Administration, particularly as regards the conduct of the war. Personal loyalty is no substitute for orderly government.

The Chrysler Strike And What It Could Lead To

The Chrysler strike, which was still in progress when this was written, differs somewhat from the rail walkout that has been averted and the month-long work stoppage in the soft coal fields earlier this spring. Of itself, it does not threaten paralysis of the nation's productive system and thereby imperil the national health and safety. But it is a matter of nationwide concern.

It is serious because it is plainly meant to be a test of strength. If the UAW wins a clear victory, it will be forerunner of other strikes in motors—to be followed by still others throughout manufacturing industry. The result could be a sort of creeping paralysis that would result in grave losses of output. Or it could be a third round of wage increases that would give the inflationary spiral another dizzy upward thrust.

This is an old story. The nation has seen it unfolded twice before, to the accompaniment of similar warnings, only to have the prophecies borne out. Union leaders deny that the first and second rounds brought the higher prices they now cite as a reason for demanding another wage increase—yet the predictions are on record and they have been fulfilled.

The United Auto Workers contend that workers must have more money to match the rise in the living costs. But wage increases not justified by greater output result in increased costs of production and higher prices. The consequence is that even the workers who are able to exact more pay through their unions, eventually find that they are the losers. Less favored workers, who cannot get raises, are hurt even worse.

The public reaction to strikes for sharply increased pay is now bad. Every school child realizes that wage raises without increased production simply mean higher prices for everybody. The Taft-Hartley Act is another limiting factor. While it does not, of course, outlaw strikes, it limits picketing, sympathy strikes and other strike-aids under the Wagner law. Finally, the Government is now forbidding strikes in essential industries, like coal and rail transport.

All this helps explain why so many recent strikes have been lost and why there have been fewer strike threats. The number of cases before the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service declined from 182 to 107 between May 1, 1947, and May 1, 1948.

To repeat, the outcome of the Chrysler case will have an important bearing on the future industrial picture. If the strikers win 17 cents an hour raise, they will encourage a more vigorous third round effort. If they come out with only the six cents offered by the company, they will probably make the third round, at most, a feeble imitation of its predecessor in '46 and '47. Then maybe the Nation's industries can buckle down to raising worker income through increased production, which would benefit everybody.

England's prize milk producing cow drinks a half gallon of beer a day. Presumably, consumers blow the foam off the milk.

Cost of Two World Wars Has Been Tremendous

While the world will continue to stand in fear of another war unless a peaceful understanding is reached with Moscow, the United States and the two European powers, it will do no harm to consider, in a general way the tremendous cost of the last two in which the United States had major parts.

The people realize in a vague way the financial cost to the United States, although it is difficult for the average person to visualize $250,000,000,000, the present national debt. This is what the last two wars cost, in addition to the hundreds of billions that have been paid on account.

But there have been other costs which are not directly represented in dollars and cents and for that reason are not readily apparent.

Although cities of the United States have not been touched by bombs, they have been damaged by inability to make improvements for which there would have been materials and capital had there been no war. There would be no housing shortage at the moment had not war destroyed vast quantities of the materials from which homes are constructed.

And because of the cost of war, and the national debt that resulted, inflation has reduced the value of the dollar and all those things in which dollars are invested.

Even so, the United States is much better off than any other nation. Economists say that it will require at least 100 years to restore such countries as Germany, France and even England. Not only are they prostrate economically, but the national spirit has been damaged seriously.

If future wars could be postponed until past wars are paid for, there would be no more wars.

A church group suggests improving Russo-American relations. Yes, of course. How do we start?

As two-year-olds they were punished for following their natural impulses of exploring, and often breaking, every new article they could find. Bowel control was expected of them long before they were ready. Others were pampered instead of being given tasks to strengthen their sense of responsibility. This type of personal satisfaction is the best antidote for emotional instability and only in this way can the child demonstrate that he is an efficient and approved member of his family and school.

Perfect. The amount of iron in the blood cells (hemoglobin) can be measured by various methods and is reported in percentage figures or in grams. Thus in one type of test an individual having 14.5 grams per 100 ccm. of blood, has a normal percentage.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Relax men, now you can let the wind blow your top.

Thursday, May 13, was official straw hat day here in Los Angeles and to whip up business the downtown business men's association dropped miniature straw hats with parachutes out of a helicopter. It was a sort of airborne bonnet barrage.

I can visualize that thrilling scene in the plane. As soon as they flew by the haberdashers, a voice was heard on the inter-com, "Panama to straw Katie . . . over target."

The imported Baku weave turned to the coconut braid with a striped band and said, "All right, men, this is it."

Just before the jump they all synchronized bands, then the sturdy-crown shape . . . square in back, pointed in front . . . opened the escape hatch and they all plunged earthward, heading for the nearest head.

Of course, they expected a few casualties. Beforehand, they got word that the anti-hat group was sending out horses to eat up their reserve.

But this surely was an exciting event and I hope the operation was a success. Just picture those headlines, "Mission accomplished . . . stock low . . . profits high."

LONG STYLES ARE BACK IN LOUISIANA

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Sec. Royall Would Resign Before Ordering Segregation Abolished In Army; Sen. Wherry Sends Personal Telegrams "On Government"

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, May 17—Secretary of Defense James Forrestal and Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall had a secret session with the Senate Armed Services Committee the other day at which Royall stated that he would resign before ordering segregation abolished in the Army.

This significant incident took place after Southern Senators mutinied against the draft bill and demanded a guarantee that white inductees would not be forced to serve with Negroes.

Immediately a four-bell alarm was put through to Secretary of Defense Forrestal. He hurried up to Capitol Hill, bringing with Him as a reinforcement Secretary Royall, a native of North Carolina.

Forrestal explained to Senators that any amendment protecting the right of an inductee to serve exclusively with members of his own race would be "unworkable from an administrative point of view."

Senator Russell of Georgia, however, brushed this aside. Picking up a copy of the President's civil rights message, Russell read:

"During the recent war and in the years since its close we have made much progress toward equality of opportunity in our armed services without regard to race, color, religion or national origin. I (Truman) have instructed the Secretary of Defense to take steps to have the remaining instances of discrimination in the armed services eliminated as rapidly as possible."

"What about this?" demanded the Senator from Georgia, laying down the mesasage and glaring at Forrestal. It looked, observed Russell, as if the Secretary of Defense had a directive from his Commander-in-Chief to abolish segregation.

Royall To Rescue

Forrestal mumbled that there was no cause for alarm. Whereupon Royall interceded: "I don't believe that was in the mind of the President. If such a provision is put into operation, I will no longer be Secretary of the Army.

Forrestal remarked that the alarm of some members of the committee is ill-advised, but Russell and Maybank of South Carolina stuck to their guns.

"I am not going to vote for any bill, not knowing what the President is going to do," snapped Maybank.

The above amendment upholding segregation was not submitted by Russell, as reported in the press, but by an anti-segregation Yankee, New Hampshire's Senator Styles Bridges. Bridges made it clear, however, he did not support the bill, only offered it "for discussion."

Actually Russell had introduced an earlier amendment, recognizing only two races—the "principal minority race' and all other Americans. It further stipulated that officers disobeying the segregation clause would be court-martialed for "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman."

Maj. Gen. Verne D. Mudge, Army adviser to the Senate Armed Services Committee, approved Russell's general idea, but suggested toning down the language.

Southern Senators accepted this sugar-coated, rewritten amendment, but Senator Russell appealed for "someone outside the South" to introduce it. That was how Bridges happened to agree to bring it up for discussion, though not to support it. After hearing it read, however, he gasped, "My God, I'm sick," and walked out.

When the debate reached the voting point, Oregon's Senator Wayne Morse protested against taking the roll call vote in secret.

"I want no secrecy," he blurted. "I have been accused of leaking information to Drew Pearson, and I don't want a secret vote, then be blamed when it appears in Drew Pearson's column."

So the results of the vote were announced, 7 to 4 against the segregation amendment, but not how each Senator voted. However, here is the secret roll call: Hill of Alabama, Byrd of Virginia, Maybank of South Carolina voted "present" on the final bill, but with Russell for the amendment. Gurney of South Dakota, Wilson of Iowa, Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Morse of Oregon and Baldwin of Connecticut voted against segregation. Gurney also held the proxy of Yyoming's Robertson. Bridges stayed away, and Kilgore of West Virginia was absent.

GOP Economy

Nebraska's economy-preaching Senator Kenneth Wherry sent off 93 political telegrams the other day, and charged them to the U. S. Government whose funds he is always slashing.

Wherry wired at Government expense to 93 Republican county chairmen in Nebraska as follows:

"Please convey my sincere greeting to your Republican county convention and regret I cannot join you . . . Your session is vital for it fixes the grass-roots pattern for success we can confidently anticipate if everyone does not share in behalf of our common goal."

When political opponents exposed what he had done, Wherry hurriedly paid up the bill, claimed the Western Union operator had made a mistake.

Big Change At White House

Reminiscing with friends recently, Mayor David Lawrence of Pittsburgh, who is Democratic national committeeman from Pennsylvania, uncorked the following barbed comments:

"Back in the days when I used to call on Franklin Roosevelt, he always made a point of asking me: 'How are things going in Pennsylvania? What are they saying about me?'

"F. D. R. always wanted to know the score, especially about any trends in public opinion. But Harry Truman, while I admire his honesty and sincerity, never asks us questions like that. It isn't that he isn't interested, but he depends too much on a little clique of White House advisers to tell him what's going on in the country. And more often than not he gets bum advice.

"When the Democratic National Committee had its last meeting in Washington, we expected Chairman Howard McGrath to invite us to get our problems off our chests when we called on the President. We thought that would be the first order of business, as it used to be in the old days. But neither McGrath nor the President made a move to ask us. Finally, some of us spoke up on our own.

"Yes, there's a big change at the White House," concluded Mayor Lawrence, "and I doubt that it's helping the party."

MATTER OF FACT

KLAMATH FALLS, ORE.

The strangest aspect of this strange, decisive Oregon primary is the opportunity of seeing men running for the Presidency as though they were running for county sheriff. Harold E. Stassen and Thomas E. Dewey both appear, so to speak, in the sweaty undress of candidates who must sniff out the last, lingering vote in Lovely Street and Possum Hollow. And since they have torn off their official togas for the struggle, the real men are suddenly on view, with all their wens, warts and other distinguishing marks. Occasionally, it is an odd spectacle.

From this ordeal, Harold E. Stassen emerges as probably the most remarkable younger leader American public life has produced since the beginning of the Roosevelt era. He has, first of all, stature. Nature made him a very big man, with a head so large that it seems almost out of proportion to his small, rather regular features. Early middle age has added a good deal to nature's original design, so that in mere bulk he dwarfs all the thousands who daily swarm to hear him and to shake his hand.

His bulk helps him, undoubtedly, yet it is far from being bulk which mainly contributes to this initial impression of the size of the man. Determination, coolness and good humor in difficulty, a certain obvious solidarity of character, an agreeable plainness and absence of calculated graces, an extraordinary self-confidence and feeling of power — these are some of the traits which permit him to dominate, without great effort, the uncounted gatherings that he addresses daily. He does not have to assert his own importance. He is a big man, in both senses of the word, on his face.

Only an inherently big man could avoid looking ridiculous as a Presidential candidate, and still go through this routine of bus trips, plane journeys, stops to be nice to school children, stops to speak in front of railroad stations, ceremonial greetings by Indians, luncheons in Grange halls and public dinners of tired fried hen and pallid canned peas.

As one trails behind Stassen through this grueling routine, its main incidents begin to form a composite picture. Before entering Hood River, or Klamath Falls, or wherever it may be, there is a short whispered conference at the front of the bus — Stassen's local manager is telling the candidate what local special interests require loving mention. Then there is the panorama of the grand entrance: The superb mountains of this superbly green and beautiful Oregon landscape form a backdrop for the little town. The shop fronts and shabby public buildings form a backdrop for the crowd of one or two or three thousand people.

The people are plain, cheerful, full of visible intelligent interests, singularly various in type, but almost all, whether young and vigorous or old and weatherbeaten, calculated to inspire what the candidate is later to describe as "confidence in this great America of ours." They cheer Stassen mildly. There follows the introduction by a local notable, and the speech by the candidate, delivered from an often rather shaky improvised rostrum.

Here in Oregon, Stassen is attempting no Gladstonian Midlothian campaign, with one great exposition of a complex subject following another up to a crashing climax. The speech is always the same speech.

"I bring a message of confidence in America" — "We must build a better future" — "I have always favored reclamation" (for irrigation, or whatever the local interest may be) — "We must remain strong" — "The Communists cannot be allowed to attack our system both overground and underground." The same points are always applauded, especially the attacks on the Communists. There are even the same jokes, that get a laugh although they appear to have been borrowed from the collection of anecdotes in Sigmund Freud's essay on humor, which comprises the unfunniest funny stories in the world.

After the speech there is the

Change In Soviet Personnel May Mean Change In Policy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 17 — Is Russia on the verge of a gradual change in external policy throughout the world?

More significant perhaps than the recent declaration of the Soviets of their willingness to enter into a discussion of existing differences is the abrupt change of front by Russia in reopening the Port of Dairen in China which had been closed to Americans for three years and also the sudden recall of important Soviet personnel from various posts.

Thus, Ambassador Gromyko, who had skillfully and suavely handled Russian affairs in the United Nations for several months, has been replaced by another envoy—Jacob Malik, just arrived from Moscow. Likewise, in Berlin, many of the high officers of the Russian command are being recalled to Moscow and others are being sent in as replacements.

When some governments make a change either in their presidents or prime ministers or parliaments, shifts in national or international policy are taken for granted. In the case of a totalitarian government, a shift in program is often brought into being by a complete change in spokesmen.

When the Russians in 1939 embarked on their pro-Hitler policy they removed M. Litvinoff, foreign minister, who had been friendly to the democracies. Other such changes have occurred many times since and have heralded important alterations in policy.

Change Is Logical

If the Soviet Union has determined on an era of mild co-operation rather than harassment and annoying negation in international conferences, then it is natural for different personnel to be selected. It would not do, for instance, for Ambassador Gromyko now to make statements diametrically opposed to what he had been saying.

It may well be that in the Kremlin a shift in policy is regarded as a natural reorientation of policy in changing circumstances and that there is no embarrassment felt about reversing previous positions in a bargaining process.

Certainly within a week or two it should be possible to know the extent to which the Soviets have changed front. Evidence will be forthcoming doubtless in various committees of the United Nations. It would not be at all surprising, for instance, to see Russia consent to a modification of the veto on procedural matters. Such a change is really not substantial but it would create a favorable impression everywhere.

Moscow may be getting ready also to show in other ways a conciliatory disposition. A reconvening of the four-power conferences to settle German and Austrian questions may be confidently expected if the Russians indicate the nature of the revisions of previous policy they now are willing to make.

Two-Power Exchange Overlooked

There is reason to believe that Ambassador Smith at Moscow did not interpret the Molotov reply as meaning a reopening of two-power conversations but as a rejection of a four-power conference at this time. So much has the American government been expecting the action of Russia to concern a resumption of four-power consultations that the significance of the Russian willingness to talk things over first in two-power exchanges through diplomatic channels appears to have been overlooked. Maybe the departure of the American ambassador on a fishing trip prompted the Russians to make public the notes as one way of accelerating action.

The exposure of all the details of the exchanges of last week has helped to point up the possibility that much exploratory work can be done at Moscow between the American and Soviet governments and that an outline of what may be accomplished in such a larger conference now can be made.

One thing seems necessary and that's a return of Ambassador Smith from his fishing trip. There is considerable puzzlement as to why he didn't receive instructions to cancel the trip and start in on the consultations that could prove the forerunner of big developments in the world.

Meanwhile, the administration is receiving criticism for failing to keep the door open wide. The truth is that the publicity given the diplomatic exchanges has been of such a varied nature that the Soviets are tending to discount the harsh official utterances here that have greeted Russian willingness to enter into discussions. The pressure to pursue the exchanges of notes and to find a basis for agreement is strong. There is suddenly a conviction that peace talks need not be futile and that they could conceivably be constructive, though agreements at an early date and on all outstanding issues can hardly be expected until both sides have indicated a true willingness to adjust their viewpoints.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The President and Congress

REALLY great Presidents seek to preserve orderly government within the Constitutional framework. Ours is a peculiar type of government, doctrinaire in many respects, particularly in the division of powers among the Executive, the Legislative and the Judicial. The theory is that by means of this division of powers, tyranny becomes impossible. A process of checks and balances was instituted in the hope that no one man or one part of the government would act wilfully, in opposition to the rights and interests of the people.

The extreme New Dealers have regarded this form of government as confusing and expensive. Their objective has been a concentration of power in the Executive, Congress becoming a "rubber stamp," and the Courts, instruments of the Presidential will.

The "rubber stamp" Congress, in theory, would be closer to the British Parliament than to traditional American representative government. The President would, in effect, control the Congress as the Prime Minister controls Parliament.

The fallacy in all this is that whereas the members of the British Parliament represent a political party in the House of Commons and each man only himself in the House of Lords, a member of the American Senate represents the sovereign state which chooses him and a member of the House of Representatives is the representative of the whole of a particular constituency irrespective of party. The British parliamentary system makes the government, in both its legislative and executive functions, the activity of a majority party. The judiciary is separate, permanent, and non-political. In the United States, the political party is not much more than a vehicle for the election of officials; in office, each official functions individually. Thus, when votes are counted in either the Senate or the House of Representatives, it is not unusual to find members of either party on the opposite side of the party's leadership.

Mr. Truman assumes, for the Executive, an authority which is British rather than American. He regards the Republican Congress as a personal opposition and he fights it politically. Congress has shown unusual forebearance in its treatment of the Executive.

For instance, Averell Harriman, on orders of the President, declined to give a Congressional Committee information which it rightly desired in pursuit of its legislative business. The Speaker of the House could have sent a sergeant-at-arms to arrest Mr. Harriman, bring him before the House, give him an opportunity to purge himself of contempt, and if not, to keep him under arrest until he did purge himself. It is not necessary for the House to go through any judicial branch of the Government.

Or, it could have taken a milder step. When Mr. Harriman's name came before the Senate for confirmation as Ambassador associated with ERP, the Senate could have, and in my opinion should have, refused to confirm him on the ground that he had been contemptuous of Congress and therefore is unworthy of its confirmation. The Constitution clearly gives the Senate this power.

The leadership of Congress has been extraordinarily weak in its failure to safeguard and preserve its prerogatives. And this failure is harmful to the country because when due process is evaded, confusion must follow. Shallow minds regard legalisms as obstacles to swift action; yet, experience and wisdom show that it is not speed that promotes order but adherence to the rules. Anyone who passes through a red light knows the difference.

Harry Truman's smart-aleck repetition of Andrew Jackson's vulgarism that Congress can try to enforce its decisions, is a juvenile retort to a great political problem involving the very existence of our form of government. In a word, if the Executive defies Congress and Congress defies the Executive, we have not a government but an anarchy.

If Congress refused the Executive appropriations would Mr. Truman collect them anyhow? If he did, he would become a thief, and if he arrested citizens for not paying, he would become a tyrant. This extreme example shows how illogical Truman's position is.

The fact of the matter is that Truman is loyally trying to cover up the errors of the Roosevelt Administration, particularly as regards the conduct of the war. Personal loyalty is no substitute for orderly government.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

The rest of the world is watching our early May political rhubarb with freshly sharpened interest. It seems to think that voting without rioting is tyranny.

We certainly manage to get through the presidential equinoxes with a dexterity hatched of political experience. At the present we are trying to discover which transient patriot wants the next 16 years in the White House.

City Tax Case

that every taxpayer be called in to determine whatever shortage existed," Sloan stated.

Sloan then read from the city code which stated that it was the duty of the city auditor to prepare the tax rolls and prepare the tax ledger.

"It was as much the duty of the city auditor as the tax collector to prepare the tax statement and he also must make a monthly report. There has not been a single monthly report made since he (city auditor) has been there", Sloan said.

Sloan reiterated that if there is no civil responsibility then there can be no criminal liability.

Harris pointed out that there were 30 transctions which the state would attempt to show that Burke was involved in. After listing the tax collector's office personnel, Harris told the court that during the dates on which some of the alleged peculations took place, the assistant collector and acting assistant collector, Mrs. Thelma Alderton Streett and Mrs. Ruth Conway Moore, were on leaves of absence or vacations.

Thirty Items In Question

It was also stated by Harris that of the 30 items in question, two reported payments to the State Tax Commission, in two others in which receipts were given, in seven transactions there were no receipts while the remaining 19 transactions were irregular in that they did not go through the cash register in regular form, showing date, on which payment was made and other necessary data.

Harris said Burke had initialed the receipts and no other employe in the office put any writing on the receipts or certificates from the State Tax Commission. It was brought out by Harris that he would place an agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation on the stand to identify the handwriting on the papers as being that of Burke. Defense counsel said it wasn't necessary to do this as they admit the initials are those of their client.

Sloan said that Burke did not attend personally to all the matters pertaining to the tax office and the initialed receipts were handled by others in the office and as the work was only part of his routine duties.

"It doesn't indicate he personally handled the money," Sloan said.

Demonstration Given

A demonstration of the cash register used at the tax office was given by a representative of a national cash register concern and the two judges and counsel for both sides crowded around the device near the jury box.

Sloan also stated that the city will not lose a thing regardless of the outcome of the case as there is a total of about $12,000 in the bank which Burke has due in the form of commissions, etc.

Test Forms Available

Application forms are available at City Hall for the Civil Service Commission examination for city clerk, according to City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson, acting clerk. The examination is scheduled June 2.

POSSUM HUNTERS-- Mary Clauson, 223 Schley Street and Lois Purinton, 518 Washington Street, two local high school girls are probably the only members of the fair sex who have ever captured a 'possum on Washington Street. The girls caught "Pete", seen clinging to a News waste paper basket, and brought him to the News office with the query, "What shall we do with him?" After being photographed, the little animal, scared and hungry, was turned over to a game warden.

Pete The 'Possum Glad To Leave City After Most Trying Ordeal

"Pete the 'Possum" found Cumberland a rather unhealthy place (at least for opossums) Sunday when he was interrupted in a tour of West Side and subjected to a series of what must have been terribly trying experiences by two local high school girls, the News staff, and a deputy game warden.

The Perils of Pete began when he decided to leave his natural habitat and get a closer look at the city than he could achieve from the trees. He was wandering down Washington Street toward the business section at about 8:30 last night when he mets the girls, Marty Clauson, daughter of Mrs. W. L. Clauson, 223 Schley Street, and Lois Purinton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Purinton, 518 Washington Street. Both are students at Allegany High School.

The opossum stopped and stared, as did the girls. Finally he decided he'd be better off if he left, and he did. The girls decided to chase him, and Marty even climbed over a fence to get him. Pete ran straight for a dead end and was trapped in the sill of a basement window. A passerby aided the cause by lending Lois an umbrella, which was used to hold him to the ground until the girls, or Pete, could think up the next move. The girls did; Marty picked him up by the tail to avoid his sharp teeth. They carried him to a downtown drug store, where he caused quite a sensation, and probably suffered no end of nervous strain.

The girls then brought Pete to the News office for a picture. Pete wasn't very sociable, and didn't seem to be enjoying the interview at all. He clung fiercely to a wire waste basket unhappily observing the goings-on, and no doubt reflecting on his predicament.

Deputy Game Warden P. P. Ferrato was summoned, and took the animal away. He said Pete would be freed soon in surroundings less nerve-racking than those of a city, probably a much wiser 'possum for the ordeal.

DEATHS

MRS. NORA DOUGLAS

Mrs. Nora Adeline Douglas, 46, negress, a native of this city, died Sunday at her residence in Ellabelle, Ga., following a brief illness. The body will arrive here Wednesday.

Mrs. Douglas, wife of Lester Douglas ,left here in 1925 and resided in New Rochelle, N. Y., before moving to Ellabelle, near Savannah. Her parents were the late John and Alice Coalman Washington.

Besides her husband she is survived by a brother, George Washington, Baltimore; one half-brother, Joseph Washington, this city; two sisters, Mrs. Sadie Ruffner, New York, and Mrs. Roy Evans, this city, and a half-sister, Mrs. Mary Dorsey, Pine Avenue. She was a member of Ebenezer Baptist Church.

MRS. VIRGINIA PAYTON

Mrs. Virginia Payton, 59, was found dead about 7:30 a. m. yesterday in her first floor apartment at 1105 Lexington Avenue by Mrs. Delia Van Meter, who resides upstairs.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said he was told the woman had been suffering from a diabetic condition. The body was removed to Keyser, W. Va., for burial.

CHARLES E. VANPELT

Charles E. VanPelt, 71, died yesterday morning at the home of his son, Kermit B. VanPelt, Valley Road, following an illness of more than a year.

Born at Harrisonburg, Va., Mr. VanPelt resided here for the past 25 years. His parents were the late Henry and Jane VanPelt. He was the last surviving member of his immediate family.

Two other sons survive. They are Sterling B. and Wilmer C. VanPelt, both of this city; and three daughters, Mrs. Robert Lucas, and Mrs. Ronald Brannor, both of Washington; and Mrs. Rod Ford, Altoona, Pa.

MRS. HATTIE VOUGHT

A funeral service was held in Baton Rogue, La., for Mrs. Hattie Vought, 66, former employe of the Times and Alleganian Company, who died Saturday at her home there where she had resided for 25 years.

Mrs. Vought was born in Allegany County, a daughter of the late William and Frances Duckworth Vought. At one time she served as secretary to the late John W. Avirett, editor of the Times.

Her husband, Artaud H. Vought, was killed in an automobile accident about two years ago.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Anna K. Hill, and one niece, Mrs. Daniel McPherson, both of Baton Rogue. She had visited here frequently at the home of Mrs. Walter G. Kraus, 111 North Allegany Street.

Licot Dismissed, Post Abolished

Nestor J. Licot was dismissed yesterday as recreation director at Constitution Park and the post was abolished by the City Council, with Mayor Thomas S. Post casting the only negative vote.

The motion to oust Licot and abolish his position was introduced by Street and Park Commissioner Edgar Reynolds.

The post of recreation director was created by Mayor and Council Sept. 13, 1946, and Licot was appointed Oct. 7, 1946. His salary was $170 a month, but he received a $10 increase to $180 a month May 26, 1947.

Commissioner Reynolds explained Licot had been paid on a full time basis but the position was active only during warm weather. He said Licot had charge of only the swimming pool and was not needed for any other assignment.

The commissioner declared a pool manager will be named later to replace Licot at a reduced salary. He did not indicate what the salary will be.

Two Patrolmen Are Appointed

Following appointment yesterday of two men as probationary patrolmen, Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan disclosed that Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn will get the six additional policemen and one policewoman he has requested.

The new policemen are Leo E. P. Law and Charles E. Cubbage, both veterans of World War II. They will receive $170 monthly. Their appointments are effective at once.

Commissioner Keegan pointed out that whenever a policeman has a day off now or is ill, there is no one to fill in for him. Consequently, he pointed out, this means leaving the beat open, the traffic signal box empty, or assigning a detective to the beat.

At least eight additional men are needed, he said, to put the department at full strength. Provision has been made in the pending budget for the men, he added.

He said if he is given the eight additional men, patrolmen will be assigned permanently to beats, and an additional cruising car team will be created.

The commissioner reported two women took the Civil Service test for policewoman, but added that neither achieved a passing grade.

New applicants are expected, he said, and declared a policewoman definitely will be appointed.

Motorist Forfeits Bond After Crash

William G. Gordon, Route 3, Valley Road, forfeited bonds totaling $22.90 yesterday morning in Police Court following a minor traffic mishap earlier in the day. He was charged with operating a motor vehicle without a license and reckless driving. A similar charge against Gene K. Keister, Cresaptown, was dismissed.

C. Welton Cline, Jr., 449 Race Street, was fined $10.75 after pleading guilty to permitting an unauthorized person to drive his automobile. John E. Lewis, 221 Race Street, paid a fine of $5.75 for reckless driving and the same amount for not having a license.

James Walter Cox, 138 Seymour Street, forfeited $11.45 for driving without a license, while Kenneth P. Michael, Route 2, forfeited $6.45 on a charge of failing to stop at a stop sign.

Mortimer F. Twigg, Route 2, was fined $5.75 for failing to have a red light on the rear of his vehicle. He also received a suspended fine of $2.45 for not having a license in his possession when arrested.

Apprehend Two After South End Disturbance

Golda Cook, Cumberland, and William Howdyshell, Grand Avenue, Cumberland, were apprehended yesterday afternoon after, police said they created a disturbance in South End. Both were booked on drunk and disorderly counts, with Cook posting $10 bond. Howdyshell failed to post bond and was held in City Jail.

Carl Zais Arrested Here On Two Counts

Carl Zais, 125 Paca Street, was apprehended last night by City Police on a drunk and disorderly charge and is being held in the city jail pending a hearing today.

Hearings Set

Hearings will be given Raymond Williams, Bowling Green, and Brady S. Vetter, Moorefield, W. Va., Thursday morning in Police Court. Both posted $10 bond each after being arrested Sunday on West Side on careless driving charges.

Council Accepts Water Bond Bid

A joint high bid submitted by three Baltimore financial houses on two bond issues the city is seeking to finance laying of an auxiliary water line from Lake Gordon to Cumberland was accepted by the Mayor and Council in a special session yesterday afternoon.

Presented by the Mercantile Trust Company, Stein Brothers and Boyce, and Baker, Watts and Company, the bid fixes the premium at $6,037.50 and carries a two per cent interest rate. This is the amount the city would be paid on both issues, totaling $750,000.

The joint bid on both bond issues, one for $250,000 and the other for $500,000 City of Cumberland water improvement bonds, was at the rate of $100.805 per $100 par value, to bear the rate of two per cent interest yearly.

The bonds will mature at an annual rate of $30,000 and will be paid off in 30 years. The cost to the city over this period in interest charges will be 1.938 per cent.

Eighteen financial houses collaborated on the seven bids submitted on the two issues of $500,000 and $250,000. Council referred the bids to Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz and City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson for tabulation, and then recessed until 2 p. m.

Cost of the projected water line will be $744,838.20. Work is to begin within two weeks on the laying of the line, City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer said last week. The work will be done by the Cumberland Contracting Company.

Commissioner Buchholtz told council he has reached an agreement with a Cumberland bank to allow the city to deposit the funds from the bond issue, keep the account active and receive interest.

This is the first time the city ever has been able to make such an agreement, he said.

Construction of the auxiliary water line will double the city's capacity and will give residents an emergency source of water in the event of a break in the main line.

Local Men Appointed To Publication Staff

Dr. Elizabeth A. Atwater, faculty advisor at Potomac State School, Keyser, W. Va., has announced the appointment of two area students to positions on the Pasquino staff, a fortnightly publication of the school.

Those appointed were: Robert C. Crosby, son of Mrs. C. E. Crosby, 105 Frederick Street, feature editor, and C. Robert Spooler, Wiley Ford, alumni editor.

Two New Policemen To Be Added Here

One new policeman was added to the City Police force yesterday, according to Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn, and another will be added Friday.

The two men are Leo Law, 502 Warren Street, who went to work yesterday afternoon, and Charles E. Cubbage, 223 Baltimore Avenue, who is expected to report Friday.

Reports Billfold Stolen

Police were notified yesterday by Mrs. Joseph Kelly, 116 Harrison Street, that a billfold had been stolen from her purse while she was in Trozzo's Restaurant, also on Harrison Street. Mrs. Kelly reported the billfold contained $6 in bills and $2 in change and several personal papers.

question period. In town after town, the questions also form a pattern (U. M. T., Russia, the cost of living, the Taft-Hartley act) but they are shrewd and to the point. Stassen answers them plainly, brings the meeting to a close adroitly, and then shakes hands with a couple of hundred of the crowd. After that there is a reception of notables, and then the barnstorming party sets off again for its next date.

As his pattern repeats itself again and again, with trifling variations, certain additional impressions emerge. The speech that is so often repeated must be regarded as pretty superficial, for example, yet Stassen delivers it with unmistakable sincerity. Where he is talking of the genuinely important things like the American future, he really means what he says. He is never a mere mouthing politician, even when he makes his concessions to the crowd.

Again, however, one also notices a certain coldness and ruthlessness in estimating human beings. On one occasion, for instance, Stassen made a monkey out of Dewey simply by figuring out exactly what Dewey would do. Their buses were to pass on the same road. Stassen's bus was halted, to greet school children, at a town where Dewey was also to stop. Stassen delayed his bus until Dewey's hove into view. The whole crowd prepared for a genial meeting between candidates. The attendant photographers even made a sort of half-roadblock with a truck, but Dewey ordered his bus not to stop; and while Stassen waved and grinned, his rival was only observed peering out a window with a sickly grin, almost visibly ticketed "bad sport." On much larger scale, this kind of cool calculation must have entered largely into Stassen's meteoric rise.

Then, too, another ingredient of Stassen's success also becomes evident. The staff accompanying him is largely composed of men in their thirties, mere babies in politics. They give substance to the finest tribute Stassen has ever had, which came from an adherent of Senator Robert A. Taft's, who said bitterly, "If that man gets in, the old Republican party we've always known won't be the same party any more." Stassen has shaped his young men into an organization of unparalleled efficiency. He is one of the most effective political organizers of our time.

When one adds up these different qualities of Stassen's, and stacks them up with his performance here in Oregon and on the long political journey that has led to Oregon, a picture begins to form. It is the picture of a political leader, with all the complexi and inner contradiction that strong leaders always have, with real power, with real feeling for this country, with much else that is important. One question still remains, however, and this, oddly enough, is a query as to Stassen's true political views.

that every taxpayer be called in to determine whatever shortage existed," Sloan stated.

Sloan then read from the city code which stated that it was the duty of the city auditor to prepare the tax rolls and prepare the tax ledger.

"It was as much the duty of the city auditor as the tax collector to prepare the tax statement and he also must make a monthly report. There has not been a single monthly report made since he (city auditor) has been there", Sloan said.

Sloan reiterated that if there is no civil responsibility then there can be no criminal liability.

Harris pointed out that there were 30 transctions which the state would attempt to show that Burke was involved in. After listing the tax collector's office personnel, Harris told the court that during the dates on which some of the alleged peculations took place, the assistant collector and acting assistant collector, Mrs. Thelma Alderton Streett and Mrs. Ruth Conway Moore, were on leaves of absence or vacations.

Thirty Items In Question

It was also stated by Harris that of the 30 items in question, two reported payments to the State Tax Commission, in two others in which receipts were given, in seven transactions there were no receipts while the remaining 19 transactions were irregular in that they did not go through the cash register in regular form, showing date, on which payment was made and other necessary data.

Harris said Burke had initialed the receipts and no other employe in the office put any writing on the receipts or certificates from the State Tax Commission. It was brought out by Harris that he would place an agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation on the stand to identify the handwriting on the papers as being that of Burke. Defense counsel said it wasn't necessary to do this as they admit the initials are those of their client.

Sloan said that Burke did not attend personally to all the matters pertaining to the tax office and the initialed receipts were handled by others in the office and as the work was only part of his routine duties.

"It doesn't indicate he personally handled the money," Sloan said.

Demonstration Given

A demonstration of the cash register used at the tax office was given by a representative of a national cash register concern and the two judges and counsel for both sides crowded around the device near the jury box.

Sloan also stated that the city will not lose a thing regardless of the outcome of the case as there is a total of about $12,000 in the bank which Burke has due in the form of commissions, etc.

Test Forms Available

Application forms are available at City Hall for the Civil Service Commission examination for city clerk, according to City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson, acting clerk. The examination is scheduled June 2.

POSSUM HUNTERS--Mary Clauson, 223 Schley Street and Lois Purinton, 518 Washington Street, two local high school girls are probably the only members of the fair sex who have ever captured a 'possum on Washington Street. The girls caught "Pete", seen clinging to a News waste paper basket, and brought him to the News office with the query, "What shall we do with him?" After being photographed, the little animal, scared and hungry, was turned over to a game warden.

Pete The 'Possum Glad To Leave City After Most Trying Ordeal

"Pete the 'Possum" found Cumberland a rather unhealthy place (at least for opossums) Sunday when he was interrupted in a tour of West Side and subjected to a series of what must have been terribly trying experiences by two local high school girls, the News staff, and a deputy game warden.

The Perils of Pete began when he decided to leave his natural habitat and get a closer look at the city than he could achieve from the trees. He was wandering down Washington Street toward the business section at about 8:30 last night when he mets the girls, Marty Clauson, daughter of Mrs. W. L. Clauson, 223 Schley Street, and Lois Purinton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Purinton, 518 Washington Street. Both are students at Allegany High School.

The opossum stopped and stared, as did the girls. Finally he decided he'd be better off if he left, and he did. The girls decided to chase him, and Marty even climbed over a fence to get him. Pete ran straight for a dead end and was trapped in the sill of a basement window. A passerby aided the cause by lending Lois an umbrella, which was used to hold him to the ground until the girls, or Pete, could think up the next move. The girls did; Marty picked him up by the tail to avoid his sharp teeth. They carried him to a downtown drug store, where he caused quite a sensation, and probably suffered no end of nervous strain.

The girls then brought Pete to the News office for a picture. Pete wasn't very sociable, and didn't seem to be enjoying the interview at all. He clung fiercely to a wire waste basket unhappily observing the goings-on, and no doubt reflecting on his predicament.

Deputy Game Warden P. P. Ferrato was summoned, and took the animal away. He said Pete would be freed soon in surroundings less nerve-racking than those of a city, probably a much wiser 'possum for the ordeal.

Taxes Required On Farm Land

City Attorney Thomas B. Finan ruled yesterday that property on Bedford Street extended cannot be exempted from payment of 1947 city taxes because the property was used for farming. The ruling was made in an opinion given to the Mayor and Council.

The Sun Oil Company asked council for permission to erect gasoline pumps at three locations. The sites are 642 Greene Street, Henderson Avenue and Fulton Street, and Park and Williams Streets. The request was referred to the fire chief and the city engineer.

Property at the intersection of the north side of Brookfield Avenue and the east side of Ridgewood Avenue, known as Lot No. 1, Block 27, Johnson Heights Addition, was ordered deeded to private individuals for $1,150.

Refunds of water collection money were ordered paid to the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, $12.50 as a discount, and to Howard Brockey, 208 Piedmont Avenue, rear, $4.50 and Charles E. Weimer, 631 Maryland Avenue, $4.68, for double payment.

Obviously, payment should be refused on any check which has been altered.

Examine your returned checks promptly and report to the bank immediately any forgeries or alterations. Do not leave your checks lying around accessible to just anyone.

The warning is not, of course, intended to discourage the cashing of checks, the Bureau said, but when you are asked to cash a check for a stranger, inspect it carefully, insist upon seeing his credentials and investigate, if necessary.

DEATHS

MRS. NORA DOUGLAS

Mrs. Nora Adeline Douglas, 46, negress, a native of this city, died Sunday at her residence in Ellabelle, Ga., following a brief illness. The body will arrive here Wednesday.

Mrs. Douglas, wife of Lester Douglas, left here in 1925 and resided in New Rochelle, N. Y., before moving to Ellabelle, near Savannah. Her parents were the late John and Alice Coalman Washington.

Besides her husband she is survived by a brother, George Washington, Baltimore; one half-brother, Joseph Washington, this city; two sisters, Mrs. Sadie Ruffner, New York, and Mrs. Roy Evans, this city, and a half-sister, Mrs. Mary Dorsey, Pine Avenue. She was a member of Ebenezer Baptist Church.

MRS. VIRGINIA PAYTON

Mrs. Virginia Payton, 59, was found dead about 7:30 a. m. yesterday in her first floor apartment at 1105 Lexington Avenue by Mrs. Delia Van Meter, who resides upstairs.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said he was told the woman had been suffering from a diabetic condition. The body was removed to Keyser, W. Va., for burial.

CHARLES E. VANPELT

Charles E. VanPelt, 71, died yesterday morning at the home of his son, Kermit B. VanPelt, Valley Road, following an illness of more than a year.

Born at Harrisonburg, Va., Mr. VanPelt resided here for the past 25 years. His parents were the late Henry and Jane VanPelt. He was the last surviving member of his immediate family.

Two other sons survive. They are Sterling B. and Wilmer C. VanPelt, both of this city; and three daughters, Mrs. Robert Lucas, and Mrs. Ronald Brannor, both of Washington; and Mrs. Rod Ford, Altoona, Pa.

MRS. HATTIE VOUGHT

A funeral service was held in Baton Rogue, La., for Mrs. Hattie Vought, 66, former employe of the Times and Alleganian Company, who died Saturday at her home there where she had resided for 25 years.

Mrs. Vought was born in Allegany County, a daughter of the late William and Frances Duckworth Vought. At one time she served as secretary to the late John W. Avirett, editor of the Times.

Her husband, Artaud H. Vought, was killed in an automobile accident about two years ago.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Anna K. Hill, and one niece, Mrs. Daniel McPherson, both of Baton Rogue. She had visited here frequently at the home of Mrs. Walter G. Kraus, 111 North Allegany Street.

Licot Dismissed, Post Abolished

Nestor J. Licot was dismissed yesterday as recreation director at Constitution Park and the post was abolished by the City Council, with Mayor Thomas S. Post casting the only negative vote.

The motion to oust Licot and abolish his position was introduced by Street and Park Commissioner Edgar Reynolds.

The post of recreation director was created by Mayor and Council Sept. 13, 1946, and Licot was appointed Oct. 7, 1946. His salary was $170 a month, but he received a $10 increase to $180 a month May 26, 1947.

Commissioner Reynolds explained Licot had been paid on a full time basis but the position was active only during warm weather. He said Licot had charge of only the swimming pool and was not needed for any other assignment.

The commissioner declared a pool manager will be named later to replace Licot at a reduced salary. He did not indicate what the salary will be.

Two Patrolmen Are Appointed

Following appointment yesterday of two men as probationary patrolmen, Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan disclosed that Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn will get the six additional policemen and one policewoman he has requested.

The new policemen are Leo E. P. Law and Charles E. Cubbage, both veterans of World War II. They will receive $170 monthly. Their appointments are effective at once.

Commissioner Keegan pointed out that whenever a policeman has a day off now or is ill, there is no one to fill in for him. Consequently, he pointed out, this means leaving the beat open, the traffic signal box empty, or assigning a detective to the beat.

At least eight additional men are needed, he said, to put the department at full strength. Provision has been made in the pending budget for the men, he added.

He said if he is given the eight additional men, patrolmen will be assigned permanently to beats, and an additional cruising car team will be created.

The commissioner reported two women took the Civil Service test for policewoman, but added that neither achieved a passing grade.

New applicants are expected, he said, and declared a policewoman definitely will be appointed.

Motorist Forfeits Bond After Crash

William G. Gordon, Route 3, Valley Road, forfeited bonds totaling $22.90 yesterday morning in Police Court following a minor traffic mishap earlier in the day. He was charged with operating a motor vehicle without a license and reckless driving. A similar charge against Gene K. Keister, Cresaptown, was dismissed.

C. Welton Cline, Jr., 449 Race Street, was fined $10.75 after pleading guilty to permitting an unauthorized person to drive his automobile. John E. Lewis, 221 Race Street, paid a fine of $5.75 for reckless driving and the same amount for not having a license.

James Walter Cox, 138 Seymour Street, forfeited $11.45 for driving without a license, while Kenneth P. Michael, Route 2, forfeited $6.45 on a charge of failing to stop at a stop sign.

Mortimer F. Twigg, Route 2, was fined $5.75 for failing to have a red light on the rear of his vehicle. He also received a suspended fine of $2.45 for not having a license in his possession when arrested.

VFW To Elect Delegates For State Convention

Henry Hart Post No. 1411, will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock, to elect delegates to the annual state encampment at Hagerstown, June 25, 26 and 27, Commander James Kloran announced yesterday.

The local post, because of its large membership is entitled to 67 delegates at the convention.

Golda Cook, Cumberland, and William Howdyshell, Grand Avenue, Cumberland, were apprehended yesterday afternoon after, police said they created a disturbance in South End. Both were booked on drunk and disorderly counts, with Cook posting $10 bond. Howdyshell failed to post bond and was held in City Jail.

Carl Zais Arrested Here On Two Counts

Carl Zais, 125 Paca Street, was apprehended last night by City Police on a drunk and disorderly charge and is being held in the city jail pending a hearing today.

Hearings Set

Hearings will be given Raymond Williams, Bowling Green, and Brady S. Vetter, Moorefield, W. Va., Thursday morning in Police Court. Both posted $10 bond each after being arrested Sunday on West Side on careless driving charges.

Mrs. J. C. Boor To Address Republican Women's Club

Affair To Be Held May 26

The Women's Republican Club will have Mrs. John C. Boor, Piedmont, W. Va., as the speaker for its seventh annual spring dinner party May 26. The affair will be held at the Ali Ghan Country Club, beginning at 6:30. Mrs. Boor, an organizer of Women's Republican Clubs in this area and past president of the Piedmont club, will speak on "Our Duty."

Mrs. James W. Morris, president of the local club, will preside and Mrs. William H. Strickler will serve as toastmaster and offer the invocation. The entertainment program will open with vocal selections by Mrs. Frances H. Lawler, Frostburg, who will be accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Augusta L. Matteson. Mrs. Matteson will also play several piano solos.

Concluding the evening, bridge, 500 and dominoes will be played and prizes awarded.

The party is under the general chairmanship of Mrs. George H. Barncord, assisted by Mrs. Arthur C. Bright and Mrs. Miles Thompson. Mrs. William Niland is in charge of bridge; Mrs. Karl Bachman, 500; and Mrs. Hugh Hotchkiss, dominoes. Reservations may be made through Mrs. Ida Owens or Mrs. Harry Anderson.

Pythian Sisters Hold Convention

The Pythian Sisters of Western Maryland, who have been holding a district meeting here closed the affair last night with a dinner in the recreation hall of Centre Street Methodist Church.

Manhattan Temple No. 8, this city, was host to the convention group and officers of Myrtle Temple Midland, were in charge of the ritualistic work.

Opti-Mrs. Will Have Picnic

Members of the Opti-Mrs. Club formulated plans for the June 9 meeting at the meeting recently at Central YMCA. It will be held in the form of a picnic at Constitution Park. Following the business session cards were played.

Members present were Mrs. Hildah Funkhouser, Mrs. Betty Holiday, Mrs. Emma Fisher, Mrs. Vada Warnick, Mrs. Leah Hinkle, Mrs. Helen Arrington, Mrs. Ruth Clinger, Mrs. Georgianna Nonnenman, Mrs. Jean Staggers and Mrs. Betty Webster.

The Sea of Galilee lies nearly 700 feet below the Mediterranean, which is only 25 miles away. The waters of the Sea of Galilee are slightly brackish.

Hollywood Stars Proudly Make Favorite Dishes

In a gustatory sense, Hollywood is a land of sandwich architects, souffle scientists, and creators of complicated rarebits and waffles.

Almost every personage in the film colony has some food morsel which he pridefully creates himself; for the stars, like anyone else, at times enjoy getting into the kitchen and whipping up some special concoction.

Tyron Power, for instance, is famous among his intimates for a distinctive compound of meat balls and spaghetti, featuring a spiced meat sauce of secret formula, which is so secret Ty can never remember how to make it quite the same way two times in a row.

As befits a cowboy star, "Hopalong" Bill Boyd is famous for his outdoor barbecues and his spiced spare ribs, with sauce a-la-Boyd—one of the reasons why filmites never refuse invitations to dinner at Bill's hacienda not far from Hollywood.

The sandwich architect is Lucille Ball, who likes to build three and even four-deckers with complicated mixtures between the slices of bread. Lucille admits she is an "ad libber" at the sandwich art, picking her spreads at random as she builds the sandwich.

Film players who drop in for midnight snacks at the home of Max Factor, Jr., enjoy an unusual "corned beef pasty," which the make-up expert developed from the inspiration offered by an English meat pie.

Waffles, formulated with a grand disregard of traditional recipes, are Barbara Stanwyck's long suit. Waffles from her kitchen may contain everything from chopped dates to diced reindeer meat.

Robert Taylor's friends admit that he is a competent chef—as long as he sticks to making rarebits, the kind that feature nippy cheese and old English ale.

Discuss District Meeting

Plans were formulated by members of Circle 5, First Methodist Church, to attend the district meeting of the WSCS, when the group met Friday night at the home of Mrs. Cleo Wertz, Bedford Street. It will be held May 21 at Brunswick, beginning at 10 o'clock. Luncheon will be served at Brunswick First Methodist Church.

Mrs. Virgil Ice was leader. Others taking part in the program were Mrs. Howard Perrin, Mrs. Ruby Dumire, Mrs. Alice Sowers, Mrs. A. L. Brown, Mrs. Nina Barnett and Juanita Heavner.

A notable and interesting invention of 1947 was a process for purifying water by electricity, precipitating the germs on sand or other granular dielectric material.

Troops 2, 18, 16 Win Girl Scout Camp Rally Prizes

Girl Scout Troops 2, 18 and 16 won awards for their exhibits at the Camp Rally for all Girl and Brownie Scouts, their parents and friends, Friday night at West Side School. The exhibits and demonstrations pertained to camp life.

First prize was awarded to Troop 2, Mrs. Patrick Hogan, leader, for its exhibit of cooking utensils made with No. 10 cans and wire. The display included one stove made for using twiggs and another for the use of charcoal, a frying pan and several other utensils.

Exhibiting what the camper will wear, Troop 18, Mrs. David Durst leader, showed the proper clothing and personal equipment for rough hiking as well as ordinary camp living. The exhibit also included posters and other girls of the troop showed dresses in a variety of equipment.

Mrs. James Casserly's Troop 16 received third prize for its display of wild life bird posters and also posters showing good hiking practice.

Other exhibits were showed lashes by Troop 5, different types of fires for various kinds of cooking by Troop 12, native birds and their food by Troop 23, and Model camp scene with stone trail signs, Troop 17.

The entertainment consisted of a skit on camping by Patricia Durst, Vivian Nies, Barbara Stark, Margaret Spioch, Rose Marie Green, Marian Baker, Louella Heineman, Donna Harvey, Jeannine and Ann Jefferies. Moving pictures of camp were shown by Dr. J. Russell Cook.

Allegany Hospital Plans Homecoming

The second annual Homecoming at Allegany Hospital will be held today with the Sisters of Charity of the hospital as hostesses to members of the Alumnae and graduating class. The informal get-together will begin with a buffet supper at 6 o'clock in the nurses' new home. Dinner music will consist of selections by Eileen Carey and Joann Coyle.

A minute of silence will be observed in memory of deceased members. The program will be a reminiscence for the alumnae and will be informal. Greetings will be extended by Miss Mary Louise Grassi and there will be selections by Miss Anna Ketzner, Miss Mary Sirna and a specialty dance number by the Clancey children. Recognition will be paid also to the oldest alumnae present, the largest class group present, the member coming the longest distance and to the mother-daughter nurse groups.

The musical program will consist of group singing, solos by Mrs. Reta Small Ardnt, accompanied by Miss Rose Harbaugh; Mrs. Elizabeth Dodd Rosenmerkel, Mrs. Frances Arthur Miller, Miss Helen Hergot, a trio and a duet. The former is composed of Miss Monica Mongan, Miss Leta Spangler and Miss Lola Holler, accompanied by Miss Reta Edwards. The latter consists of Miss Ruby Bonner and Miss Alberta Ley. Miss Jane Nichol and Mrs. Stella Sell will lead the group singing with Miss Reta Edwards at the piano.

Class Protests Bill

Members of the Semper Fidelis Class of Bethany Evangelical United Brethren Church decided at a meeting Friday night at the home of Mrs. William Knotts, Roberts Place, to send a wire to Governor Lane protesting the Byrnes Bill to legalize raffles, chance wheels, etc., in the state. It was also decided to give a dinner for the church basketball team.

Mrs. Grace Wolford was in charge of devotions. Others taking part in the program were Mrs. Clyde Wolford, Mrs. Knotts, Mrs. C. K. Welch and Mrs. Chester Crabtree.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Pictures and mirrors frequently become dingy. To keep them shining, go over the glass with warm soapy water to which a few drops of household ammonia has been added, then wipe with a cloth wrung out of clear water. To give a professional sparkle to the mirror, after it is dry rub the surface with a piece of crumpled tissue paper.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS FOR FURNISHING COAL TO ALLEGANY COUNTY PUBLIC BUILDINGS

The County Commissioners of Allegany County ask for in writing, bids for furnishing a season's supply of coal for the Court House, the County Jail, the County Home, and the Sylvan Retreat.

The bids must be for delivery in the bins at the various buildings at so much per ton and it is estimated that a tonnage of four hundred tons will be required.

All bids must be for Big Vein Coal and must be received by the Commissioners on or before May 28, 1948, and only bids for the entire requirement will be considered.

My Pet Peeve
(Maybe It's Yours, Too!)
Says YES MAN

Chet Coughenour

I guess every one of us has a secret gripe. Something or somebody we can very well do without. My pet peeve is a rude clerk or sales person who thinks you've got to do business with his company and treats you like a poor relative.

Maybe I'm over-sensitive . . . maybe people really don't object to this treatment. But my staff and I have always believed that the customer is doing us a pretty big favor when he enters our office—and, at Personal Finance Co., we're not shy about letting him know how grateful we are that he's chosen us.

And my staff is especially good at showing appreciation because from the day they join PERSONAL, they are trained to treat the customer as they themselves, would like to be treated.

Cumberland folks who want a loan must like the courtesy and friendliness they find at PERSONAL FINANCE CO., because so many of them have recommended us to their friends. Which proves to me, that we've been successful in doing what we set out to do; provide Cumberland folks with a friendly loan service in which honesty and the ability to make monthly payments are the chief requirements to getting a loan.

We never recommend needless borrowing. BUT if you can use $25 to $750 for a worth-while purpose—consolidating bills, repairing your home, paying medical bills—and you want to get the cash in the way that suits you best—on salary, furniture, or car I'd appreciate the chance to say "yes" to YOU . . . just as I do to 4 out of every 5 who apply for a loan here.

Just phone 721 . . . or, if you're in the neighborhood, come in and ask for me—Chet Coughenour. PERSONAL FINANCE CO., is located on the 2nd floor of the Liberty Trust Building. Open Monday thru Friday, 9 until 5. Closed Saturdays. Evenings by appointment.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD
By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, May 17—(INS)—Valentine Davis, whose "Miracle on 34th Street," was a 20th Century-Fox prize package, has got himself another charming idea.

Louella Parsons

He has written a little number called "It Happens Every Spring." Gary Cooper has read it and likes it so well he will probably be the star.

I had to hang on to my new swivel chair when I heard that Loretta Young is the star of "The Gay Goddess"—because I can tip you off that the "goddess" means lady luck. Loretta plays a girl who gambles herself straight down to the gutter.

The fascinating melodrama by Lewis Meltzer and Oscar Saul has a San Francisco background. The gaming tables of Cal-Neva, and the characters are the shadowy gentlemen who spin the wheels and rake in the bets and who know the "sure things" at the race tracks.

All this is certainly something new for Loretta who is usually the perfect lady on the screen.

Clare Boothe Luce saw to it that the Benedictine nuns in Bethlehem, Pa., received money to carry on their work.

She is writing a story, "Come To The Stable," for 20th, which deals with the two nuns of that order, who came to this country a few years ago and decided to build a convent in Bethlehem, because they were attracted by the name of the town.

The Sisters had tremendous difficulties getting started, but their faith is helpnig them, and will be fulfilled with the goodly check sent by 20th.

Marlene Dietrich leaves for Paris in August to make a picture with Girard Phillip, the new Paris sensation. She is waiting until after the birth of her daughter's baby. She will have a part in "The Dubious Woman," and I'm hoping La Dietrich will again play a sophisticated woman of the world. She is excellent in the few scenes I saw of her in "Foreign Affair."

So is Jean Arthur. What an actress that little Arthur girl is. My only gripe is that she stays off the screen too long. We need her. She is delightful as the Congresswoman who falls for an officer she is investigating.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Kay Thompson goes into the Blackstone Hotel in Chicago, at the biggest salary ever paid an entertainer. Good for Kay and good for Hollywood!

Word comes from the east that Errol Flynn and Nora were at the Harem, a night spot, and that Errol got up and gave with a duet with the Ritz Brothers. He must feel happier than he did when he left town.

Ran into Jack Lait, and immediately we started reminiscing about the days when we were both young reporters on the old Chicago Herald. If Lait wasn't busy being an editor, he would still be the best reporter I know.

Fourteen of Kirk Douglas' pals are helping him build a patio.

Anita Colby writes she'll be in town May 26, in time for the premiere of "Emperor's Waltz." I'm sorry I'll miss her. She has been in Cleveland, Memphis, New Orleans, Dallas, and heaven knows where, taking her prettty face into newspaper offices and giving the boys behind the desks a treat.

Arthur Blake opens tomorrow night at Larry Potter's Supper Club. I will have to go some night to hear his imitation of me, which, I hear, is too accurate for comfort—to me, that is.

Betty Hutton, Ted Briskin, Lindsay Durand having dinner together—Betty's first appearance since the birth of her baby. She says the baby looks exactly like Lindsay Diane, her two-year-old. "Who said our marriage wouldn't last?" asked Ted, proudly. Not I.

That was Florence Marly with Otto Preminger at the Mocambo. She is the beautiful Czech actress who worked with Ray Milland in "The Sealed Verdict."

You are safe in taking a wager that before long Gail Russell and Guy Madison will marry.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Bromwich Will Play Tennis In England

LONDON, May 17 (AP)—Jack Bromwich, Australian tennis star, arrived by ship today to play in the Wimbledon tennis championships but expressed no opinion on the possibility of his rejoining the Australian Davis Cup team.

Bromwich, who brought his wife and child with him, said he intended to remain in England until August. He will play in several British tournaments before Wimbledon starts, June 21.

The Australian ace turned down a bid to play again this year on his country's Davis Cup squad because he declined to travel by plane.

Coaltown, My Request May Clash At Belmont

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP) — Two colts which finished two-three in the Kentucky Derby to Calumet Farm's Citation—Coaltown and My Request—are expected to hook up in the $15,000-added Swift Stakes at Belmont Park Wednesday.

Coaltown arrived at the Long Island track Saturday from Kentucky.

My Request, owned by Ben F. Whitaker, also has been idle since he took down third money at Louisville May 1.

Bromwich Will Play Tennis In England

LONDON, May 17 (AP)—Jack Bromwich, Australian tennis star, arrived by ship today to play in the Wimbledon tennis championships but expressed no opinion on the possibility of his rejoining the Australian Davis Cup team.

Bromwich, who brought his wife and child with him, said he intended to remain in England until August. He will play in several British tournaments before Wimbledon starts, June 21.

The Australian ace turned down a bid to play again this year on his country's Davis Cup squad because he declined to travel by plane.

Langan Hits In 33 Games

Protest Pipe Smoking Ump

Tony Francis Breaks 100

The "Doctors" Of Baseball

By C. V. BURNS

Joe Langan, Frostburg catcher, is still carrying on what may be the longest batting streak in the history of sandlot baseball in the tri-state area.

The V.F.W. clouter closed out the 1947 season by hitting safely in 30 consecutive games. He extended his streak to 33 games on Saturday by smacking a triple as the Mountain City team registered its third straight league triumph at the expense of Barton. The score was 15-2.

Softball fans at Corriganville got quite a chuckle the other day when the Wellersburg team threatened to protest the game if Umpire Joe Stuckey insisted on smoking his pipe while in the role of an official.

Corriganville, we are informed, was leading in the last half of the 6th inning when the visiting team began yelling at Stuckey to extinguish the fire and put his pipe away.

Stuckey vows that he wasn't giving smoke signals to the home team nor throwing up a smoke screen that would in any way hinder the players from seeing the ball. He adds that none of the Wellersburg players were overcome by the fumes from his pipe. That is, none of the Pennsylvania players showed any signs of needing a pulmotor.

"Maybe they didn't like the brand of tobacco I was smoking," quoth Joe.

Anyway, Stuckey dumped his ashes and covered them over so they wouldn't get in the visiting players' eyes and the game continued on its merry way.

Corriganville won by the score of 6-2.

Stuckey at least introduced a new fad—a pipe smoking umpire—something rare in these parts. And Wellersburg introduced something new in the protest line.

We've never forgotten the laugh provoking incident that occurred at Stitcher Field several years ago when the Centerville Reds and Queen City Brewers were engaged in battle.

One of the Brewers' rabid fans came running out of the crowd to inform the Queen City pilot that he had a good opportunity to protest the game.

"Look at those caps the Centerville players are wearing, they're illegal, make them use regulation baseball caps or play the game under protest," the fan instructed.

Several members of the Centerville team were sporting hunting caps and this headgear had no bearing on the game whatsoever. Yet, the home team protested and held up the contest until Manager John Hafer made his players dispose of the long peaked caps in favor of baseball headgear which they borrowed from their teammates warming the bench.

Unfortunately the borrowed caps were too small and the players had quite a time keeping them on whenever they'd run.

Yes, Mr. Believe It, Or Not, Ripley should attend some of these sandlot games!

Tony Francis, of Westernport, veteran gunner who is chairman of the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club's trapshooting committee, tied for high gun in the recent Carroll County Gun Club shoot near Sykesville, Md.

Francis, who is now busily engaged in formulating plans for the West Virginia State Championship Shoot which will be held at the Ridgeley traps July 23, 24 and 25, turned in a perfect score on 100 single targets to tie Jack Osborne, Maryland's 1947 champion.

Billy Meyer, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was chatting with his players the other day and the conversation drifted to cheating. Cheating is an old expression used about pitchers who get a little help by cutting the cover on the ball, spitting on it or roughing it in any manner. Meyer, who was a catcher for a long time, recalled many a pitcher who used the spitter and other tricks of the trade.

Before the Middle Atlantic League started in 1925 the Cumberland Colts, then an independent team, had one of the best cheaters in the business in a 210-pound right hander named Jack Smith. Many a ball that Jack pitched was tossed out by umpires after visiting players protested that the pellet had been disfigured.

Smith could really make that horsehide do tricks and it was nothing for him to strike out from 15 to 18 batters a game. And he was smart enough to hide his glove whenever it wasn't in use for in it mitt was the secret of his success.

One day the Harrisburg (Pa.) Colored Giants played here. Smith started fanning 'em one after another and one of the visiting batsmen requested the umpire to call "Time."

"Let me see that glove, Mr. Smith," the batter commanded.

Smith replied in the negative.

Then one of the officials of the local club dashed out of the dugout and told the Harrisburg players if they didn't want to play ball to go back where they came from. Furthermore, he told the visitors if they didn't finish the game they'd not get a penny of their guarantee.

Oscar Charleston, home run king of negro baseball in those days was manager of the Harrisburg team, and he told his mascot to pack the bats. And right there the game ended. Harrisburg refused to be intimidated.

We never saw Smitty's glove but we were told that the secret of his success was a nutmeg grater which was sewed in the webbing of his mitt. He used this device to rough up the ball and he threw the most tantalizing curves you've ever seen.

In the Mid-Atlantic League days Cumberland players time and again had the game stopped to probe the pitching of one Art Cousins, of the Fairmont Black Diamonds. Umpires threw out one ball after another to satisfy the protestants. These pellets were badly scuffed and many had the threads on the seams cut.

Cousins used to stand out on the mound smiling whenever the legality of his pitcher was questioned. Whenever Art pitched here the game usually lasted longer than others because quite a bit of time was used up in halting the contest, tossing out the "doctored" balls and replacing them with new ones.

Strange as it seems, Smith was a hero here but the vociferous razzings that Cousins received indicated that he was looked upon as being a bad, bad boy.

"Ty" Shea Named Racing Secretary Here

Garden State Official Will Replace Turner

Langford To Return As Pari Mutuel Head

Matthias "Ty" Shea of Baltimore has been appointed racing secretary for the ten-day meeting of the Cumberland Fair Association, July 20 to July 31, Clifton W. White, president and general manager, announced last night.

Shea, who has been associated with thoroughbred racing for 30 years, succeeds John Turner, Jr., of Baltimore, who served as racing secretary at Fairgo in 1947.

Served As Brennan's Aide

"Ty" is no stranger to Cumberland racing fans. He served as assistant to Edward J. Brennan of Baltimore during the latter's administration as racing secretary here from 1926 to 1945, inclusive, and at the present time holds the secretarial position at the Garden State Park race track in Camden, New Jersey. Garden State's 40-day meeting opened on April 15 and will end on May 31.

Shea has served in various positions at mile and half mile tracks throughout the country over more than quarter of a century and his appointment to the secretarial post at Fairgo puts this important work in the hands of an experienced racing official.

President White stated that there were four applicants for the job and Shea's qualifications met with the unanimous approval of the local association.

Langford To Return

Jimmie Langford of Baltimore has been retained as manager of the pari mutuel department at Fairgo for the 1948 meeting, White also announced. Langford has served in this capacity for the past four years. He is regarded as being one of the most popular pari mutuel managers ever to hold the position at the local half mile oval.

The Cumberland Fair will be held the week of September 13 this year and will be preceded by a three-day Horse Show sponsored by the Allegany County Farm Bureau. The show will open on Friday, September 10 and the final judging is set for Sunday, September 12.

Steelers To Open Season With Bears

Forbes Field Will Be Scene Of Tilt Aug. 22

PITTSBURGH, May 17.—The curtain goes up on the 1948 professional football season in Pittsburgh when the bad men from the Midway—the Chicago Bears—move into Forbes Field to test the new, Michelosen-powered Pittsburgh Steelers in a pre-season contest on Sunday, August 22.

The game, sponsored by the Dapper Dan Club of Pittsburgh, will bring to the Smoky City probably the greatest array of football talent ever collected by one professional club, and will pit Connellsville's famed Johnny Lujack against Kansas' equally-famous Ray Evans.

In addition to Lujack, the Bears will have in the lineup Bobby Layne, highly-touted triple-threat from the University of Texas; George Connors, the one-man line from Notre Dame, and Max Bumgardner, the lanky end who caught most of Layne's passes in the southwest conference.

Add to this list of newcomers such reliables as Sid Luckman, Don Kindt, Frank Minini, Jim Keane and Ken Kavanaugh, and it is not difficult to decide why the experts have picked the Bears as the summer book favorite to win the National League championship.

On the other hand, the game will prove a "test" case for the Steelers, who will be playing their first battle under Johnny Michelosen, the league's youngest mentor. The 32-year-old coach recently succeeded his long-time friend and preceptor, the late Dr. John B. (Jock) Sutherland.

THOSE AMAZING A's — Play of Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics at this stage of the American League pennant race is the talk of the baseball world. Good pitching and unusual timely hitting thus far have boosted the club into the lead in the junior circuit. The Mackmen have won 16 and lost 6. Their 10-game winning streak was snapped by the Yankees last Friday but on the following day the Philadelphia team took a doubleheader from New York.

Rippey Triumphs In Toboggan 'Cap At Belmont Park

Beats 11 Sprinters, Earns $20,650 Purse

By FRED HAYDEN

BELMONT PARK, N. Y., May 17 —(AP)—William Helis' consistent Rippey outran 11 other crack sprinters in today's 55th and richest running of the Toboggan Handicap as a 25-day meeting got under way before 29,340 fans.

Under topweight of 129 pounds, the $5.50 for two favorite earned the $20,650 winner's share by a length and was timed in a swift 1:09 3-5 for the straight six furlongs despite the fact the going was sloppy.

Mrs. John D. Hertz's Owners Choice took the place, four lengths clear of Mose Rauzin's veteran Buzfuz, hero of the race last season. Pipette was fourth.

The big crowd was lucky to see the feature. A dense fog developed before the Toboggan running but cleared considerably just as the field reached the post. It thickened again right after the race.

Ovie Scurlock became the first jockey of the new meeting to score a double when he clicked on Rippey after scoring astride Barrage in the fifth dash.

Belmont, the horsey, horticultural showplace of New York racetracks, looked more beautiful than ever, even though the customers could see only part of the vast plant during much of the afternoon.

Rippey, which in his last eight starts has won three times and been second on five occasions, jumped into command at the break and although unable to open up a comfortable advantage, stuck to his task like a champion sprinter.

Owners Choice, with Derby-Preakness hero Eddie Arcaro on his back, kept close to the flying victor all the way while easily outrunning the others. Buzfuz also was a forward contender but could not threaten the front pair. He did, however, boost his total earnings past the 200-G mark, picking up $2,500 to make his all-time gleanings $200,465.

Moorefield Lands Regional Tourney

Four High Schools Play There Friday

Moorefield (W. Va.) will be the scene of the Region No. 4 baseball championship tournament to be staged Friday and Saturday, it was announced last night.

Romney and Circleville, winners in Sections No. 14 and 15, have qualified for the regional.

Moorefield and Petersburg will meet today at Moorefield to determine the Section No. 16 title.

The Section No. 13 finals between Charles Town and Berkeley Springs were scheduled yesterday but postponed on account of rain.

In Friday's regional tourney at Moorefield Circleville will play the Moorefield-Petersburg winner at 1 p. m., while at 3 p. m., Romney will battle the Charles Town-Berkeley Springs winner. Finals will be played Saturday.

John Matthias, principal of Moorefield High School is director of the tourney and Johnny Paugh, Moorefield athletic director and coach, is assistant.

The winner of the Moorefield regional will play in the state championship tourney at Charleston, May 27, 28 and 29.

Blatnik And Dubiel Loom As Prize Picks Of Draft

Former Hitting .409; 16 Out Of 29 Survive

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—Outfielder Johnny Blatnik and Pitcher Walt Dubiel of the Philadelphia Phillies look like the prize picks of the 1947 draft crop which was the largest in 20 years. Pitcher Bill Kennedy of the Cleveland Indians is the only other possibility.

The wholesale draft of 29 players from the minor leagues last November cost the majors some $272,500. The New York Yankees, Brooklyn Dodgers and Detroit Tigers were the only teams that did not participate.

Now 14 of the 29 are back in the minors and several of the remaining 16 are threatened with the axe before cutdown deadline Wednesday midnight.

Blatnik Is Overlooked

Blatnik was virtually overlooked in the springtime fuss over Richie Ashburn but he also made the big hop from the Class A Eastern League to the majors. Given a chance to play regularly when Harry Walker, the defending league batting champ, went into a bad slump, Blatnik has won a steady job.

Going into tonight's games, Blatnik was batting .409 and pressing Tommy Holmes of Boston for the National League lead. Not bad for a 26-year-old husky who hit .334 on Cleveland's farm club in Wilkes-Barre last season.

Dubiel seems to have survived a tough luck start to earn a starting berth with the Phils. The right-hander from Seattle who was with the Yankees during the war, was knocked out in the second inning the first time he started at Brooklyn. A week later he lost a four-hitter to the Dodgers but, in his next start, he shut out the slugging New York Giants with three hits.

Kennedy, the southpaw who struck out 456 at Rocky Mount, N. C. in 1946, was picked off the Boston Red Sox's Louisville farm by Cleveland. He won 15 and lost 2 at Scranton last year. Manager Lou Boudreau used him twice on relief before he gave him a starting chance yesterday against Chicago. The 27-year-old rookie allowed only three hits before he gave way in the eighth inning. He struck out eight during that period but walked five.

Six other selected pitchers still survive but none of them has won a game. Forrest Thompson of Washington and Al Gerheauser of the St. Louis Browns, the No. 1 pick, each have a loss. Jim Goodwin of the Chicago White Sox, Forrest Main of Pittsburgh, Jack Hallett of the New York Giants and Ed Post of the Boston Braves have no decisions.

Blatnik has the best record by far of any of the non-pitchers. Max West, an old big leaguer back for another try after knocking in 124 runs for San Diego, has seen occassional use at Pittsburgh as a spare first sacker. He has hit two homers and driven in three runs.

Conaster Replaces Heath

Catcher Boris Martin, selected by the Red Sox from Toledo, has been idle.

Ferrier Opposes Rule Requiring Play Of Stymies

Hazard Added To PGA Tourney In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, May 17 (AP)—To the surprise of some competitors, the stymie has been added to the natural hazards of the Norwood Hills Country Club for the Professional Golf Association's 30th annual championship tournament starting Wednesday.

Jim Ferrier

It was news to defending champion Jim Ferrier and, in his opinion, will provide a stiff test for that section of the preamble to the rules of golf that says it's supposed to be a gentleman's game.

"The stymie introduces an element of luck into a game in which luck is already present in sufficient quantity," Ferrier said.

For the benefit of the uninitiated, a player is stymied when he is ready to shoot and finds that his opponent's ball lies in the line of his putt to the hole. Most of the pros care little for the rule requiring that stymies be played.

But Executive Secretary Thomas W. Crane of the PGA says that is the way the pros must play it in the match play phase of the event. The $17,950 tournament will be the first PGA match play event since 1942 to require the U. S. Golf Association rules even unto the stymie.

"I think if I putt enough to lay myself a stymie, I should be penalized," Ferrier said. "But when an opponent misses a putt and stymies me through no skill of his own, that's wrong.

"When some of the boys start to stymie on purpose—when they say to themselves, 'If I miss this I'm going to miss it so I stymie you'—things may get ungentlemanly."

Jimmy Hines of Glennview, Ill., was another of the early arrivals who expressed surprise. "So they're going to play stymies this year?" Hines said. "Well, that'll make some fun. You'll see a lot of unusual things happening."

The veteran Toney Penna of Cincinnati, O., said he thinks the stymie is just as fair for one as for another.

"It's always been in the book," he said, "and what's good enough for our grandfathers should be good enough for us."

British Women Win

AMSTERDAM, May 17 (AP) — England won the women's field hockey world championship today by defeating the Netherlands, 1-0, in the finals.

The United States finished fifth after Scotland had dragged down third place and Ireland fourth. The U. S. beat France in a consolation match, 3-0.

Cole Flattens Brown In 2nd; Smith Scores

Catanese Wins TKO; Frazier Is Beaten

Only one of Cumberland's three amateur boxing aces came through with a triumph last night in a series of inter-city matches marking the Cumberland Police Boys' Club eleventh show at the State Armory.

Randall "Skeets" Starkey, Amvets A.C. middleweight star, went down to defeat at the hands of Rudy Flowers, clever leather pusher of the Homewood A.C., Pittsburgh, and Bobby Goss, flyweight ace of the Royale A.C., lost an unanimous decision to Leon Perouty, of the Poodles A.C., Baltimore, winner of the 112-pound championship in the recent South Atlantic A.A.U. tournament.

The gathering of 612 paying customers, however, saw Bill Mann, the third ace in the locals' deck, prevent a rout of the home forces when he belted out Billy Gibson, of Pittsburgh, just 37 seconds after the second round got under way. It was Shufflin' Bill's eighth knockout triumph in 18 amateur matches.

Smith Decisions Yancey

Other local winners on the card were Earl Smith, Amvets A.C. 113-pounder, who gained a 3-0 decision over Pinky Yancey, the only white boxer representing the Homewood A.C., of Pittsburgh, and Jimmie Catanese, Royale A.C. featherweight who was getting the worst of it until Gary Fisher, of the Poodles A.C., Baltimore, South Atlantic A.A.U. champion, suffered a cut on his head in the second round. Dr. Arthur Jones gave the cut the "once over" and instructed Referee James E. Kelley, Jr., to stop the match in spite of the vigorous protests made by Fisher's handler and the boxer himself. As a result of this accident, Catanese was declared the winner via a TKO in 1:46 of the second round.

The other local losers on the eight-bout program presented by Matchmaker John Henry Stitcher were Jimmie Brown and Bill Frazier, who like Mann have severed their connections with the Diamond A.C. and are now fighting unattached.

Cole Stops Brown

Brown had the misfortune to draw Curtis Cole, the Pittsburgh lightweight with dynamite in both hands, and Jimmie was knocked out in 45 seconds of the second round. In the opening heat Brown was dumped face down and he took a nine count on his knees. Early in the second stanza Cole, who knocked out Clarence Jenkins of St. Mary's A.C. in 58 seconds on April 28, drove Brown across the ring with a terrific right. Jimmie spun around like a top but managed to stay on his feet by bracing himself with his hands on the floor. He no sooner regained his equilibrium when two crushing rights put him down for the full count. Brown started up at six but he couldn't make it.

Frazier, fighting far below his usual form, was decisioned by Joe Evans, middleweight of the Poodles A.C., in the 8th and final match on the card. Evans, a southpaw, landed the more telling punches in this dull match and Frazier appeared to be very weary at the final gong. It was split decision in Evans' favor.

Ryan Outpoints Smith

In a bout between Baltimore and Pittsburgh boxers, Johnny Ryan, of the Poodles A.C., earned the nod over Bill Smith, Homewood A.C. featherweight. This was a good boxing match and at the finish Ryan was given a 3-0 verdict.

The show was an excellent one and probably marked the close of the 1947-48 amateur boxing season in Cumberland.

FIGHT RESULTS

Earl Smith, 113, Cumberland Amvets, won 3-0 decision over Pinky Yancey, 109, Homewood A.C., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Johnny Ryan, 126, Poodles A.C., Baltimore, won 3-0 decision over Bill Smith, 120, Homewood A.C., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Curtis Cole, 140, Homewood A.C., Pittsburgh, Pa., knocked out Jimmie Brown, 135, unattached, of Cumberland, in 45 seconds of the second round.

Leon Perouty, 115, Poodles A.C., Baltimore, South Atlantic A.A.U. flyweight champion, won 3-0 decision over Bobby Goss, 115, Royale A.C., Cumberland.

Jimmie Catanese, 130, Royale A.C., Cumberland, won on TKO over Gary Fischer, 131, Poodles A.C., Baltimore, South Atlantic A.A.U. featherweight champion, in 1:46 of second round when latter suffered a head cut which bled profusely. Dr. Arthur Jones, local A.A.U. physician, ordered the fight stopped despite the protests of Rischer and his handlers.

Rudy Flowers, 139, Homewood A.C., Pittsburgh, won 2-1 decision over Randall "Skeets" Starkey, 149, Cumberland Amvets, in five-round feature bout.

Bill Mann, 152, unattached, of Cumberland, knocked out Billy Gibson, 149, Homewood A.C., Pittsburgh, Pa., in 37 seconds of the second round.

LaSalle-Fort Hill Will Clash Today

AHS Invades Beall, Hyndman At Central

Fort Hill and LaSalle will clash on Fort Hill Field, Allegany will invade Frostburg to play Beall High and Central High of Lonaconing will play host to Hyndman in Bi-State Baseball Conference games scheduled for today.

LaSalle will be striving to avenge a 1-0 loss suffered at the hands of the Sentinels in their opening game while Allegany, undefeated in nine starts this season, will be shooting for its 6th straight league victory.

Creegan and "Buck" Shaw are slated to pitch in the LaSalle-Fort Hill contest.

The games will start at 4 p. m.

Rain washed out the Allegany-Keyser game at Keyser, the LaSalle-Hyndman tilt here and the Fort Hill-Hagerstown game yesterday at Hagerstown.

Eagles To Battle Elks, P. E. To Oppose Moose

Manager Fritz Palmer's undefeated Fraternal Order of Eagles will play the B.P.O. Elks in a Rocking Chair Softball League game today at Campobello.

The Eagles lead the league with four wins and no losses.

Potomac Edison, trailing the Eagles with a record of 3-0, will play the Loyal Order of Moose at East Side Field.

In other games the Outdoor Club will play the K. of C. at Fort Hill and the Amvets and Celanese tangle on the Rolling Mill diamond.

Amvets Score Fourth City League Victory

The Amvets scored their 4th victory in five starts in the City Softball League when they defeated the North End Social and Athletic Club yesterday by the score of 9-3.

A 12-hit assault was punctuated by home runs from the bats of "Doc" Summers, Doyle George and Eddie Siebert. Allan Sheetz pounded out two doubles and Tommy Geatz collected two doubles and a single. The latter excelled in the field.

Bill Whiteman pitched a three-hitter for the winners and two of the blows were credited to "Red" Whitman. The score:

NORTH END	002	000	1—3	3	3
VETS	051	300	x—9	12	2

Kauffman and Young. Whiteman and Siebert.

Fight Is Postponed

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The scheduled 10-round fight here tonight between Beau Jack and Tony Janiro was postponed today for a week because of threatening weather.

Kline's Market Wins Over Sports Center

Kline's Market registered their third straight victory yesterday at the expense of the Sports Center. The score was 9-6.

Gibson with a double and single and True with a three-run triple led the attack for the Marketeers. Jim McGregor turned in a nice catch in left field in the last inning and the winners completed two double plays. Wertz, Adams and Tucker had two hits each for the losers. Score:

SPORTS CENTER	100	230	0—6	8	4
KLINE'S MARKET	601	200	x—9	7	1

Langan Hits In 33 Games

Protest Pipe Smoking Ump

Tony Francis Breaks 100

The "Doctors" Of Baseball

By C. V. BURNS

Joe Langan, Frostburg catcher, is still carrying on what may be the longest batting streak in the history of sandlot baseball in the tri-state area.

The V.F.W. clouter closed out the 1947 season by hitting safely in 30 consecutive games. He extended his streak to 33 games on Saturday by smacking a triple as the Mountain City team registered its third straight league triumph at the expense of Barton. The score was 15-2.

Softball fans at Corriganville got quite a chuckle the other day when the Wellersburg team threatened to protest the game if Umpire Joe Stuckey insisted on smoking his pipe while in the role of an official.

Corriganville, we are informed, was leading in the last half of the 6th inning when the visiting team began yelling at Stuckey to extinguish the fire and put his pipe away.

Stuckey vows that he wasn't giving smoke signals to the home team nor throwing up a smoke screen that would in any way hinder the players from seeing the ball. He adds that none of the Wellersburg players were overcome by the fumes from his pipe. That is, none of the Pennsylvania players showed any signs of needing a pulmotor.

"Maybe they didn't like the brand of tobacco I was smoking," quoth Joe.

Anyway, Stuckey dumped his ashes and covered them over so they wouldn't get in the visiting players' eyes and the game continued on its merry way.

Corriganville won by the score of 6-2.

Stuckey at least introduced a new fad—a pipe smoking umpire—something rare in these parts. And Wellersburg introduced something new in the protest line.

We've never forgotten the laugh provoking incident that occurred at Stitcher Field several years ago when the Centerville Reds and Queen City Brewers were engaged in battle.

One of the Brewers' rabid fans came running out of the crowd to inform the Queen City pilot that he had a good opportunity to protest the game.

"Look at those caps the Centerville players are wearing, they're illegal, make them use regulation baseball caps or play the game under protest," the fan instructed.

Several members of the Centerville team were sporting hunting caps and this headgear had no bearing on the game whatsoever. Yet, the home team protested and held up the contest until Manager John Hafer made his players dispose of the long peaked caps in favor of baseball headgear which they borrowed from their teammates warming the bench.

Unfortunately the borrowed caps were too small and the players had quite a time keeping them on whenever they'd run.

Yes, Mr. Believe It, Or Not, Ripley should attend some of these sandlot games!

Tony Francis, of Westernport, veteran gunner who is chairman of the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club's trapshooting committee, tied for high gun in the recent Carroll County Gun Club shoot near Sykesville, Md.

Francis, who is now busily engaged in formulating plans for the West Virginia State Championship Shoot which will be held at the Ridgeley traps July 23, 24 and 25, turned in a perfect score on 100 single targets to tie Jack Osborne, Maryland's 1947 champion.

Billy Meyer, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was chatting with his players the other day and the conversation drifted to cheating. Cheating is an old expression used about pitchers who get a little help by cutting the cover on the ball, spitting on it or roughing it in any manner. Meyer, who was a catcher for a long time, recalled many a pitcher who used the spitter and other tricks of the trade.

Before the Middle Atlantic League started in 1925 the Cumberland Colts, then an independent team, had one of the best cheaters in the business in a 210-pound right hander named Jack Smith. Many a ball that Jack pitched was tossed out by umpires after visiting players protested that the pellet had been disfigured.

Smith could really make that horsehide do tricks and it was nothing for him to strike out from 15 to 18 batters a game. And he was smart enough to hide his glove whenever it wasn't in use for in it mitt was the secret of his success.

One day the Harrisburg (Pa.) Colored Giants played here. Smith started fanning 'em one after another and one of the visiting batsmen requested the umpire to call "Time."

"Let me see that glove, Mr. Smith," the batter commanded.

Smith replied in the negative.

Then one of the officials of the local club dashed out of the dugout and told the Harrisburg players if they didn't want to play ball to go back where they came from. Furthermore, he told the visitors if they didn't finish the game they'd not get a penny of their guarantee.

Oscar Charleston, home run king of negro baseball in those days was manager of the Harrisburg team, and he told his mascot to pack the bats. And right there the game ended. Harrisburg refused to be intimidated.

We never saw Smitty's glove but we were told that the secret of his success was a nutmeg grater which was sewed in the webbing of his mitt. He used this device to rough up the ball and he threw the most tantalizing curves you've ever seen.

In the Mid-Atlantic League days Cumberland players time and again had the game stopped to probe the pitching of one Art Cousins, of the Fairmont Black Diamonds. Umpires threw out one ball after another to satisfy the protestants. These pellets were badly scuffed and many had the threads on the seams cut.

Cousins used to stand out on the mound smiling whenever the legality of his pitcher was questioned. Whenever Art pitched here the game usually lasted longer than others because quite a bit of time was used up in halting the contest, tossing out the "doctored" balls and replacing them with new ones.

Strange as it seems, Smith was a hero here but the vociferous razzings that Cousins received indicated that he was looked upon as being a bad, bad boy.

Garden State Official Will Replace Turner

Langford To Return As Pari Mutuel Head

Matthias "Ty" Shea of Baltimore has been appointed racing secretary for the ten-day meeting of the Cumberland Fair Association, July 20 to July 31, Clifton W. White, president and general manager, announced last night.

Shea, who has been associated with thoroughbred racing for 30 years, succeeds John Turner, Jr., of Baltimore, who served as racing secretary at Fairgo in 1947.

Served As Brennan's Aide

"Ty" is no stranger to Cumberland racing fans. He served as assistant to Edward J. Brennan of Baltimore during the latter's administration as racing secretary here from 1926 to 1945, inclusive, and at the present time holds the secretarial position at the Garden State Park race track in Camden, New Jersey. Garden State's 40-day meeting opened on April 15 and will end on May 31.

Shea has served in various positions at mile and half mile tracks throughout the country over more than quarter of a century and his appointment to the secretarial post at Fairgo puts this important work in the hands of an experienced racing official.

President White stated that there were four applicants for the job and Shea's qualifications met with the unanimous approval of the local association.

Langford To Return

Jimmie Langford of Baltimore has been retained as manager of the pari mutuel department at Fairgo for the 1948 meeting, White also announced. Langford has served in this capacity for the past four years. He is regarded as being one of the most popular pari mutuel managers ever to hold the position at the local half mile oval.

The Cumberland Fair will be held the week of September 13 this year and will be preceded by a three-day Horse Show sponsored by the Allegany County Farm Bureau. The show will open on Friday, September 10 and the final judging is set for Sunday, September 12.

Steelers To Open Season With Bears

Forbes Field Will Be Scene Of Tilt Aug. 22

PITTSBURGH, May 17.—The curtain goes up on the 1948 professional football season in Pittsburgh when the bad men from the Midway—the Chicago Bears—move into Forbes Field to test the new, Michelosen-powered Pittsburgh Steelers in a pre-season contest on Sunday, August 22.

The game, sponsored by the Dapper Dan Club of Pittsburgh, will bring to the Smoky City probably the greatest array of football talent ever collected by one professional club, and will pit Connellsville's famed Johnny Lujack against Kansas' equally-famous Ray Evans.

In addition to Lujack, the Bears will have in the lineup Bobby Layne, highly-touted triple-threat from the University of Texas; George Connors, the one-man line from Notre Dame, and Max Bumgardner, the lanky end who caught most of Layne's passes in the southwest conference.

Add to this list of newcomers such reliables as Sid Luckman, Don Kindt, Frank Minini, Jim Keane and Ken Kavanaugh, and it is not difficult to decide why the experts have picked the Bears as the summer book favorite to win the National League championship.

On the other hand, the game will prove a "test" case for the Steelers, who will be playing their first battle under Johnny Michelosen, the league's youngest mentor. The 32-year-old coach recently succeeded his long-time friend and preceptor, the late Dr. John B. (Jock) Sutherland.

THOSE AMAZING A's — Play of Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics at this stage of the American League pennant race is the talk of the baseball world. Good pitching and unusual timely hitting thus far have boosted the club into the lead in the junior circuit. The Mackmen have won 16 and lost 6. Their 10-game winning streak was snapped by the Yankees last Friday but on the following day the Philadelphia team took a doubleheader from New York.

Rippey Triumphs In Toboggan 'Cap At Belmont Park

By FRED HAYDEN

BELMONT PARK, N. Y., May 17 —(AP)—William Helis' consistent Rippey outran 11 other crack sprinters in today's 55th and richest running of the Toboggan Handicap as a 25-day meeting got under way before 29,340 fans.

Under topweight of 129 pounds, the $5.50 for two favorite earned the $20,650 winner's share by a length and was timed in a swift 1:09 3-5 for the straight six furlongs despite the fact the going was sloppy.

Mrs. John D. Hertz's Owners Choice took the place, four lengths clear of Mose Rauzin's veteran Buzfuz, hero of the race last season. Pipette was fourth.

The big crowd was lucky to see the feature. A dense fog developed before the Toboggan running but cleared considerably just as the field reached the post. It thickened again right after the race.

Ovie Scurlock became the first jockey of the new meeting to score a double when he clicked on Rippey after scoring astride Barrage in the fifth dash.

Belmont, the horsey, horticultural showplace of New York racetracks, looked more beautiful than ever, even though the customers could see only part of the vast plant during much of the afternoon.

Rippey, which in his last eight starts has won three times and been second on five occasions, jumped into command at the break and although unable to open up a comfortable advantage, stuck to his task like a champion sprinter.

Owners Choice, with Derby-Preakness hero Eddie Arcaro on his back, kept close to the flying victor all the way while easily outrunning the others. Buzfuz also was a forward contender but could not threaten the front pair. He did, however, boost his total earnings past the 200-G mark, picking up $2,500 to make his all-time gleanings $200,465.

Moorefield Lands Regional Tourney

Four High Schools Play There Friday

Moorefield (W. Va.) will be the scene of the Region No. 4 baseball championship tournament to be staged Friday and Saturday, it was announced last night.

Romney and Circleville, winners in Sections No. 14 and 15, have qualified for the regional.

Moorefield and Petersburg will meet today at Moorefield to determine the Section No. 16 title.

The Section No. 13 finals between Charles Town and Berkeley Springs were scheduled yesterday but postponed on account of rain.

In Friday's regional tourney at Moorefield Circleville will play the Moorefield-Petersburg winner at 1 p. m., while at 3 p. m., Romney will battle the Charles Town-Berkeley Springs winner. Finals will be played Saturday.

John Matthias, principal of Moorefield High School is director of the tourney and Johnny Paugh, Moorefield athletic director and coach, is assistant.

The winner of the Moorefield regional will play in the state championship tourney at Charleston, May 27, 28 and 29.

Blatnik And Dubiel Loom As Prize Picks Of Draft

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—Outfielder Johnny Blatnik and Pitcher Walt Dubiel of the Philadelphia Phillies look like the prize picks of the 1947 draft crop which was the largest in 20 years. Pitcher Bill Kennedy of the Cleveland Indians is the only other possibility.

The wholesale draft of 29 players from the minor leagues last November cost the majors some $272,500. The New York Yankees, Brooklyn Dodgers and Detroit Tigers were the only teams that did not participate.

Now 14 of the 29 are back in the minors and several of the remaining 16 are threatened with the axe before cutdown deadline Wednesday midnight.

Blatnik Is Overlooked

Blatnik was virtually overlooked in the springtime fuss over Richie Ashburn but he also made the big hop from the Class A Eastern League to the majors. Given a chance to play regularly when Harry Walker, the defending league batting champ, went into a bad slump, Blatnik has won a steady job.

Going into tonight's games, Blatnik was batting .409 and pressing Tommy Holmes of Boston for the National League lead. Not bad for a 26-year-old husky who hit .334 on Cleveland's farm club in Wilkes-Barre last season.

Dubiel seems to have survived a tough luck start to earn a starting berth with the Phils. The right-hander from Seattle who was with the Yankees during the war, was knocked out in the second inning the first time he started at Brooklyn. A week later he lost a four-hitter to the Dodgers but, in his next start, he shut out the slugging New York Giants with three hits.

Kennedy, the southpaw who struck out 456 at Rocky Mount, N. C. in 1946, was picked off the Boston Red Sox's Louisville farm by Cleveland. He won 15 and lost 2 at Scranton last year. Manager Lou Boudreau used him twice on relief before he gave him a starting chance yesterday against Chicago. The 27-year-old rookie allowed only three hits before he gave way in the eighth inning. He struck out eight during that period but walked five.

Six other selected pitchers still survive but none of them has won a game. Forrest Thompson of Washington and Al Gerheauser of the St. Louis Browns, the No. 1 pick, each have a loss. Jim Goodwin of the Chicago White Sox, Forrest Main of Pittsburgh, Jack Hallett of the New York Giants and Ed Post of the Boston Braves have no decisions.

Blatnik has the best record by far of any of the non-pitchers. Max West, an old big leaguer back for another try after knocking in 124 runs for San Diego, has seen occassional use at Pittsburgh as a spare first sacker. He has hit two homers and driven in three runs.

Conaster Replaces Heath

Catcher Boris Martin, selected by the Red Sox from Toledo, has been idle.

Ferrier Opposes Rule Requiring Play Of Stymies

Hazard Added To PGA Tourney In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, May 17 (AP)—To the surprise of some competitors, the stymie has been added to the natural hazards of the Norwood Hills Country Club for the Professional Golf Association's 30th annual championship tournament starting Wednesday.

Jim Ferrier

It was news to defending champion Jim Ferrier and, in his opinion, will provide a stiff test for that section of the preamble to the rules of golf that says it's supposed to be a gentleman's game.

"The stymie introduces an element of luck into a game in which luck is already present in sufficient quantity," Ferrier said.

For the benefit of the uninitiated, a player is stymied when he is ready to shoot and finds that his opponent's ball lies in the line of his putt to the hole. Most of the pros care little for the rule requiring that stymies be played.

But Executive Secretary Thomas W. Crane of the PGA says that is the way the pros must play it in the match play phase of the event. The $17,950 tournament will be the first PGA match play event since 1942 to require the U. S. Golf Association rules even unto the stymie.

"I think if I putt enough to lay myself a stymie, I should be penalized," Ferrier said. "But when an opponent misses a putt and stymies me through no skill of his own, that's wrong.

"When some of the boys start to stymie on purpose—when they say to themselves, 'If I miss this I'm going to miss it so I stymie you'—things may get ungentlemanly."

Jimmy Hines of Glennview, Ill., was another of the early arrivals who expressed surprise. "So they're going to play stymies this year?" Hines said. "Well, that'll make some fun. You'll see a lot of unusual things happening."

The veteran Toney Penna of Cincinnati, O., said he thinks the stymie is just as fair for one as for another.

"It's always been in the book," he said, "and what's good enough for our grandfathers should be good enough for us."

St. Luke's And Grace Methodist Bag Wins

Grace Methodist defeated Trinity Methodist, 6-2, and St. Luke's topped Zion Methodist, 7-2, in Central YMCA Sunday School Softball League games played yesterday.

Grace Baptist claimed a victory by the forfeit route when Central Methodist was unable to field a team for their game at Constitution Park.

AHS Invades Beall, Hyndman At Central

Fort Hill and LaSalle will clash on Fort Hill Field, Allegany will invade Frostburg to play Beall High and Central High of Lonaconing will play host to Hyndman in Bi-State Baseball Conference games scheduled for today.

LaSalle will be striving to avenge a 1-0 loss suffered at the hands of the Sentinels in their opening game while Allegany, undefeated in nine starts this season, will be shooting for its 6th straight league victory.

Creegan and "Buck" Shaw are slated to pitch in the LaSalle-Fort Hill contest.

The games will start at 4 p. m.

Rain washed out the Allegany-Keyser game at Keyser, the LaSalle-Hyndman tilt here and the Fort Hill-Hagerstown game yesterday at Hagerstown.

Eagles To Battle Elks, P. E. To Oppose Moose

Manager Fritz Palmer's undefeated Fraternal Order of Eagles will play the B.P.O. Elks in a Rocking Chair Softball League game today at Campobello.

The Eagles lead the league with four wins and no losses.

Potomac Edison, trailing the Eagles with a record of 3-0, will play the Loyal Order of Moose at East Side Field.

In other games the Outdoor Club will play the K. of C. at Fort Hill and the Amvets and Celanese tangle on the Rolling Mill diamond.

Amvets Score Fourth City League Victory

The Amvets scored their 4th victory in five starts in the City Softball League when they defeated the North End Social and Athletic Club yesterday by the score of 9-3.

A 12-hit assault was punctuated by home runs from the bats of "Doc" Summers, Doyle George and Eddie Siebert. Allan Sheetz pounded out two doubles and Tommy Geatz collected two doubles and a single. The latter excelled in the field.

Bill Whiteman pitched a three-hitter for the winners and two of the blows were credited to "Red" Whitman. The score:

Fight Is Postponed

Cole Flattens Brown In 2nd; Smith Scores

Catanese Wins TKO; Frazier Is Beaten

Only one of Cumberland's three amateur boxing aces came through with a triumph last night in a series of inter-city matches marking the Cumberland Police Boys' Club eleventh show at the State Armory.

Randall "Skeets" Starkey, Amvets A.C. middleweight star, went down to defeat at the hands of Rudy Flowers, clever leather pusher of the Homewood A.C., Pittsburgh, and Bobby Goss, flyweight ace of the Royale A.C., lost an unanimous decision to Leon Perouty, of the Poodles A.C., Baltimore, winner of the 112-pound championship in the recent South Atlantic A.A.U. tournament.

The gathering of 612 paying customers, however, saw Bill Mann the third ace in the locals' deck, prevent a rout of the home forces when he belted out Billy Gibson, of Pittsburgh, just 37 seconds after the second round got under way. It was Shufflin' Bill's eighth knockout triumph in 18 amateur matches.

Smith Decisions Yancey

Other local winners on the card were Earl Smith, Amvets A.C. 113-pounder, who gained a 3-0 decision over Pinky Yancey, the only white boxer representing the Homewood A.C., of Pittsburgh, and Jimmie Catanese, Royale A.C. featherweight who was getting the worst of it until Gary Fisher, of the Poodles A.C., Baltimore, South Atlantic A.A.U. champion, suffered a cut on his head in the second round. Dr. Arthur Jones gave the cut the "once over" and instructed Referee James E. Kelley, Jr., to stop the match in spite of the vigorous protests made by Fisher's handler and the boxer himself. As a result of this accident, Catanese was declared the winner via a TKO in 1:46 of the second round.

The other local losers on the eight-bout program presented by Matchmaker John Henry Stitcher were Jimmie Brown and Bill Frazier, who like Mann have severed their connections with the Diamond A.C. and are now fighting unattached.

Cole Stops Brown

Brown had the misfortune to draw Curtis Cole, the Pittsburgh lightweight with dynamite in both hands, and Jimmie was knocked out in 45 seconds of the second round. In the opening heat Brown was dumped face down and he took a nine count on his knees. Early in the second stanza Cole, who knocked out Clarence Jenkins of St. Mary's A.C. in 58 seconds on April 28, drove Brown across the ring with a terrific right. Jimmie spun around like a top but managed to stay on his feet by bracing himself with his hands on the floor. He no sooner regained his equilibrium when two crushing rights put him down for the full count. Brown started up at six but he couldn't make it.

Frazier, fighting far below his usual form, was decisioned by Joe Evans, middleweight of the Poodles A.C., in the 8th and final match on the card. Evans, a southpaw, landed the more telling punches in this dull match and Frazier appeared to be very weary at the final gong. It was split decision in Evans' favor.

Ryan Outpoints Smith

In a bout between Baltimore and Pittsburgh boxers, Johnny Ryan, of the Poodles A.C., earned the nod over Bill Smith, Homewood A.C. featherweight. This was a good boxing match and at the finish Ryan was given a 3-0 verdict.

The show was an excellent one and probably marked the close of the 1947-48 amateur boxing season in Cumberland.

Kline's Market Wins Over Sports Center

Kline's Market registered their third straight victory yesterday at the expense of the Sports Center. The score was 9-6.

Gibson with a double and single and True with a three-run triple led the attack for the Marketeers. Jim McGregor turned in a nice catch in left field in the last inning and the winners completed two double plays. Wertz, Adams and Tucker had two hits each for the losers. Score:

SPORTS CENTER	100	230	0—6	8	4
KLINE'S MARKET	601	200	x—9	7	1

Tucker and Rowan. Eady and True.

Frostburg Rotary Event Attended By 115 Persons

Dr. Spitznas Is Guest Speaker

FROSTBURG. — Approximately 115 persons attended the Silver Anniversary Ladies Night dinner of the Frostburg Rotary Club, held last night in the residence hall dining room of Frostburg State Teachers College. A. Charles Stewart, a charter member and past president, served as toastmaster. The program was as follows:

"America," entire group; invocation, Rev. George L. Wehler, member of the club and pastor of Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church; club singing, under direction of Dr. Maurice Matteson, club member and head of the music department of State Teachers College; welcome address, Ivan C. Diehl, club president and faculty member of State Teachers College; vocal solos, "Italian Street Song," from "Naughty Marietta" and "Indian Love Call," Mrs. Frances Lawler, faculty member of the College Elementary School, with Mrs. Augusta Loften Matteson, playing the piano accompaniments.

Presentation of distinguished guests by President Ivan C. Diehl; greetings from Rotary International, Charles R. Zook, Belleville, Pa., a member of the Lewistown, Pa., Rotary Club and governor of District No. 178, Rotary International.

An address was given by Dr. James E. Spitznas, Baltimore, a past president of the club and director of instruction, State Board of Education, followed by a vocal duet by William Plummer and Albert Camp, accompanied by Miss Mabel Myers at the piano.

An attractive booklet with a blue cover page adorned with a silver Rotary emblem was distributed to all guests and club members. The booklet contained a history of the club and some of its accomplishments in the 25 years since it was founded, including boys' work, crippled children's rehabilitation and urban and rural relationships.

The booklet recalled that a Student Loan Fund, established in 1932, has been increased from time to time and is administered by a Rotary Committee. The fund has helped several students to continue their education beyond high school. Reference is also made to the fact that a prize is awarded annually to the Beall High School senior who best exemplifies the motto of Rotary, "Service Above Self."

Oldest Living Member Of Frostburg Elks Lodge Given Birthday Party

FROSTBURG—The oldest living member of Frostburg Lodge No. 470, B. P. O. Elks, Alfred E. Reppert, was the guest of honor at a party given at the Elks home Sunday afternoon. It was in observance of Repperts' 84th birthday.

A retired coal operator, the honor guest joined the Elks in 1907, shortly after he came to Frostburg as an assistant to the late John C. Brydon, then in charge of the Maryland Division of the Consolidated Coal Company.

A native of Halleck, W. Va., Reppert, interested in coal mining from his youth, came here from Cadiz, Ohio, in 1905 and remained with the Maryland Division of the Consolidation Coal Company in this region until 1913, when he was transferred to Fairmont, W. Va., and assigned to the Jenkins, Ky., operations of the company as a mine superintendent.

After severing his connections with the Consol, he worked in Logan County, W. Va., for the Island Creek Coal Company and for short periods with other West Virginia coal concerns. His last active association with the coal mining business was as an assistant to his son, the late Edward Reppert, large operator at Flemington, W. Va.

He retired about 10 years ago and returned to Frostburg to reside at the Gunter Hotel. Reppert has two children, Harold Reppert, sales agent for the Reppert Coals, Inc., with headquarters in Philadelphia and a daughter, Mrs. Effie Miller, St. Petersburg, Fla. A son, Edward Reppert, husband of the former Beulah Getty, Grantsville, died in November, 1944, and his wife died in Frostburg in 1933. He has 13 grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

Harold Reppert, who came here for his father's birthday party, was born in Monogah, W. Va., where the family resided from 1884 to 1892. During the war he was associated with the government as a coal purchasing agent. James Evans, a grandson, who also attended the party, is a native of Frostburg and a graduate of Beall High School, class of 1936.

A veteran of World War II, he served as a pilot with the 319th Bombing Group of the 12th Air Force in the ETO. He was honorably discharged with the rank of captain in September, 1945, and is now employed in the sales department of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

Reppert spends many of leisure hours in the Elks Home and is popular with the members, many of whom were guests at his birthday party. His hobby is playing the violin and he is a frequent visitor at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Matteson, Tarn Terrace, where Mrs. Matteson plays the piano accompaniments.

The reception room of the Elks' home was decorated Sunday for the birthday party and the central piece of the refreshment table was a three tiered birthday cake.

Negress Attempts To Prove Husband Set House Afire

Declares Footsteps Sounded Like Brooks'

KEYSER, W. Va. — A Keyser negress yesterday testified in Mineral County Circuit Court that she "supposed it was her husband that set her home afire" February 20 as the state attempted to convict James Brooks, the husband, on an arson charge.

Mrs. Brooks told the jury that she saw the shadow of a man running from the cellar window shortly after she was awakened by the fire that destroyed her home. Later, she said the footsteps sounded like her husband's and the shadow looked like his.

The Mineral County prosecution rested its case against the 65-year-old negro after presenting 21 witnesses yesterday in an attempt to prove that Brooks, who was released from jail on the previous day, went to the home of his wife and after being beat by her set the building on fire.

Keyser Fire Chief E. Wade Thomas and State Fire Inspector C. A. Raper, who investigated the blaze, told the jury it was definitely an incendiary fire.

Two taxi drivers were also called to the stand by the state and testified that they carried Brooks as a fare to the burning home less than 10 minutes after a passing motorist saw the flames leaping from the cellar window and turned in the alarm.

In their opening statements, H. G. Shores and Howard P. Shores, defense attorneys, told the court that they would present evidence that would prove that it wasn't Brooks but his wife's "drunken lover," who set the house ablaze.

Mrs. Brooks testified that her husband, who was under court order to remain away from the home, appeared at her house earlier in the evening and did not leave until she "beat him and threw him out."

Brooks, according to state testimony, was released from the Mineral County Jail the day previous after serving tim e for violating the peace warrant.

The defense is expected to present at least seven witnesses after it opens th case this morning at 9 o'clock.

Dr. Spitznas Is Guest Speaker

FROSTBURG. — Approximately 115 persons attended the Silver Anniversary Ladies Night dinner of the Frostburg Rotary Club, held last night in the residence hall dining room of Frostburg State Teachers College. A. Charles Stewart, a charter member and past president, served as toastmaster. The program was as follows:

"America," entire group; invocation, Rev. George L. Wehler, member of the club and pastor of Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church; club singing, under direction of Dr. Maurice Matteson, club member and head of the music department of State Teachers College; welcome address, Ivan C. Diehl, club president and faculty member of State Teachers College; vocal solos, "Italian Street Song," from "Naughty Marietta" and "Indian Love Call," Mrs. Frances Lawler, faculty member of the College Elementary School, with Mrs. Augusta Loften Matteson, playing the piano accompaniments.

Presentation of distinguished guests by President Ivan C. Diehl; greetings from Rotary International, Charles R. Zook, Belleville, Pa., a member of the Lewistown, Pa., Rotary Club and governor of District No. 178, Rotary International.

An address was given by Dr. James E. Spitznas, Baltimore, a past president of the club and director of instruction, State Board of Education, followed by a vocal duet by William Plummer and Albert Camp, accompanied by Miss Mabel Myers at the piano.

An attractive booklet with a blue cover page adorned with a silver Rotary emblem was distributed to all guests and club members. The booklet contained a history of the club and some of its accomplishments in the 25 years since it was founded, including boys' work, crippled children's rehabilitation and urban and rural relationships.

The booklet recalled that a Student Loan Fund, established in 1932, has been increased from time to time and is administered by a Rotary Committee. The fund has helped several students to continue their education beyond high school. Reference is also made to the fact that a prize is awarded annually to the Beall High School senior who best exemplifies the motto of Rotary, "Service Above Self."

Oldest Living Member Of Frostburg Elks Lodge Given Birthday Party

FROSTBURG—The oldest living member of Frostburg Lodge No. 470, B. P. O. Elks, Alfred E. Reppert, was the guest of honor at a party given at the Elks home Sunday afternoon. It was in observance of Repperts' 84th birthday.

A retired coal operator, the honor guest joined the Elks in 1907, shortly after he came to Frostburg as an assistant to the late John C. Brydon, then in charge of the Maryland Division of the Consolidated Coal Company.

A native of Halleck, W. Va., Reppert, interested in coal mining from his youth, came here from Cadiz, Ohio, in 1905 and remained with the Maryland Division of the Consolidation Coal Company in this region until 1913, when he was transferred to Fairmont, W. Va., and assigned to the Jenkins, Ky., operations of the company as a mine superintendent.

After severing his connections with the Consol, he worked in Logan County, W. Va., for the Island Creek Coal Company and for short periods with other West Virginia coal concerns. His last active association with the coal mining business was as an assistant to his son, the late Edward Reppert, large operator at Flemington, W. Va.

He retired about 10 years ago and returned to Frostburg to reside at the Gunter Hotel. Reppert has two children, Harold Reppert, sales agent for the Reppert Coals, Inc., with headquarters in Philadelphia and a daughter, Mrs. Effie Miller, St. Petersburg, Fla. A son, Edward Reppert, husband of the former Beulah Getty, Grantsville, died in November, 1944, and his wife died in Frostburg in 1933. He has 13 grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

Harold Reppert, who came here for his father's birthday party, was born in Monogah, W. Va., where the family resided from 1884 to 1892. During the war he was associated with the government as a coal purchasing agent. James Evans, a grandson, who also attended the party, is a native of Frostburg and a graduate of Beall High School, class of 1936.

A veteran of World War II, he served as a pilot with the 319th Bombing Group of the 12th Air Force in the ETO. He was honorably discharged with the rank of captain in September, 1945, and is now employed in the sales department of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

Reppert spends many of leisure hours in the Elks Home and is popular with the members, many of whom were guests at his birthday party. His hobby is playing the violin and he is a frequent visitor at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Matteson, Tarn Terrace, where Mrs. Matteson plays the piano accompaniments.

The reception room of the Elks' home was decorated Sunday for the birthday party and the central piece of the refreshment table was a three tiered birthday cake.

McDowell Fined $10 For Reckless Driving

KEYSER, W. Va.—Leon McDowell, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester McDowell, 6 Sharpless Street, was fined $10 on a reckless driving charge at a hearing before City Judge A. A. Jordan recently.

McDowell was driving a sedan owned by Bruno Fanto, when, police said, he lost control of the car, and the automobile ran on to the sidewalk and struck the corner of the Keyser Theater, on South Main Street.

Murel Fanto, son of Bruno Fanto, was giving the McDowell youth instructions in driving when the accident occured.

McDowell agreed to pay for the damages to the property, estimated at $100.

Hennis R. Taylor, 52, Westernport, who was charged with reckless driving after the car police said he was operating struck an automobile driven by Paul Friend, Swanton, Md., May 9, on Caroll Avenue, was fined $25 at a recent hearing before Judge Jordan.

Negress Attempts To Prove Husband Set House Afire

Declares Footsteps Sounded Like Brooks'

KEYSER, W. Va. — A Keyser negress yesterday testified in Mineral County Circuit Court that she "supposed it was her husband that set her home afire" February 20 as the state attempted to convict James Brooks, the husband, on an arson charge.

Mrs. Brooks told the jury that she saw the shadow of a man running from the cellar window shortly after she was awakened by the fire that destroyed her home. Later, she said the footsteps sounded like her husband's and the shadow looked like his.

The Mineral County prosecution rested its case against the 65-year-old negro after presenting 21 witnesses yesterday in an attempt to prove that Brooks, who was released from jail on the previous day, went to the home of his wife and after being beat by her set the building on fire.

Keyser Fire Chief E. Wade Thomas and State Fire Inspector C. A. Raper, who investigated the blaze, told the jury it was definitely an incendiary fire.

Two taxi drivers were also called to the stand by the state and testified that they carried Brooks as a fare to the burning home less than 10 minutes after a passing motorist saw the flames leaping from the cellar window and turned in the alarm.

In their opening statements, H. G. Shores and Howard P. Shores, defense attorneys, told the court that they would present evidence that would prove that it wasn't Brooks but his wife's "drunken lover," who set the house ablaze.

Mrs. Brooks testified that her husband, who was under court order to remain away from the home, appeared at her house earlier in the evening and did not leave until she "beat him and threw him out."

Brooks, according to state testimony, was released from the Mineral County Jail the day previous after serving tim e for violating the peace warrant.

The defense is expected to present at least seven witnesses after it opens th case this morning at 9 o'clock.

Blackfield Miner Held After Man Is Beat To Death

Faces Murder Charge In Somerset County

SOMERSET, Pa.—Charged with beating a 31-year-old father of four to death with an oak stave in a Somerset Township, Pa., tavern fight Saturday night, Samuel Wilson Kelly, Blackfield, Pa., 20 miles west of Grantsville, will be arraigned this morning on a murder charge, according to police.

Kelly a coal miner, according to Pvt. Paul W. Lutz, Pennsylvania State Police, seized a five-foot stave and struck Devon S. Beachley, 31 R.F.D. 1 Berlin, Pa., over the head when he attempted to take the part of a youth whom Kelly and two other brothers were attacking in Wellie's Place, near Rockwood.

Beachley died in Somerset Hospital shortly after being admitted, Pvt. Lutz said, adding that the county coroner attirbuted death to a fractured skull suffered from the blow on the head.

Kelly, who with his two brothers, Matthew and William, fled after Beachley fell to the floor, was arrested Sunday at his home and taken to Somerset County Jail where investigating officers preferred a charge of murder, according to Pvt. Lutz.

Quoting witnesses to the fight, Pvt. Lutz said the three Kellys were in an altercation with Danny Schroyer, 21, when Beachley entered the fracas and freed the youth. Beachley immediately downed one of the Kellys and was punching him when the prisoner seized the oak stave, described as about five feet in length and three inches thick and struck the victim over the head, authorities said.

From information gathered, Pvt. Lutz said, "It appears the Kelly brothers made a habit of attacking Schroyer for the past year since Matthew Kelly served a jail sentence" as the result of a fight with the 21-year-old youth.

The Kelly trio, according to Pvt. Lutz, are recognized "tough customers" in their neighborhood and have been in previous trouble, police said.

The prisoner is scheduled to be given a preliminary hearing this morning at 9 o'clock (DST) before Justice of the Peace Charles J. Harrison, Jr., in Somerset.

Both Men And Women Needed In Nursing

When you think of a nurse, you generally think of a woman, even though there are cases which require the services of a man. But did it ever occur to you that this might not be entirely because more women want to take up nursing than men? A survey of accredited United States nursing schools recently completed by the American Nurses' Association brought to light the fact that out of 1250 schools only 68 admitted men students. Who said it was a man's world?

The Marquis de Lafayette spent over $200,000 of his own money in the cause of American independence.

Flintstone Group Plans Activities

FLINTSTONE—Plans for a foods and nutrition course were discussed by the Flintstone Homemakers at their meeting last week and activities also were mapped for the annual demonstration week.

Thomas Youths Held On Theft Charges

THOMAS, W. Va. — Two local youths accused of breaking and entering and stealing goods valued at $1,500, were being held in Tucker County, W. Va., jail last night after being apprehended Saturday, three hours after the alleged theft.

The pair was identified as Larry Sam Gentile, Jr., 17, and Donald Lee White, 16, and police said they broke into the Buxton and Landstreet Store and after looting the place attempted to steal the car of Constable Thomas Coleman. When the attempt failed they again tried to steal the automobile of Ray Jones, Thomas, police said.

Both youths were apprehended in Oakland where they were waiting to board a train for Cumberland. Most of the stolen articles were recovered, according to authorities, who said the youths sold one watch valued at $30 for $6 in Oakland.

They will be held for action of the Tucker County Grand Jury.

RHEUMATISM PAINS
Relieved in Few Minutes

It is now easy to aid rheumatism pains. The test will cost you nothing.

So why suffer another day from the agony of this painful ailment when you can secure MUSCLE-RUB, the new preparation that not only relieves the pains of rheumatism but also lumbago, muscle soreness, sprains, as well as the less serious lameness of muscles and joints? It is no longer necessary to dose the system with internal medicine. The Ene-Rub MUSCLE-RUB treatment is a simple liquid, applied directly to the limbs, shoulders, neck, face or back—wherever the trouble may be.

MUSCLE-RUB RELIEVED PAINS AFTER SUFFERING TWO YEARS

I am writing this letter to let you know how well pleased I am with your MUSCLE-RUB. I have spent a great deal of money trying every kind of remedy and liniment for my rheumatism but found nothing to help me until I was told about your remarkable MUSCLE-RUB. I have used ½ of the large bottle and obtained mighty good results. This is the first time in two years that I have been relieved from pain. We wouldn't be without a bottle of MUSCLE-RUB in our home.

Wm. Heffelfinger
Rt. No 1 Liberty Centre, Ohio

DRUGGIST RECOMMENDS MUSCLE-RUB FOR RHEUMATISM

Your MUSCLE-RUB was recommended to me by our Druggist for Rheumatism. After many years of severe torturing pains, I am mighty happy to write you that your remedy has really a God Send. This is the first time in many years that I have been able to rest peacefully without pain. My sister has also used your MUSCLE-RUB for a bad sprain and it has given her satisfactory results. I am indeed very grateful to have learned of your remedy and recommend your MUSCLE-RUB very highly.

Colonel M. Livingston
1520 Pine St., Phila., Pa.

MUSCLE-RUB BEST REMEDY WE FOUND FOR RHEUMATISM PAINS

My daughter has been suffering with Rheumatism for a long time. We tried almost everything to relieve her pain—but nothing seemed to help until we tried your MUSCLE-RUB, which gave her splendid relief—and the results were very satisfactory. I can honestly recommend your MUSCLE-RUB to all.

Mrs. Rebecca Green
St. Charles, W. Va.

LOS ANGELES GIRL SAYS NOTHING HELPED SWOLLEN, PAINFUL ANKLE EXCEPT MUSCLE-RUB

For 3 years up to last June, I was unable to go dancing unless I wore some kind of brace. I had pains and swelling of my ankle which I injured running for a street car. Nothing seemed to help. Last week a friend told me how much MUSCLE-RUB helped her husband. I bought a bottle and I'm happy to say that now I can work and dance without pain. You can be sure I'll always have MUSCLE-RUB in the house.

Annette E. Kerner
1653 Waltman Ave., Los Angeles, Cal.

"THANK GOD FOR MUSCLE-RUB" SAYS CALIFORNIA RHEUMATIC SUFFERER

I bought everything I could buy for my rheumatic pains but got no results until I tried MUSCLE-RUB. The pain in my right arm was so bad I could not raise it. Thank God for MUSCLE-RUB—I used it—and now I feel fine. I recommended MUSCLE-RUB to a woman and she says it is helping her too.

Mr. M. L. Breitenfelt
Torrance, Cal.

MOTHER SAYS MUSCLE-RUB IS A GOD SEND FOR RHEUMATIC PAIN

I had such pain in my legs and knees, I heard about MUSCLE-RUB and got a bottle. Now I feel like a new person. My mother, 77 years old, has rheumatism in her fingers, shoulders and arms. I used MUSCLE-RUB on her and in 20 minutes the pains were relieved. I will never be without MUSCLE-RUB.

Mrs. Leo Doerflinger
Dunkirk, N. Y.

RECOMMENDS MUSCLE-RUB AS BEST RELIEF FOR ARTHRITIC PAINS

Have been suffering from arthritic pains for a number of years. Tried numerous kinds of liniments, but got no relief—until a friend told me about MUSCLE-RUB.

Today I feel wonderful — no aches or pains. Would recommend MUSCLE-RUB as the finest for all simple muscular ailments.

Blanche Rudolph
1428 Naomi St., Burbank, Cal.

We urge only that you make this test. MUSCLE-RUB is now obtainable at any drug store. Buy it today. Use one-half the bottle, and if you are not amazed and delighted with the results, return the remaining half to your druggist, and he will refund your money. The price is 98c regular size, $1.89 for large, family size.

Blackfield Miner Held After Man Is Beat To Death

Faces Murder Charge In Somerset County

SOMERSET, Pa.—Charged with beating a 31-year-old father of four to death with an oak stave in a Somerset Township, Pa., tavern fight Saturday night, Samuel Wilson Kelly, Blackfield, Pa., 20 miles west of Grantsville, will be arraigned this morning on a murder charge, according to police.

Kelly a coal miner, according to Pvt. Paul W. Lutz, Pennsylvania State Police, seized a five-foot stave and struck Devon S. Beachley, 31 R.F.D. 1 Berlin, Pa., over the head when he attempted to take the part of a youth whom Kelly and two other brothers were attacking in Wellie's Place, near Rockwood.

Beachley died in Somerset Hospital shortly after being admitted, Pvt. Lutz said, adding that the county coroner attirbuted death to a fractured skull suffered from the blow on the head.

Kelly, who with his two brothers, Matthew and William, fled after Beachley fell to the floor, was arrested Sunday at his home and taken to Somerset County Jail where investigating officers preferred a charge of murder, according to Pvt. Lutz.

Quoting witnesses to the fight, Pvt. Lutz said the three Kellys were in an altercation with Danny Schroyer, 21, when Beachley entered the fracas and freed the youth. Beachley immediately downed one of the Kellys and was punching him when the prisoner seized the oak stave, described as about five feet in length and three inches thick and struck the victim over the head, authorities said.

From information gathered, Pvt. Lutz said, "It appears the Kelly brothers made a habit of attacking Schroyer for the past year since Matthew Kelly served a jail sentence" as the result of a fight with the 21-year-old youth.

The Kelly trio, according to Pvt. Lutz, are recognized "tough customers" in their neighborhood and have been in previous trouble, police said.

The prisoner is scheduled to be given a preliminary hearing this morning at 9 o'clock (DST) before Justice of the Peace Charles J. Harrison, Jr., in Somerset.

So why suffer another day from the agony this painful ailment when you can secure MUSCLE-RUB, the new preparation that not only relieves the pains of rheumatism but also lumbago, muscle soreness, sprains, as well as the less serious lameness of muscles and joints? It is no longer necessary to dose the system with internal medicine. The Entire MUSCLE-RUB treatment is a simple liquid, applied directly to the limbs, shoulders, neck, face or back—wherever the trouble may be.

MUSCLE-RUB RELIEVED PAINS AFTER SUFFERING TWO YEARS

I am writing this letter to let you know how well pleased I am with your MUSCLE-RUB. I have spent a great deal of money trying every kind of remedy and liniment for my rheumatism but found nothing to help me until I was told about your remarkable MUSCLE-RUB. I have used ½ of the large bottle and obtained mighty good results. This is the first time in two years that I have been relieved from pain. We wouldn't be without a bottle of MUSCLE-RUB in our home.

Wm. Heffelfinger
Rt. No 1 Liberty Centre, Ohio

DRUGGIST RECOMMENDS MUSCLE-RUB FOR RHEUMATISM

Your MUSCLE-RUB was recommended me by our Druggist for Rheumatism. After many years of severe torturing pains, I am mighty happy to write you that your remedy is really a God Send. This is the first time in many years that I have been able to rest peacefully without pain. My sister has also used your MUSCLE-RUB for a bad sprain and it has given her satisfactory results. I am indeed very grateful to have learned of your remedy and recommend your MUSCLE-RUB very highly.

Colonel M. Livingston
1520 Pine St., Phila., Pa.

MUSCLE-RUB BEST REMEDY WE FOUND FOR RHEUMATISM PAINS

My daughter has been suffering with Rheumatism for a long time. We tried almost everything to relieve her pain—but nothing seemed to help until we tried your MUSCLE-RUB, which gave her splendid relief—and the results were very satisfactory. I can honestly recommend your MUSCLE-RUB to all.

Mrs. Rebecca Green
St. Charles, W. Va.

LOS ANGELES GIRL SAYS NOTHING HELPED SWOLLEN, PAINFUL ANKLE EXCEPT MUSCLE-RUB

For 3 years up to last June, I was unable to go dancing unless I wore some kind of brace. I had pains and swelling of my ankle which I injured running for a street car. Nothing seemed to help. Last week a friend told me how much MUSCLE-RUB helped her husband. I bought a bottle and I'm happy to say that now I can work and dance without pain. You can be sure I'll always have MUSCLE-RUB in the house.

Annette E. Kerner
1653 Waltman Ave., Los Angeles, Cal.

"THANK GOD FOR MUSCLE-RUB" SAYS CALIFORNIA RHEUMATIC SUFFERER

I bought everything I could buy for my rheumatic pains but got no results until I tried MUSCLE-RUB. The pain in my right arm was so bad I could not raise it. Thank God for MUSCLE-RUB—I used it—and now I feel fine. I recommended MUSCLE-RUB to a woman and she says it is helping her too.

Mr. M. L. Breitenfelt
Torrance, Cal.

MOTHER SAYS MUSCLE-RUB IS A GOD SEND FOR RHEUMATIC PAIN

I had such pain in my legs and knees, I heard about MUSCLE-RUB and got a bottle. Now I feel like a new person. My mother, 77 years old, has rheumatism in her fingers, shoulders and arms. I used MUSCLE-RUB on her and in 20 minutes the pains were relieved. I will never be without MUSCLE-RUB.

Mrs. Leo Doerflinger
Dunkirk, N. Y.

RECOMMENDS MUSCLE-RUB AS BEST RELIEF FOR ARTHRITIC PAINS

Have been suffering from arthritic pains for a number of years. Tried numerous kinds of liniments, but got no relief—until a friend told me about MUSCLE-RUB.

Today I feel wonderful — no aches or pains. Would recommend MUSCLE-RUB as the finest for all simple muscular ailments.

Blanche Rudolph
1428 Naomi St., Burbank, Cal.

We urge only that you make this test. MUSCLE-RUB is now obtainable at any drug store. Buy it today. Use one-half the bottle, and if you are not amazed and delighted with the results, return the remaining half to your druggist, and he will refund your money. The price is 98c regular size, $1.89 for large, family size.

By JOHN CROSBY

Brain Against Brawn

I've been prowling around the five o'clock circuit again to find out what the kiddies are being subjected to these days and it's as if I'd never been away. The theme of children's programs, as I should have known, is simple, unalterable and highly questionable.

John Crosby

In virtually all of them, a clean-limbed, fresh-voiced moron who drinks plenty of Ovaltine invariably outwits an evil non-Ovaltine drinker who is equipped with nothing more formidable than brains. There is, of course, considerable doubt whether breakfast foods can work the physical miracles claimed for them, but let it pass and consider the philosophical implications.

I'm not at all sure that the worship of pure muscle at the expense of everything else is the proper way to enlighten our children. Seems to me that a child exposed to children's programs for any length of time will conclude ultimately that any one of unusual mental ability is up to no good. This isn't necessarily true, kiddies. Some of the most profound thinkers I know haven't any ambition to rule the world either legally or illegally. Conversely, some of the dumbest clucks of my acquaintance are crooked as the day is long, if such a phrase is permissible.

Certainly the most famous of these right-thinking though dull-witted heroes is Superman. Superman has been confronted with hosts of villainous men, each of towering intellectual capacity, and he is forced to outdo them by simple dexterity, of which, of course, he has plenty. Right now he is grappling, none too successfully, with a parade of ghosts who are raising cain in the city of Metropolis, easily the most harassed community on earth.

Among the ghosts are those of Geronimo, Captain Kidd, Jesse James and Lucrezia Borgia, who is described as a woman "whose specialty is murder by poison." (Lucrezia had another specialty, kiddies, which was rearing her own brood of children. They grew to adulthood without the benefit of radio or Ovaltine, heaven knows how.) Naturally, the citizenry of Metropolis are upset by this ghostly invasion, so upset, in fact, that an apoplectic City Councilman threatens to impeach the Mayor if he doesn't get rid of Lucrezia and her friends. As a lesson in civics this is a little fuzzy. The exercising of ghosts, for all I know, may be part of the Mayor's duties in Metropolis, whose problems are spectacularly different from those of other communities, but I'm sure that failure in this line does not constitute an impeachable offense. It'd be a difficult thing to pin on a man and an impossible one to prove.

Also under foot in the plot were a gravel-voiced racketeer (the big brain); Lois Lane, the pretty girl friend of Superman, and a cracked old character who ran a waxworks. When last heard from brain had the upper hand over brawn.

"Gang," said the announcer breathlessly at the close of this episode, "tomorrow Superman finds himself in an utterly hopeless position, so don't miss it." Now that statement, gang, is absolutely impossible. By his very nature, Superman can't be in a hopeless position. He is impervious to bullets, hanging, poison, anything. His great weakness is the fact that he hasn't any weaknesses, which automatically rules out any suspense.

Superman, it must be admitted, has been using his popularity for the last two years in a laudable effort toward promoting tolerance. In each episode he delivers a little homily on the subject of world peace, racial tolerance and other noteworthy causes, and indications are these messages are taking firm hold on his juvenile audience. In this respect he deserves an A.

Convected Warmth Is Safeguarded For Baby

Care in the selection of heating units for the new home, or for modernization of your present home, will help safeguard the health of the baby. Drafts at floor level, especially dangerous when baby is in his play pen, can virtually be eliminated with up-to-date heating equipment.

Among modern units now in wide use, convector radiators are said to perform one of the most efficient jobs of supplying even, draftless heat. Convectors warm large volumes of air gradually so that temperatures at floorline and ceiling are virtually the same.

Simple To Decorate

In contrast to old cast-iron radiators, the new convector radiators are smooth and streamlined, and can be painted in a few minutes with only a few strokes of the brush. This ease of decoration makes possible a completely new finish each time the room is done over.

Certainly the most famous of these right-thinking though dull-witted heroes is Superman. Superman has been confronted with hosts of villainous men, each of towering intellectual capacity, and he is forced to outdo them by simple dexterity, of which, of course, he has plenty. Right now he is grappling, none too successfully, with a parade of ghosts who are raising cain in the city of Metropolis, easily the most harassed community on earth.

Among the ghosts are those of Geronimo, Captain Kidd, Jesse James and Lucrezia Borgia, who is described as a woman "whose specialty is murder by poison." (Lucrezia had another specialty, kiddies, which was rearing her own brood of children. They grew to adulthood without the benefit of radio or Ovaltine, heaven knows how.) Naturally, the citizenry of Metropolis are upset by this ghostly invasion, so upset, in fact, that an apoplectic City Councilman threatens to impeach the Mayor if he doesn't get rid of Lucrezia and her friends. As a lesson in civics this is a little fuzzy. The exercising of ghosts, for all I know, may be part of the Mayor's duties in Metropolis, whose problems are spectacularly different from those of other communities, but I'm sure that failure in this line does not constitute an impeachable offense. It'd be a difficult thing to pin on a man and an impossible one to prove.

Also under foot in the plot were a gravel-voiced racketeer (the big brain); Lois Lane, the pretty girl friend of Superman, and a cracked old character who ran a waxworks. When last heard from brain had the upper hand over brawn.

"Gang," said the announcer breathlessly at the close of this episode, "tomorrow Superman finds himself in an utterly hopeless position, so don't miss it." Now that statement, gang, is absolutely impossible. By his very nature, Superman can't be in a hopeless position. He is impervious to bullets, hanging, poison, anything. His great weakness is the fact that he hasn't any weaknesses, which automatically rules out any suspense.

Superman, it must be admitted, has been using his popularity for the last two years in a laudable effort toward promoting tolerance. In each episode he delivers a little homily on the subject of world peace, racial tolerance and other noteworthy causes, and indications are these messages are taking firm hold on his juvenile audience. In this respect he deserves an A.

Convected Warmth Is Safeguarded For Baby

Care in the selection of heating units for the new home, or for modernization of your present home, will help safeguard the health of the baby. Drafts at floor level, especially dangerous when baby is in his play pen, can virtually be eliminated with up-to-date heating equipment.

Among modern units now in wide use, convector radiators are said to perform one of the most efficient jobs of supplying even, draftless heat. Convectors warm large volumes of air gradually so that temperatures at floorline and ceiling are virtually the same.

Simple To Decorate

In contrast to old cast-iron radiators, the new convector radiators are smooth and streamlined, and can be painted in a few minutes with only a few strokes of the brush. This ease of decoration makes possible a completely new finish each time the room is done over.

Compact Kitchen Saves Space, Steps

Today's housewives have learned the advantages of a small, modern kitchen as compared with the large, old fashioned kind of another day. In the latter, the equipment usually is so spread out around the room that many tiresome steps are required for preparation of a single meal. In the modern type, compactness saves steps—and compactness is a direct benefit of space-saving innovations in home equipment, such as built-in cabinets and completely recessed heating units.

Most owners of older homes, perhaps, prefer such a modernized kitchen, yet do not realize they can have one at comparatively little cost. By simply dividing the present large unit into two or more rooms, a home owner can have a modern kitchen, plus an extra room or two for other purposes.

One way to add floor space to the new kitchen is by replacing large old fashioned iron radiators with modern, compact units. The new convector radiators are an excellent example of recent advancements in heat distribution outlets. If recesses can be built, these highly efficient units can be installed in them. If the design of the house won't permit recessing, a convector may be installed flush against a wall, still adding considerable floor area. Paint the new unit to blend with the walls or curtains to further enhance the modern effect.

Mrs. J. A. Cupler, II, To Address CTP Annual Dinner

Mrs. John A. Cupler, II, will be the guest speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the Women's Division of the Co-operative Traffic Program tonight at Ali Ghan Country Club, beginning at 6:30.

Mrs. Emily Miller will preside and honor guests will be Mrs. E. J. Barnett, Washington, first president of the local CTP; Mrs. Harold W. Smith, Maryland Mother of 1948, and Miss Mildred Dreschler, special representative of the CTP.

Cards will feature the entertainment during the evening, with Mrs. Alva Davis general chairman for the dinner and card party. She is being assisted by Mrs. Elizabeth Nave, Mrs. Mary Conn, Mrs. Elsie Kilroy, Mrs. Margery Ziler, and Mrs. Hallie Tracey.

1948 Biennial Nursing Convention To Be May 31

Chicago will be invaded by more than 10,000 registered professional nurses when the 1948 Biennial Nursing Convention begins its five-day meeting on May 31, according to the American Nurses' Association. Sponsored by the ANA, the National League of Nursing Education, and the National Organization for Public Health Nurse, the convention will function on the theme, "America's Nursing Care—a professional challenge and a public responsibility." So acute is the nursing crisis today that it is expected the convention will attract maximum attendance by nurses from all parts of the country.

Table consumption of potatoes remains almost steady from year to year, and more potatoes are now being used in industrial processes.

SALLY'S SALLIES

"I want to make my husband feel as though he's in his office while he's working here."

BROADWAY

By DANTON WALKER

Incidental Intelligence

Wacky World Dept.: Bernarr MacFadden, a recent bridegroom at 80, sent a copy of his latest book to Lana Turner as a wedding present. It is titled "How to Get and Stay Married." . . . A new political outfit in the Bronx calls itself the Grand Concourse Branch of the Henry Wallace for Pennsylvania Avenue Club. . . . One of Wallace's publicity workers, incidentally, is called Freedom Landa. . . . To get around the Petrillo ban, Michael Chimes' Dana disc of "Cuckoo Waltz" (made three weeks ago) was recorded with glockenspiel, kazoo, washboard, harmonica, bird whistle and a rubber plunger, none subject to union rules. . . . The Bowery News has added a column on smart places to wine and dine in New York. . . . The Fireside Inn airmails a basket of southern fried chicken weekly to a plantation owner in Mississippi. . . . For economy reasons (one supposes) Hollywood has streamlined the title of "Lady Windermere's Fan" to "The Fan."

●—●—●

Louella Gear and Roszika Dolly (one of the Dolly Sisters) are decoration advisers on the overhauling of the famed Mori's Restaurant, now in Manhasset, L. I. . . . The new American Theatre Group has been organized by a Viennese actress, Gertrude Rozan (who has $300,000 in financial backing). . . . Paramount Pictures will have a movie and television theatre in the new Madison Square Garden. . . . David Selznick, who paid $17,500 to the estate of the late F. Scott Fitzgerald for "Tender Is the Night," is asking $100,000 for the screen rights. . . . Bob Alton is blocking out a Fall musical for his protegee, Kay Thompson, and it is said that MGM (his studio) is penciled in for 50% of the production costs. . . . June Lockhart's pappy writing a stage vehicle for his daughter who is one of the outstanding hits of the 1948 season.

●—●—●

Margaret Truman and Ingrid Bergman are two of the more distinguished visitors to consult Mary Talley, whose Talley Method of "character reading" is the chief attraction at Cerutti's. . . . Jose Ferrer's role in "The Alchemist" at New York City Center is 98 sides, the longest in his acting career, and there are 15 costume changes. . . . Ada Lynne, comedienne of "Hold It!" is a graduate from the Our Gang comedies in Hollywood, where she was introduced at the age of five by bandleader Paul Ash. . . . Pierre Cartier, satirist-magician at the Club Encore, has submitted two of his original tricks to the government for disguising captured messages, maps, etc. (Cartier was useful to the OSS during the last war, but the details are still top secret.) . . . Basil Rathbone, "The Heiress" star, sends a yearly contribution to the Sisters of Nazareth in South Africa because they hid him as a child during the Boer War.

●—●—●

Senator Glen Taylor's brother is a streetcar conductor in San Francisco. . . . Both Jean Hersholt and Carl Brisson are due to be knighted by the Danish Government. . . . Crooner Frankie Laine, writing his memoirs as a walkathon veteran, reminds us that others in this class were dance director Nick Castle and Red Skelton. . . . Pat Harrington, as well as Gary Grant, once did stilt-walking. . . . The Parisian stage version of "Born Yesterday" will be titled "Voyage a Washington." . . . A Lindy's waiter describes Truman Capote as "a sawed-off Orson Welles." . . . In case you care, 17 of Harry Conover's Cover Girls stands 6 feet tall in their stockings. . . . One of Hollywood's top directors is being sued for alleged non-payment of a grocery bill amounting to more than $3,000. . . . That act of the Ritz Brothers at the Harem requires five stage hands, who must juggle with pies, tomatoes, whips, derbys, canes, belts, flags, baggy pants, a toupe and an umbrella.

●—●—●

Dorothy Lamour's small son was ruled off the set of "Lulu Belle" after trying to attack George Montgomery, because he resented Montgomery's clinches with mom. . . . Leonard Gaynor, ex-20th Century-Fox publicist, has organized his own company here for producing 16 mm films (commercial and television). . . . Adrienne Matzenauer's still unsponsored "Champagne and Orchids" television show has hit a 46.2 Pulse rating. . . . Floyd Mack, one of the highest-paid announcers (NBC's "Telephone Hour") is never mentioned by name on the show, though for eight years he has been introducing the big names. . . . The Disabled Veteran's Project of the Associated Radio Servicemen of New York, is collecting and repairing radio sets and donating them to bedridden vets who need them. If you have any radios to contribute, get in touch with this column (by mail), as it is a worthy cause.

One of the latest aids to coal mining is a "mechanical mole." This continuous mining machine combines the separate functions of drilling, undercutting, blasting and loading in one operation.

Compact Kitchen Saves Space, Steps

Today's housewives have learned the advantages of a small, modern kitchen as compared with the large, old fashioned kind of another day. In the latter, the equipment usually is so spread out around the room that many tiresome steps are required for preparation of a single meal. In the modern type, compactness saves steps—and compactness is a direct benefit of space-saving innovations in home equipment, such as built-in cabinets and completely recessed heating units.

Most owners of older homes, perhaps, prefer such a modernized kitchen, yet do not realize they can have one at comparatively little cost. By simply dividing the present large unit into two or more rooms, a home owner can have a modern kitchen, plus an extra room or two for other purposes.

One way to add floor space to the new kitchen is by replacing large old fashioned iron radiators with modern, compact units. The new convector radiators are an excellent example of recent advancements in heat distribution outlets. If recesses can be built, these highly efficient units can be installed in them. If the design of the house won't permit recessing, a convector may be installed flush against a wall, still adding considerable floor area. Paint the new unit to blend with the walls or curtains to further enhance the modern effect.

Mrs. J. A. Cupler, II, To Address CTP Annual Dinner

Mrs. John A. Cupler, II, will be the guest speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the Women's Division of the Co-operative Traffic Program tonight at Ali Ghan Country Club, beginning at 6:30.

Mrs. Emily Miller will preside and honor guests will be Mrs. E. J. Barnett, Washington, first president of the local CTP; Mrs. Harold W. Smith, Maryland Mother of 1948, and Miss Mildred Dreschler, special representative of the CTP.

Cards will feature the entertainment during the evening, with Mrs. Alva Davis general chairman for the dinner and card party. She is being assisted by Mrs. Elizabeth Nave, Mrs. Mary Conn, Mrs. Elsie Kilroy, Mrs. Margery Ziler, and Mrs. Hallie Tracey.

1948 Biennial Nursing Convention To Be May 31

Chicago will be invaded by more than 10,000 registered professional nurses when the 1948 Biennial Nursing Convention begins its five-day meeting on May 31, according to the American Nurses' Association. Sponsored by the ANA, the National League of Nursing Education, and the National Organization for Public Health Nurse, the convention will function on the theme, "America's Nursing Care—a professional challenge and a public responsibility." So acute is the nursing crisis today that it is expected the convention will attract maximum attendance by nurses from all parts of the country.

Limericks were popular in Ireland as far back as 1790.

YOUR BREAKFAST BRAN A TREAT?

Yes? No? But you eat it to help relieve constipation caused by lack of "bulk" food in your diet! Well, just try Nabisco 100% Bran! "Finer-milling" makes this bran naturally more gentle-acting. And finer flavor makes it a truly tempting breakfast dish! Ask, for Nabisco 100% Bran! (See a doctor if constipation continues.)

How To Hold FALSE TEETH More Firmly in Place

Do your false teeth annoy and embarrass by slipping, dropping or wabbling when you eat, laugh or talk? Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This alkaline (non-acid) powder holds false teeth more firmly and more comfortably. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH today at any drug store.

Market Wades Through Heavy Profit Taking Sales To Resume Its Advance

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—The stock market resumed last week's advance late today after wading through heavy profit taking sales most of the day.

Volume continued at a high level although below the rate of Friday's and Saturday's tempestuous dealings. Sales of 3,050,000 shares compared with 2,590,000 in the two-hour weekend session and 3,840,000 Friday. Today's business, nevertheless, was rich fare for a business which has subsisted for weeks on daily volume of 700,000 to 900,000 shares.

Pure Oil Company stock leaped in front of the market in the last few minutes of trading. The company announced production had started from the deepest level of any oil well in the world and a rush of buying orders appeared almost at once. Trading was suspended for a short time to match up buy and sell orders. When the stock reopened, the ticker tape reported a transaction of 8,500 shares at a price of 40, a gain of 4½ and a new high.

Also higher were Owens-Illinois at 64, Santa Fe at 115¼, Southern Pacific 60, Atlantic Coast Line 61, Superior Oil of California 222 (up four), Paramount Pictures 25, American Telephone 156, Douglas Aircraft 64½, Lockheed 23, Goodrich 63½, Anaconda 39½ and Schenley 33½.

Set back a little were Bethlehem Steel 36⅝, International Harvester 99, Westinghouse Electric 37½, du Pont 181½, Union Pacific 188, Gulf Oil 75⅝, and Studebaker at 27⅜.

United States government bonds stole the show as they moved ahead to their best prices since last December 24 when the Federal Reserve Board reduced its suppor levels.

The bank eligible Treasury 2½s, due September 1967-72, advanced 9-32 to 102 25-32 bid, or a yield of 2.32 per cent. The 2½s, due December 1967-72, went ahead 3-32 to 100 19-32, or a yield of 2.47 per cent.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

The Tragedy Of Hate

Hate dies away if it can't get companions. It takes two or more to hate. And in almost every incident hating is caused by misunderstanding. As William Hazlitt has written, "We can scarcely hate anyone that we know."

Hate, however, is lonely only when it hates alone. If it is kept that way for a time it may easily die out, but if it gets companions its spread of evil may become enormous—that is, if this hate is wickedly inspired and not, as it should be, inspired and directed against all injustice, intolerance and war.

It would be most difficult to hate any person if we knew that person well, for few, if any, people have more bad points about them than good. The good ones usually predominate, so that we cannot hate such a person. Few of our most prized friends could give any of us a perfect endorsement. But rarely are we hated by one upon whom we look as a friend.

Among nations, however, unfortunately hate seems to be held as a commodity. As such it serves no good whatsoever, but continually poisons the very life of the nation that encourages it. How inspiring it is to enter a country where you are welcomed, and where you feel at home, because of the cordiality and hospitality offered.

More than anything else it is hate that fans the flames of war, and indeed that starts the flames in the first place. Wars are not started just for the fun of them. They are started because hate gets out of control, and then the fighting begins. And then, after it finally all ends, the aftermath of this hate is more tragic than ever. Generations come and go before this hate even materially begins to fade out.

It is unnatural to hate. We were put into this world to love one another, to be considerate of others, and to work together for the common good of all. It was never meant that we should think alike, but that we should work together in unity. The moment that we hate anything or anybody, in an evil sense, we sabotage our better self to a serious degree.

Hate clouds the mind, shrink the heart, and sears the soul. Never give it an inch of space!

Market Wades Through Heavy Profit Taking Sales To Resume Its Advance

Volume continued at a high level although below the rate of Friday's and Saturday's tempestuous dealings. Sales of 3,050,000 shares compared with 2,590,000 in the two-hour weekend session and 3,840,000 Friday. Today's business, nevertheless, was rich fare for a business which has subsisted for weeks on daily volume of 700,000 to 900,000 shares.

Pure Oil Company stock leaped in front of the market in the last few minutes of trading. The company announced production had started from the deepest level of any oil well in the world and a rush of buying orders appeared almost at once. Trading was suspended for a short time to match up buy and sell orders. When the stock reopened, the ticker tape reported a transaction of 8,500 shares at a price of 40, a gain of 4½ and a new high.

Also higher were Owens-Illinois at 64, Santa Fe at 115¼, Southern Pacific 60, Atlantic Coast Line 61, Superior Oil of California 222 (up four), Paramount Pictures 25, American Telephone 156, Douglas Aircraft 64½, Lockheed 23, Goodrich 63½, Anaconda 39½ and Schenley 33½.

Set back a little were Bethlehem Steel 36⅝, International Harvester 99, Westinghouse Electric 37½, du Pont 181½, Union Pacific 188, Gulf Oil 75⅝, and Studebaker at 27⅜.

United States government bonds stole the show as they moved ahead to their best prices since last December 24 when the Federal Reserve Board reduced its suppor levels.

The bank eligible Treasury 2½s, due September 1967-72, advanced 9-32 to 102 25-32 bid, or a yield of 2.32 per cent. The 2½s, due December 1987-72, went ahead 3-32 to 100 19-32, or a yield of 2.47 per cent.

City Tax Case Against Burke Opens In Court

State Witness Shows Transaction Pattern

Only one witness testified yesterday in the Circuit Court trial of Charles F. Burke, Jr., former city tax collector, being tried on a state charge of embezzlement in connection with an alleged audit shortage of city tax funds amounting to $8,344.78.

After the case opened yesterday morning before Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish, and attorneys had made their opening statements, Meyer Seigel, Baltimore, a member of the auditing firm which checked the alleged shortage, was called to the stand.

Under routine questioning by Assistant State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, Seigel spent much of the day tracing what unfolded as a fixed pattern of transactions.

Using specific accounts, most of them dealing with personal property assessments against corporations, some of which maintain only branch outlets here, Fletcher led Seigel through a series of questions. In each of eight or ten cases, the pattern appeared about the same.

Outlines Each Item

The auditor told the court bank deposits showed records of checks from these corporate firms covering taxes in amounts varying from $68 to $702. In each instance the checks had been properly endorsed and deposited to the city's account in one of three local banks, he said, adding however, that each of the checks in question had not been run through the cash register because there was no record on the cash register tape in the amount of the check on the day it was received.

Receipted tax bills, bearing the initials CFB, were put into evidence in each case, showing a receipt had been issued for each check received. However, the auditor said in most of these specific instances, he could not find a tax stub to match the receipted bill held by the taxpayer.

Seigel said he could not in many of these particular instances find a charge set up against the taxpayer in the tax office.

Among the firms mentioned in the specific cases were Nobil Shoe Company, Steinla Motor Company, Liberty Milk Company, J. C. Orrick Company, Murphy Company, Sunshine Stores, Inc., Texas Company, and the Consolidated Groceries, Inc.

Throughout the lengthy testimony, defense attorneys made no objections to this evidence as it was presented. However, they did object on several occasions as to the monotony of the proceedings and the repitition of questions and answers in each case, citing that they are all similar.

Attempt To Save Time

Finally Judge Huster asked State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris how many of these accounts he had as evidence and Harris replied, "Thirty." Judge Huster queried, "Do you plan to present them all?" Harris indicated he did.

Then Judge Huster, on the suggestion of defense counsel, agreed that Harris could read the facts into the record and present the evidence as a means of saving time.

Harris read two accounts into the record as evidence and then court adjourned until 9:15 a. m. today, when it was indicated prosecution testimony would be resumed.

Burke has as his defense counsel Harold C. Naughton, former Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan and Edward J. Ryan.

As the case opened yesterday, there was a mild skirmish between opposing counsel over which section of the code the indictment had been drawn.

Judge Huster ruled that the indictment should be under Section 140 as presented by the state's attorney. Harris explained that this section is broader than the one which defense counsel contended should have been used.

Claims Burke Connected

After outlining the manner in which the city tax collector's office operates and listing each employee and the time they were working for the city. Harris stated to the court that "this is a cold calculated crime with somebody stealing the money ($8,334.78) from the city and in almost every instance Burke is connected with the transactions."

Sloan, in his statement to the court, said that "Charlie Burke didn't swipe this money. We admit that the office was not run too carefully and if the tax collector got his figures from the city auditor, as required under the city code, the only liability, if any, would be civil liability," he added.

"The whole thing is in an utter state of confusion and you can't trace the money as being in the hands of this man," Sloan declared. "We know who asked for the special audit and it resulted from jealousy, either personal or political, at the City Hall," he added.

"The Mayor and City Council had not complained, the bonding company had not complained and had not sought a settlement, a special audit would have to require

Protest Filed By Progressives Over Wallace Petition

Declare Publication Meant To 'Intimidate'

A letter protesting publication by the NEWS of signers of the Wallace petition has been received from the Progressive Party of Maryland.

The letter, signed by Dr. John E. T. Camper and James S. Martin, co-chairmen follows:

"We wish to protest the efforts of your paper to intimidate signers of the Wallace nominating petitions into withdrawing their names.

"It becomes more and more obvious that as the Wallace movement grows, as millions of Americans turn from the old, corrupt Wall Street controlled parties to the new party, the attempts to prevent the expression of these millions through the new party become more and more frantic.

"It would seem that our uncontrolled press, upon which Americans depend for uncolored news, might do better than become a Charlie McCarthy for the bigoted, boisterous few who have always opposed progress, or any change which threatens the rule of Wall Street bankers and militarists.

"The Progressive Party will not allow free critical thinking, writing, and speaking to be supressed. We intend to overcome, through the historic Wallace movement, all attempts to militarize our country, or to lower the living standards of our people, or to discriminate against minorities. We will fight war hysteria and the evils it breeds. We will oppose the instruments which seek to impose a reign of fear—the Loyalty Orders, the Un-American Committee, the Mundt-Nixon Bill —an atmosphere which is being imposed on Cumberland residents by the unethical tactics of your newspaper and by the attempted persecution of a Reverend who happened to have independent political convictions.

"Is America to experience the day when all critical or independent thought, all attempts to improve society, and all opposition to militarism and war are stamped out in Police State fashion?

"We of the Progressive Party say 'No.' Millions of Americans will register in November their distrust with the bi-partisan attack on their liberty, their savings, their future. They will speak in a mighty voice against the intimidation which your newspaper locally seeks to advance."

Maryland officers are listed on the stationery as Harold Buchman, executive secretary and state director; vice chairmen, Michael J. Clifford, I. Duke Avnet, Dr. Orris Walker, Roy S. Bond, Mrs. Kaye Ginsberg, Walter McManamon, Mrs. Reba Lewis, Henry T. Hunt, William Boyd Coleman, Mrs. Luke Wilson, Dr. Alexander J. Walker, William W. Hill, Sarah F. Diggs, Dr. Roger A. Lewis, Robert K. Burns, Jr., Dr. William H. Watts, Truman Keesey, Donald McLaughlin, Herman Fish, Jacob Green, Harold Aquillard, Ernest Fielder, Russell Summers, Eugene Bourckel, Philip J. Kulinski.

Assistant state director, Henry Beitcher, and field organizer, Joseph Henderson.

Kiwanians To Hear State Parole Head

Murray Benson, head of the state parole system and former city solicitor of Baltimore, will discuss "The Maryland Parole System" at the weekly meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club Thursday at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Charles F. Helmrich was elected at a recent meeting of the Kiwanis board of directors to represent the club at the "Public Relations Day" event to be held Thursday at Frostburg State Teachers College.

Five proposals for membership were unanimously approved at the meeting.

State Members Of AP To Discuss Better Coverage

Robinson Presides At Greenbrier Meeting

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va.—Maryland members of the Associated Press will consider methods of improved news coverage in the state today at the 100th anniversary meeting of the Associated Press at the Greenbrier, famous White Sulphur Springs resort.

Harry H. Robinson, managing editor of The Cumberland (Md.) News and president of the Chesapeake (Maryland) Association, will preside at the meeting, scheduled for 11 o'clock (DST) today.

On the agenda, in addition to a general discussion of better state coverage, will be consideration of arrangements to provide complete coverage of the special session of the Legislature which begins a week from today, and an expanded weather report for Maryland.

Attending the meeting from the Cumberland newspapers besides Robinson are John J. McMullen, president of the Times and Alleganian Company, and Eugene T. Gunning, assistant managing editor of the Cumberland Evening Times.

The Associated Press's 100th anniversary is being marked at the Greenbrier by AP associations of four states — Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina — and the District of Columbia.

Each state association will meet this morning at the same hour as the Chesapeake Association, and at 3 p. m. (DST) today, they will hold a joint meeting.

This will be followed by a tour of the expansive Greenbrier grounds and points of historical interest.

A formal dinner dance will be held tonight with Dr. Francis Pendleton Gaines, president of Washington and Lee University and one of the South's best orators, as the principal speaker.

Registration took place yesterday morning and was followed in the afternoon by a women's games party and a men's golf tournament. A cocktail party and dinner were held last night.

Railroad Trespasser Given Jail Sentence

Harry Moore Brunswick Hotel, who was apprehended Sunday on a charge of trespassing on Baltimore and Ohio Railroad property, was sentenced to 10 days in county jail when arrainged before Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., yesterday.

Ursuline Students To Attend Convention

Twelve Ursuline Academy students have been registered for the 13th annual convention of the Catholic Students Mission Crusade which will be held August 25 to 29 at Notre Dame, the first such convention to be held since before the war.

They are Susanna and Virginia McLane, Maxine Barncord, Anna Madden, Rita Helmstetter, Mary McMullen, Joan Morehead, Dolores Gillard, Jean Lydig, Maxine Lynch, Helen Mullaney and Eileen Kelly, who will be guest of honor at the convention.

Doub Appointed Maryland Advisor To Gov. Stassen

Announcement Made By Eastern Manager

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP) — Baltimore Attorney George Cochran Doub has been appointed Maryland advisor to Harold Stassen in the former Minnesota governor's bid for the Republican presidential nomination.

Amos Peasley, eastern manager for Stassen, announced this here today.

Stassen, Peasley said, may pay another visit to Maryland to further his candidacy. No definite plans have been made yet, however.

The Maryland State GOP Convention meets in Baltimore Thursday. It is expected to send an uninstructed delegation to the national party conclave.

He said in a statement following Peasley's announcement that the Stassen Committee in Maryland will support Jacob France, Republican national committeeman from Maryland.

Doub declared that "since I believe that Governor Stassen is the most vital figure in American politics today, I am glad to accept the appointment as his adviser and representative in Maryland.

"Although no organized effort has been made on behalf of Governor Stassen in this state, there has developed spontaneously a large following for him which is growing steadily in members.

"x x x I feel confident that the Maryland delegation (to the GOP national convention) will give consideration to supporting him."

The lawyer said that the Stassen Committee to be formed in Maryland "will support Jacob France who has made such major contributions in time and effort to the Republican party as national committeeman."

Doub is a native of Cumberland.

Priesthood Scholarship Examination Scheduled

The archdiocesan scholarship examination for boys of Western Maryland wishing to study for the Catholic Priesthood at St. Charles College, Catonsville, will be conducted Saturday at 10 a. m. at St. Patrick's Catholic Church rectory.

Youths taking the examination must have completed the eighth grade in elementary school and have the recommendation of the pastor of their parish.

Repair Work Started On Postoffice Here

According to William C. McDermott, acting postmaster, repair work on the inside of the postoffice building was started yesterday, when workmen began operations in the mail room.

The contract calls for painting and repairs to the exterior of the building. The work is being done by the Sherwood Company, Philadelphia, Pa., successful bidders.

To Address Class

Maj. Elmer Wall, of the Salvation Army, will address members of St. Mark's Men's Club at 8:15 o'clock tonight at the monthly meeting in the social rooms of the church. Entertainment will be furnished by a male chorus from Berlin, Pa.

Legion District Approves Plan For State Vets' Bonus

Question To Go Before Convention

Mountain District American Legion, representing all posts in Allegany and Garrett counties, has officially approved the action of Farrady Post No. 24, Frostburg, in sponsoring a movement to obtain a state bonus for Maryland veterans of World War II, similar to that paid veterans of a number of other states.

Action was taken Sunday at a district meeting in Grantsville at the new home of the Grantsville Post, following the annual "I Am An American Day" and Rehabilitation Day program.

The bonus committee of Farrady Post includes Lloyd S. McNeil, this city, chairman, Alec Nicol, John Fred Rowe and Frank Powers, post commander.

The question of the bonus, being publicized through petitions among veterans and other citizens, is to be put before the state convention late this summer, according to James Kenney, district vice commander, with the endorsement of posts from the Mountain District. The help and co-operation of other veterans, civic and patriotic organizations is to be solicited in the movement, McNeil said.

State Commander Harry Allen, Laurel, and State Adjutant Jack Tribby, Baltimore, were present at the meeting Sunday and suggested the bonus question be referred to the state executive committee for recommendation to the convention.

Commander Allen made presentations to James J. O'Rourke, commander of Barton Post, for the highest percentage record in membership gain, and also made awards to Fulton Meyers Post, this city, and James P. Love Post, Lonaconing.

Vice Commander Kenney was presented with a new history of the American Legion.

Other speakers included Joseph Bozeman, Baltimore, state rehabilitation officer; Norman J. Stiles, American Legion Service Officer for Maryland, and his assistant, Joseph Daugherty, both of Baltimore; Thomas F. Conlon, rehabilitation chairman, this city; and Miss Jessie Smith representing the Lonaconing Post Auxillary.

Harvey Gortner, commander of the Grantsville Post, welcomed the visitors and presided at the opening phase of the meeting. Refreshments were served after the program.

Cresaptown Firemen Plan Parade Tonight

The Community Volunteer Fire Department of Cresaptown will sponsor a parade tonight at 7:30 o'clock as one of the features of the week-long celebration of the organization's 15th anniversary.

With approximately 30 volunteer fire departments scheduled to be in the line of march along with three bands and two drum corps, the parade will form on McMullen Highway, near the Celanese Corporation of America swimming pool.

The line of march will be west on McMullen Highway to the Cresaptown Postoffice, then down Winchester Road to Craddock Road and on to Brady Road to the carnival ground where the units will disband.

A dance and program of entertainment will follow the parade. Varied programs are scheduled for each night this week with much of the activity planned for the carnival grounds.

Maryland Postmasters To Meet At Ocean City

Maryland Chapter, National Association of Postmasters, and the Maryland branch of the National Association of Postal Supervisors will meet jointly in Ocean City, Md., on May 25 and 26, according to William C. McDermott, acting postmaster.

The sessions, which will be held in the Hotel Royalton, will be featured by speeches by Vincent C. Burke, first assistant postmaster general; Clifton C. Garner, superintendent of the Division of Postoffice Service; C. F. Chatto and L. B. Schoonover, Postoffice inspectors; M. J. McAuliffe, regional director, Fourth U. S. Civil Service Region; Fergus McRee, Richmond, Va., member of the Executive Committee of the National Association of Postmasters.

Overall Traffic Survey In City Is Recommended

Study Is Estimated To Cost $16,000

As a first step toward formulating a master plan for Cumberland's future development, the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission yesterday voted to recommend that the Mayor and Council contact the State Roads Commission with regard to making an overall traffic survey in the city.

H. W. Smith, commission secretary, recalled that the State Roads Commission had prevously estimated the cost of such a survey at $16,000, of which 50 per cent would be borne by the federal government and 25 per cent each by the state and Cumberland.

Pointing out that data from such a survey would be necessary to develop a plan for future street and highway development, Smith said the Federal Roads Administration requires such information with regard to the proposed crosstown viaduct.

Smith suggested that funds to cover the cost of the survey might be included in the commission's appropriation when city officials prepare the budget for the 1948-49 fiscal year this month.

Similar Surveys Made

A. Russell Vollmer, an engineer with the firm of Whitman, Requardt and Associates, Baltimore, said similar traffic surveys have been made in Hagerstown, Frederick and Baltimore. He added that the survey would be directed by the traffic bureau of the State Roads Commission.

Chairman James Alfred Avirett said after the survey is made, the next step would be to prepare a plan for future street development, adding that early acquisition of the property involved would save the city money. Lots owned by the city should be sold only after careful consideration with regard to future development of streets, he said.

Vollmer said individual master plans could be developed for various planning problems, taking as an example a streets and highways program, which could lead into recreation development.

He said the city does not require much more specialized study of such problems, recalling that recommendations and data are already available on flood control, water supply, sewerage and crosstown viaduct projects, as well as a number of others.

Another Baltimore expert who attended yesterday's meeting in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post was Jefferson C. Grinnalds, a professional consultant on city planning and zoning and administrator of zoning in Baltimore, who prepared Cumberland's zoning ordinance in 1944.

With regard to future development of streets as part of the master plan, Grinnalds suggested that Cumberland could attempt to secure legislation which would prevent construction on property where streets have been mapped out in the plan.

Such legislation would be new in Maryland, Grinnalds said, but he pointed out that a number of other zoning experiments unheard of several years ago are now accepted by the courts.

By way of illustration, he cited the section of a special state enabling act which permits zoning one mile beyond city limits for protection of rural development.

Zoning Changes Cited

A discussion of possible improvements which could be made in Cumberland's zoning ordinance developed after City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer said one of the main difficulties is caused by the arbitrary lines set up in some sections of the city, with residential zones next to industrial zones.

Rizer said he would like to see North Centre and North Mechanic Streets zoned entirely as business districts, instead of the present arrangement of certain residential "spots" along the streets.

Grinnalds said Frederick's new zoning ordinance, which he has just completed, provides for "buffer" zones between residential and business areas, where professional offices and other business establishments not of a mercantile nature may be located.

The local zoning ordinance could be amended to rezone sections where necessary, he pointed out.

Others attending the meeting were Mayor Post, George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer and water superintendent; City Attorney Thomas B. Finan, and Benjamin O'Rourke. Another commission member, Clarence Griggs, was absent due to illness.

Ridgeley Legion Will Nominate Tonight

Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion, Ridgeley, W. Va., will meet tonight at 8 o'clock for the purpose of nominating officers, Commander Nelson Brant said yesterday.

Commander Brant urges that all members attend the meeting so that the best possible slate of candidates can be selected. The election will be held at the regular meeting June 1.

WILL BE ORDAINED — John Francis Mattingly, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Mattingly, 526 Lowell Avenue, will be ordained to the priesthood in Baltimore Saturday by Archbishop Keough. On Sunday Father Mattingly will hold his first solemn high mass in St. Patrick's Church.

Mrs. Henderson's Rites Wednesday

A funeral service will be held Wednesday afternoon for Mrs. Robert R. Henderson, mother of Associate Judge George Henderson, who was fatally injured in an automobile accident Sunday night near Clear Spring.

Judge Henderson, also injured in the accident as he and his mother were returning to Cumberland on Route 40, was reported in "fair" condition last night in Washington County Hospital, Hagerstown, where he was admitted following the collision of their car with a tractor-trailer truck.

A local physician, called to Hagerstown for consultation, said Judge Henderson suffered a fractured right arm, several fractured ribs and severe shock.

Attaches at the hospital said it will be several days before Judge Henderson can be moved to Cumberland.

The service for Mrs. Henderson will be conducted at her home, 519 Washington Street, by Rev. David C. Watson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church. Interment will be in Rose Hill Cemetery.

PE Bus Fare Hike Effective May 30

Fare rates on Potomac Edison Company buses operating in Cumberland and to nearby industrial plants are scheduled to raise May 30, company officials announced yesterday.

The fare increases which will affect the sale of commutation tickets only was approved by the Public Service Commission at a hearing in Baltimore recently following a protest by the Mayor and City Council and local union groups.

Originally scheduled to go into affect May 2, Henry W. Price, Cumberland district manager of PE, said the company will initiate the new fare rates May 30 and will begin informing the public of the hike today in accordance with PSC regulations.

The new rates will eliminate the present three-for-25 cent tickets and 15-for-$1 tickets and establish six-for-50 cent tickets on city runs. It will also eliminate the 10-for-80 cent tickets now being sold on the Cresaptown and Celanese routes.

The present cash fares will not be affected, Price said, adding that the increase is the first the company has made in bus fares since 1930 with the exception of a slight change in the cost of school tickets some years ago.

Signs informing the public of the proposed increase will be posted in all buses today, according to Price.

Pennsylvanian Injured While Chopping Tree

Charles McClure, Route 3, Chambersburg, Pa., was treated in Memorial Hospital yesterday after he had cut the second toe of his left foot with an axe. According to hospital attaches, McClure was chopping a tree down near Bean's Cove when the accident happened.

Others treated include Julia May Young, 40, 615 Bedford Street, for a fractured right leg, and Harry Yost, 45, 160 North Mechanic Street, who was struck on the right arm with a board while working at Celanese.

Catholic Conference Of Priests Postponed

The clerical conference for the priests of the Western Maryland section of the Archdiocese of Baltimore, originally set for Thursday, has been postponed until Friday, May 21, when it will be held at 11 a. m. in St. Patrick's Catholic Church rectory.

Rev. Walter McCarthy, S.S., president of St. Mary's Seminary School of Philosophy, Baltimore, will conduct the meeting.

1,039 Housing Units Needed Survey Shows

Report Given On Poll Of Veterans

A total of 625 housing units are needed by veterans in Cumberland and 414 are needed in the county, according to a report submitted yesterday to the Mayor and Council by the three-man Veterans Housing Committee named by the city in January to make the study.

The committee was headed by James B. Reinhart, president of the Cumberland Real Estate Board, who was assisted by F. Patrick Allender, business agent of Local 1024, Carpenters Union, and C. William Spangler, assistant veterans' employment representative, here.

Making no specific recommendations, the report tabulated information received from a questionnaire survey made among World War II veterans in Cumberland and Allegany County.

2,194 Completed

Of the 9,250 questionnaires mailed, 2,194 were completed and returned to the committee. Of that number, approximately 50 per cent indicated satisfactory housing facilities at the present time, the report stated.

The survey was made to correlate available data regarding housing conditions in this area for use by city and county officials and the Maryland Veterans Housing Commission.

In Cumberland, the questionnaires revealed that 235 rental units were needed, with 173 veterans stating they were seeking houses and 62 seeking apartments.

Of the 173 seeking houses, 142 veterans have children in the family, and all but four indicated they would be unable to pay over $50 a month rental. Of the remaining 31 veterans without children in the family, 27 also said $50 monthly rental would be the maximum they could pay.

Most Could Pay $50

Thirty-two of the 62 veterans seeking apartments have children, and only one veteran said he could pay over $50 monthly rental. Twenty-seven of the 30 childless veterans said $50 would be the most they could pay for monthly rental of apartments.

The survey also showed that 147 Cumberland veterans want to buy new or used homes, with 135 of that number setting $6,000 as their maximum investment. The remainder said they could invest over $6,000 if necessary.

In addition, 257 Cumberland veterans said they want to build new homes, with all but 35 stating that their investment would be under $6,000.

In the county, 109 rental units are sought, including 87 houses and 22 apartments. Of the 87 veterans seeking to rent houses, 68 have children in the family and are unable to pay over $50 a month rent. Only one of the 19 veterans without children said he could pay more than $50 monthly rental for a house.

Majority Could Invest $6,000

Likewise, only one of the 22 veterans seeking apartments could pay over $50 monthly rental, according to the report.

Eighty-eight county veterans said they wanted to buy new or used homes, with only three of that number indicating they could invest over $6,000, and 207 other veterans said they would like to build new homes. Only eight of the 207 could invest over $6,000.

The committee thanked city and county officials for financial assistance, and volunteer clerical workers who aided in completing the survey.

Harmon Youngster Found Playing On Local Street

"Butchie" Harmon, city police are betting, had a good sleep last night after being questioned for considerable time in Police Headquarters yesterday afternoon.

It seems that "Butchie" opened the front door of his Henry Street home, while his mother was out shopping and his father was catching some sleep missed while working the "cat-eye" shift. He was picked up by police on Baltimore Street and taken to headquarters where he stood pat on not revealing his name to the officers. Glazed doughnuts and a "hot dog" didn't break him down.

But everything turned out for the best "Butchie's" father called and then came to the station and you could see the little two-year-old's face light up. Nobody in police department thought to ask the parents names, but anyway "Butchie" is okay and you can bet he'll be under closer observation in the future.

Regular Navy To Enlist Journalist Into Service

Chief Torpedoman Edgar L. Schrader, Regular U. S. Navy, announced yesterday that the Navy has openings and would begin enlisting immediately male personnel who can qualify as "journalists."

According to Schrader, the jobs are open at the present and after recruit training the applicant would move immediately into the news department of the Navy.

No persons having previous military training are eligible. Applicants must have had experience in high school or other newspaper work, must have completed a high school course in journalism and must have a proficiency in touch typing.

The Weather

Maybe you didn't notice it, but ye ole weather man said the Cumberland area had hail mixed in with that thundershower yesterday afternoon around 3 o'clock. No damage was reported, but for this time of the year it could have caused considerable trouble for vegetable and fruit growers.

The mercury, after a lazy start, finally did climb to a maximum of 74 degrees, coming up from a low of 60 during the night. The rainfall from 8 a. m. Monday until 11 o'clock last night was 0.32 of an inch, which was double that of Sunday. For today, the prophet says it will be fair with moderate temperature. Better be prepared for those April showers in May though.

YMCA Planning 4-Week Day Camp Program, Starting Tuesday, July 6

Plans are being made to conduct a day camp program under the auspices of Central YMCA for the four-week period starting July 6, Henry W. Price, chairman of the YMCA camp committee, announced yesterday.

The program will be conducted four days a week, Tuesday through Friday. Two days each week will be spent at the "Y" building, while on the other two days the program will be conducted on YMCA property on Bedford Road, offering boys and girls opportunities to learn camp-craft, fire building, outdoor cooking and other camping activities.

Price said the daily hours will be from 9 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. The program will feature arts and crafts, playground activities, swimming instruction and archery.

One afternoon each week will be devoted to educational trips to nearby points of historical interest and to local industrial plants.

The committee is also making plans to send a group of Cumberland boys to Camp Letts at Edgewater, Md., during the summer months.

Camp Letts, which is operated by the Washington, D. C., YMCA, is located 10 miles from Annapolis on a wooded peninsula near the point where the Rhode River and two smaller streams empty into the bay.

Three separate camping periods of three weeks each will be held at Camp Letts from June 27 through August 29. Information on enrollment may be obtained at Central YMCA from Winfield H. Adam, acting general secretary.

Rules Are Given For Outwitting Swindlers Who Offer Bad Checks

When you cash checks for a stranger, be careful. Check swindlers count on your carelessness.

That's the warning issued by the National Better Business Bureau, Inc., which said the number of complaints to Bureaus all over the country indicate that check swindling is big business.

It's a problem in Cumberland, too, of course. Harold W. Smith, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, endorsed the following suggestions which, the Bureau said, may help businessmen to avoid loss by check swindlers:

If you don't know your payee, require personal and positive identification that the holder is the payee, even though you know the check is good.

Personal identifications is no good unless personally endorsed by the identifier. If he won't endorse it, why should you cash it?

Ask yourself this question: Would I be willing to lend this stranger the amount asked for out of my own pocket on his unsecured promise to pay?

Every strange check worth cashing is worth investigating. Check the references.

Do not overlook noting on the back of checks you cash any information relied on for identification, such as Social Security numbers, license numbers, addresses and name of employer.

Be especially suspicious if a check is offered for an amount more than a purchase made from you.

The fact that a check is printed doesn't make it good. What one

State Witness Shows Transaction Pattern

Only one witness testified yesterday in the Circuit Court trial of Charles F. Burke, Jr., former city tax collector, being tried on a state charge of embezzlement in connection with an alleged audit shortage of city tax funds amounting to $8,344.78.

After the case opened yesterday morning before Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish, and attorneys had made their opening statements, Meyer Seigel, Baltimore, a member of the auditing firm which checked the alleged shortage, was called to the stand.

Under routine questioning by Assistant State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, Seigel spent much of the day tracing what unfolded as a fixed pattern of transactions.

Using specific accounts, most of them dealing with personal property assessments against corporations, some of which maintain only branch outlets here, Fletcher led Seigel through a series of questions. In each of eight or ten cases, the pattern appeared about the same.

Outlines Each Item

The auditor told the court bank deposits showed records of checks from these corporate firms covering taxes in amounts varying from $68 to $702. In each instance the checks had been properly endorsed and deposited to the city's account in one of three local banks, he said, adding however, that each of the checks in question had not been run through the cash register because there was no record on the cash register tape in the amount of the check on the day it was received.

Receipted tax bills, bearing the initials CFB, were put into evidence in each case, showing a receipt had been issued for each check received. However, the auditor said in most of these specific instances, he could not find a tax stub to match the receipted bill held by the taxpayer.

Seigel said he could not in many of these particular instances find a charge set up against the taxpayer in the tax office.

Among the firms mentioned in the specific cases were Nobil Shoe Company, Steinla Motor Company, Liberty Milk Company, J. C. Orrick Company, Murphy Company, Sunshine Stores, Inc., Texas Company, and the Consolidated Groceries, Inc.

Throughout the lengthy testimony, defense attorneys made no objections to this evidence as it was presented. However, they did object on several occasions as to the monotony of the proceedings and the repitition of questions and answers in each case, citing that they are all similar.

Attempt To Save Time

Finally Judge Huster asked State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris how many of these accounts he had as evidence and Harris replied, "Thirty." Judge Huster queried, "Do you plan to present them all?" Harris indicated he did.

Then Judge Huster, on the suggestion of defense counsel, agreed that Harris could read the facts into the record and present the evidence as a means of saving time.

Harris read two accounts into the record as evidence and then court adjourned until 9:15 a. m. today, when it was indicated prosecution testimony would be resumed.

Burke has as his defense counsel Harold C. Naughton, former Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan and Edward J. Ryan.

As the case opened yesterday, there was a mild skirmish between opposing counsel over which section of the code the indictment had been drawn.

During the debate on the indictment D. Lindley Sloan, former chief judge of Circuit Court, and head of the defense counsel, stated:

"We're ready for trial now under either of the sections".

Judge Huster ruled that the indictment should be under Section 140 as presented by the state's attorney. Harris explained that this section is broader than the one which defense counsel contended should have been used.

Claims Burke Connected

After outlining the manner in which the city tax collector's office operates and listing each employee and the time they were working for the city. Harris stated to the court that "this is a cold calculated crime with somebody stealing the money ($8,334.78) from the city and in almost every instance Burke is connected with the transactions."

Sloan, in his statement to the court, said that "Charlie Burke didn't swipe this money. We admit that the office was not run too carefully and if the tax collector got his figures from the city auditor, as required under the city code, the only liability, if any, would be civil liability," he added.

"The whole thing is in an utter state of confusion and you can't trace the money as being in the hands of this man," Sloan declared. "We know who asked for the special audit and it resulted from jealousy, either personal or political, at the City Hall," he added.

"The Mayor and City Council had not complained, the bonding company had not complained and had not sought a settlement, a special audit would have to require

Overall Traffic Survey In City Is Recommended

Study Is Estimated To Cost $16,000

As a first step toward formulating a master plan for Cumberland's future development, the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission yesterday voted to recommend that the Mayor and Council contact the State Roads Commission with regard to making an overall traffic survey in the city.

H. W. Smith, commission secretary, recalled that the State Roads Commission had prevously estimated the cost of such a survey at $16,000, of which 50 per cent would be borne by the federal government and 25 per cent each by the state and Cumberland.

Pointing out that data from such a survey would be necessary to develop a plan for future street and highway development, Smith said the Federal Roads Administration requires such information with regard to the proposed crosstown viaduct.

Smith suggested that funds to cover the cost of the survey might be included in the commission's appropriation when city officials prepare the budget for the 1948-49 fiscal year this month.

Similar Surveys Made

A. Russell Vollmer, an engineer with the firm of Whitman, Requardt and Associates, Baltimore, said similar traffic surveys have been made in Hagerstown, Frederick and Baltimore. He added that the survey would be directed by the traffic bureau of the State Roads Commission.

Chairman James Alfred Avirett said after the survey is made, the next step would be to prepare a plan for future street development, adding that early acquisition of the property involved would save the city money. Lots owned by the city should be sold only after careful consideration with regard to future development of streets, he said.

Vollmer said individual master plans could be developed for various planning problems, taking as an example a streets and highways program, which could lead into recreation development.

He said the city does not require much more specialized study of such problems, recalling that recommendations and data are already available on flood control, water supply, sewerage and crosstown viaduct projects, as well as a number of others.

Another Baltimore expert who attended yesterday's meeting in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post was Jefferson C. Grinnalds, a professional consultant on city planning and zoning and administrator of zoning in Baltimore, who prepared Cumberland's zoning ordinance in 1944.

With regard to future development of streets as part of the master plan, Grinnalds suggested that Cumberland could attempt to secure legislation which would prevent construction on property where streets have been mapped out in the plan.

Such legislation would be new in Maryland, Grinnalds said, but he pointed out that a number of other zoning experiments unheard of several years ago are now accepted by the courts.

By way of illustration, he cited the section of a special state enabling act which permits zoning one mile beyond city limits for protection of rural development.

Zoning Changes Cited

A discussion of possible improvements which could be made in Cumberland's zoning ordinance developed after City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer said one of the main difficulties is caused by the arbitrary lines set up in some sections of the city, with residential zones next to industrial zones.

Rizer said he would like to see North Centre and North Mechanic Streets zoned entirely as business districts, instead of the present arrangement of certain residential "spots" along the streets.

Grinnalds said Frederick's new zoning ordinance, which he has just completed, provides for "buffer" zones between residential and business areas, where professional offices and other business establishments not of a mercantile nature may be located.

The local zoning ordinance could be amended to rezone sections where necessary, he pointed out.

Others attending the meeting were Mayor Post, George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer and water superintendent; City Attorney Thomas B. Finan, and Benjamin O'Rourke. Another commission member, Clarence Griggs, was absent due to illness.

WILL BE ORDAINED — John Francis Mattingly, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Mattingly, 526 Lowell Avenue, will be ordained to the priesthood in Baltimore Saturday by Archbishop Keough. On Sunday Father Mattingly will hold his first solemn high mass in St. Patrick's Church.

Mrs. Henderson's Rites Wednesday

A funeral service will be held Wednesday afternoon for Mrs. Robert R. Henderson, mother of Associate Judge George Henderson, who was fatally injured in an automobile accident Sunday night near Clear Spring.

Judge Henderson, also injured in the accident as he and his mother were returning to Cumberland on Route 40, was reported in "fair" condition last night in Washington County Hospital, Hagerstown, where he was admitted following the collision of their car with a tractor-trailer truck.

A local physician, called to Hagerstown for consultation, said Judge Henderson suffered a fractured right arm, several fractured ribs and severe shock.

Attaches at the hospital said it will be several days before Judge Henderson can be moved to Cumberland.

The service for Mrs. Henderson will be conducted at her home, 519 Washington Street, by Rev. David C. Watson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church. Interment will be in Rose Hill Cemetery.

1,039 Housing Units Needed Survey Shows

Report Given On Poll Of Veterans

A total of 625 housing units are needed by veterans in Cumberland and 414 are needed in the county, according to a report submitted yesterday to the Mayor and Council by the three-man Veterans Housing Committee named by the city in January to make the study.

The committee was headed by James B. Reinhart, president of the Cumberland Real Estate Board, who was assisted by F. Patrick Allender, business agent of Local 1024, Carpenters Union, and C. William Spangler, assistant veterans' employment representative, here.

Making no specific recommendations, the report tabulated information received from a questionnaire survey made among World War II veterans in Cumberland and Allegany County.

2,194 Completed

Of the 9,250 questionnaires mailed, 2,194 were completed and returned to the committee. Of that number, approximately 50 per cent indicated satisfactory housing facilities at the present time, the report stated.

The survey was made to correlate available data regarding housing conditions in this area for use by city and county officials and the Maryland Veterans Housing Commission.

In Cumberland, the questionnaires revealed that 235 rental units were needed, with 173 veterans stating they were seeking houses and 62 seeking apartments.

Of the 173 seeking houses, 142 veterans have children in the family, and all but four indicated they would be unable to pay over $50 a month rental. Of the remaining 31 veterans without children in the family, 27 also said $50 monthly rental would be the maximum they could pay.

Most Could Pay $50

Thirty-two of the 62 veterans seeking apartments have children, and only one veteran said he could pay over $50 monthly rental. Twenty-seven of the 30 childless veterans said $50 would be the most they could pay for monthly rental of apartments.

The survey also showed that 147 Cumberland veterans want to buy new or used homes, with 135 of that number setting $6,000 as their maximum investment. The remainder said they could invest over $6,000 if necessary.

In addition, 257 Cumberland veterans said they want to build new homes, with all but 35 stating that their investment would be under $6,000.

In the county, 109 rental units are sought, including 87 houses and 22 apartments. Of the 87 veterans seeking to rent houses, 68 have children in the family and are unable to pay over $50 a month rent. Only one of the 19 veterans without children said he could pay more than $50 monthly rental for a house.

Majority Could Invest $6,000

Likewise, only one of the 22 veterans seeking apartments could pay over $50 monthly rental, according to the report.

Eighty-eight county veterans said they wanted to buy new or used homes, with only three of that number indicating they could invest over $6,000, and 207 other veterans said they would like to build new homes. Only eight of the 207 could invest over $6,000.

The committee thanked city and county officials for financial assistance, and volunteer clerical workers who aided in completing the survey.

Protest Filed By Progressives Over Wallace Petition

Declare Publication Meant To 'Intimidate'

A letter protesting publication by the NEWS of signers of the Wallace petition has been received from the Progressive Party of Maryland.

The letter, signed by Dr. John E. T. Camper and James S. Martin, co-chairmen follows:

"We wish to protest the efforts of your paper to intimidate signers of the Wallace nominating petitions into withdrawing their names.

"It becomes more and more obvious that as the Wallace movement grows, as millions of Americans turn from the old, corrupt Wall Street controlled parties to the new party, the attempts to prevent the expression of these millions through the new party become more and more frantic.

"It would seem that our uncontrolled press, upon which Americans depend for uncolored news, might do better than become a Charlie McCarthy for the bigoted, boisterous few who have always opposed progress, or any change which threatens the rule of Wall Street bankers and militarists.

"The Progressive Party will not allow free critical thinking, writing, and speaking to be supressed. We intend to overcome, through the historic Wallace movement, all attempts to militarize our country, or to lower the living standards of our people, or to discriminate against minorities. We will fight war hysteria and the evils it breeds. We will oppose the instruments which seek to impose a reign of fear—the Loyalty Orders, the Un-American Committee, the Mundt-Nixon Bill —an atmosphere which is being imposed on Cumberland residents by the unethical tactics of your newspaper and by the attempted persecution of a Reverend who happened to have independent political convictions.

"Is America to experience the day when all critical or independent thought, all attempts to improve society, and all opposition to militarism and war are stamped out in Police State fashion?

"We of the Progressive Party say 'No.' Millions of Americans will register in November their distrust with the bi-partisan attack on their liberty, their savings, their future. They will speak in a mighty voice against the intimidation which your newspaper locally seeks to advance."

Maryland officers are listed on the stationery as Harold Buchman, executive secretary and state director; vice chairmen, Michael J. Clifford, I. Duke Avnet, Dr. Orris Walker, Roy S. Bond, Mrs. Kaye Ginsberg, Walter McManamon, Mrs. Reba Lewis, Henry T. Hunt, William Boyd Coleman, Mrs. Luke Wilson, Dr. Alexander J. Walker, William W. Hill, Sarah F. Diggs, Dr. Roger A. Lewis, Robert K. Burns, Jr., Dr. William H. Watts, Truman Keesey, Donald McLaughlin, Herman Fish, Jacob Green, Harold Aquillard, Ernest Fielder, Russell Summers, Eugene Bourckel, Philip J. Kulinski.

Assistant state director, Henry Beitcher, and field organizer, Joseph Henderson.

Kiwanians To Hear State Parole Head

Murray Benson, head of the state parole system and former city solicitor of Baltimore, will discuss "The Maryland Parole System" at the weekly meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club Thursday at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Charles F. Helmrich was elected at a recent meeting of the Kiwanis board of directors to represent the club at the "Public Relations Day" event to be held Thursday at Frostburg State Teachers College.

Five proposals for membership were unanimously approved at the meeting.

State Members Of AP To Discuss Better Coverage

Robinson Presides At Greenbrier Meeting

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va.—Maryland members of the Associated Press will consider methods of improved news coverage in the state today at the 100th anniversary meeting of the Associated Press at the Greenbrier, famous White Sulphur Springs resort.

Harry H. Robinson, managing editor of The Cumberland (Md.) News and president of the Chesapeake (Maryland) Association, will preside at the meeting, scheduled for 11 o'clock (DST) today.

On the agenda, in addition to a general discussion of better state coverage, will be consideration of arrangements to provide complete coverage of the special session of the Legislature which begins a week from today, and an expanded weather report for Maryland.

Attending the meeting from the Cumberland newspapers besides Robinson are John J. McMullen, president of the Times and Alleganian Company, and Eugene T. Gunning, assistant managing editor of the Cumberland Evening Times.

The Associated Press's 100th anniversary is being marked at the Greenbrier by AP associations of four states — Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina — and the District of Columbia.

Each state association will meet this morning at the same hour as the Chesapeake Association, and at 3 p. m. (DST) today, they will hold a joint meeting.

This will be followed by a tour of the expansive Greenbrier grounds and points of historical interest.

A formal dinner dance will be held tonight with Dr. Francis Pendleton Gaines, president of Washington and Lee University and one of the South's best orators, as the principal speaker.

Registration took place yesterday morning and was followed in the afternoon by a women's games party and a men's golf tournament. A cocktail party and dinner were held last night.

Railroad Trespasser Given Jail Sentence

Harry Moore Brunswick Hotel, who was apprehended Sunday on a charge of trespassing on Baltimore and Ohio Railroad property, was sentenced to 10 days in county jail when arrainged before Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., yesterday.

Ursuline Students To Attend Convention

Twelve Ursuline Academy students have been registered for the 13th annual convention of the Catholic Students Mission Crusade which will be held August 25 to 29 at Notre Dame, the first such convention to be held since before the war.

They are Susanna and Virginia McLane, Maxine Barncord, Anna Madden, Rita Helmstetter, Mary McMullen, Joan Morehead, Dolores Gillard, Jean Lydig, Maxine Lynch, Helen Mullaney and Eileen Kelly, who will be guest of honor at the convention.

Doub Appointed Maryland Advisor To Gov. Stassen

Announcement Made By Eastern Manager

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP) — Baltimore Attorney George Cochran Doub has been appointed Maryland advisor to Harold Stassen in the former Minnesota governor's bid for the Republican presidential nomination.

Amos Peasley, eastern manager for Stassen, announced this here today.

Stassen, Peasley said, may pay another visit to Maryland to further his candidacy. No definite plans have been made yet, however.

The Maryland State GOP Convention meets in Baltimore Thursday. It is expected to send an uninstructed delegation to the national party conclave.

Doub was the Republican candidate for Maryland attorney general in 1946.

He said in a statement following Peasley's announcement that the Stassen Committee in Maryland will support Jacob France, Republican national committeeman from Maryland.

Doub declared that "since I believe that Governor Stassen is the most vital figure in American politics today, I am glad to accept the appointment as his adviser and representative in Maryland.

"Although no organized effort has been made on behalf of Governor Stassen in this state, there has developed spontaneously a large following for him which is growing steadily in members.

"x x x I feel confident that the Maryland delegation (to the GOP national convention) will give consideration to supporting him."

The lawyer said that the Stassen Committee to be formed in Maryland "will support Jacob France who has made such major contributions in time and effort to the Republican party as national committeeman."

Doub is a native of Cumberland.

Priesthood Scholarship Examination Scheduled

The archdiocesan scholarship examination for boys of Western Maryland wishing to study for the Catholic Priesthood at St. Charles College, Catonsville, will be conducted Saturday at 10 a. m. at St. Patrick's Catholic Church rectory.

Youths taking the examination must have completed the eighth grade in elementary school and have the recommendation of the pastor of their parish.

Repair Work Started On Postoffice Here

According to William C. McDermott, acting postmaster, repair work on the inside of the postoffice building was started yesterday, when workmen began operations in the mail room.

The contract calls for painting and repairs to the exterior of the building. The work is being done by the Sherwood Company, Philadelphia, Pa., successful bidders.

To Address Class

Maj. Elmer Wall, of the Salvation Army, will address members of St. Mark's Men's Club at 8:15 o'clock tonight at the monthly meeting in the social rooms of the church. Entertainment will be furnished by a male chorus from Berlin, Pa.

Legion District Approves Plan For State Vets' Bonus

Question To Go Before Convention

Mountain District American Legion, representing all posts in Allegany and Garrett counties, has officially approved the action of Farrady Post No. 24, Frostburg, in sponsoring a movement to obtain a state bonus for Maryland veterans of World War II, similar to that paid veterans of a number of other states.

Action was taken Sunday at a district meeting in Grantsville at the new home of the Grantsville Post, following the annual "I Am An American Day" and Rehabilitation Day program.

The bonus committee of Farrady Post includes Lloyd S. McNeil, this city, chairman, Alec Nicol, John Fred Rowe and Frank Powers, post commander.

The question of the bonus, being publicized through petitions among veterans and other citizens, is to be put before the state convention late this summer, according to James Kenney, district vice commander, with the endorsement of posts from the Mountain District. The help and co-operation of other veterans, civic and patriotic organizations is to be solicited in the movement, McNeil said.

State Commander Harry Allen, Laurel, and State Adjutant Jack Tribby, Baltimore, were present at the meeting Sunday and suggested the bonus question be referred to the state executive committee for recommendation to the convention.

Commander Allen made presentations to James J. O'Rourke, commander of Barton Post, for the highest percentage record in membership gain, and also made awards to Fulton Meyers Post, this city, and James P. Love Post, Lonaconing.

Vice Commander Kenney was presented with a new history of the American Legion.

Other speakers included Joseph Bozeman, Baltimore, state rehabilitation officer; Norman J. Stiles, American Legion Service Officer for Maryland, and his assistant, Joseph Daugherty, both of Baltimore; Thomas P. Conlon, rehabilitation chairman, this city; and Miss Jessie Smith representing the Lonaconing Post Auxillary.

Harvey Gortner, commander of the Grantsville Post, welcomed the visitors and presided at the opening phase of the meeting. Refreshments were served after the program.

Cresaptown Firemen Plan Parade Tonight

The Community Volunteer Fire Department of Cresaptown will sponsor a parade tonight at 7:30 o'clock as one of the features of the week-long celebration of the organization's 15th anniversary.

With approximately 30 volunteer fire departments scheduled to be in the line of march along with three bands and two drum corps, the parade will form on McMullen Highway, near the Celanese Corporation of America swimming pool.

The line of march will be west on McMullen Highway to the Cresaptown Postoffice, then down Winchester Road to Craddock Road and on to Brady Road to the carnival ground where the units will disband.

A dance and program of entertainment will follow the parade. Varied programs are scheduled for each night this week with much of the activity planned for the carnival grounds.

Maryland Postmasters To Meet At Ocean City

Maryland Chapter, National Association of Postmasters, and the Maryland branch of the National Association of Postal Supervisors will meet jointly in Ocean City, Md., on May 25 and 26, according to William C. McDermott, acting postmaster.

The sessions, which will be held in the Hotel Royalton, will be featured by speeches by Vincent C. Burke, first assistant postmaster general; Clifton C. Garner, superintendent of the Division of Postoffice Service; C. F. Chatto and L. B. Schoonover, Postoffice inspectors; M. J. McAuliffe, regional director, Fourth U. S. Civil Service Region; Fergus McRee, Richmond, Va., member of the Executive Committee of the National Association of Postmasters.

Ridgeley Legion Will Nominate Tonight

Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion, Ridgeley, W. Va., will meet tonight at 8 o'clock for the purpose of nominating officers, Commander Nelson Brant said yesterday.

Commander Brant urges that all members attend the meeting so that the best possible slate of candidates can be selected. The election will be held at the regular meeting June 1.

PE Bus Fare Hike Effective May 30

Fare rates on Potomac Edison Company buses operating in Cumberland and to nearby industrial plants are scheduled to raise May 30, company officials announced yesterday.

The fare increases which will affect the sale of commutation tickets only was approved by the Public Service Commission at a hearing in Baltimore recently following a protest by the Mayor and City Council and local union groups.

Originally scheduled to go into affect May 2, Henry W. Price, Cumberland district manager of PE, said the company will initiate the new fare rates May 30 and will begin informing the public of the hike today in accordance with PSC regulations.

The new rates will eliminate the present three-for-25 cent tickets and 15-for-$1 tickets and establish six-for-50 cent tickets on city runs. It will also eliminate the 10-for-80 cent tickets now being sold on the Cresaptown and Celanese routes.

The present cash fares will not be affected, Price said, adding that the increase is the first the company has made in bus fares since 1930 with the exception of a slight change in the cost of school tickets some years ago.

Signs informing the public of the proposed increase will be posted in all buses today, according to Price.

Pennsylvanian Injured While Chopping Tree

Charles McClure, Route 3, Chambersburg, Pa., was treated in Memorial Hospital yesterday after he had cut the second toe of his left foot with an axe. According to hospital attaches, McClure was chopping a tree down near Bean's Cove when the accident happened.

Others treated include Julia May Young, 40, 615 Bedford Street, for a fractured right leg, and Harry Yost, 45, 160 North Mechanic Street, who was struck on the right arm with a board while working at Celanese.

Catholic Conference Of Priests Postponed

The clerical conference for the priests of the Western Maryland section of the Archdiocese of Baltimore, originally set for Thursday, has been postponed until Friday, May 21, when it will be held at 11 a. m. in St. Patrick's Catholic Church rectory.

Rev. Walter McCarthy, S.S., president of St. Mary's Seminary School of Philosophy, Baltimore, will conduct the meeting.

The mercury, after a lazy start, finally did climb to a maximum of 74 degrees, coming up from a low of 60 during the night. The rainfall from 8 a. m. Monday until 11 o'clock last night was 0.32 of an inch, which was double that of Sunday. For today, the prophet says it will be fair with moderate temperature. Better be prepared for those April showers in May though.

YMCA Planning 4-Week Day Camp Program, Starting Tuesday, July 6

Plans are being made to conduct a day camp program under the auspices of Central YMCA for the four-week period starting July 6, Henry W. Price, chairman of the YMCA camp committee, announced yesterday.

The program will be conducted four days a week, Tuesday through Friday. Two days each week will be spent at the "Y" building, while on the other two days the program will be conducted on YMCA property on Bedford Road, offering boys and girls opportunities to learn camp-craft, fire building, outdoor cooking and other camping activities.

Price said the daily hours will be from 9 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. The program will feature arts and crafts, playground activities, swimming instruction and archery.

One afternoon each week will be devoted to educational trips to nearby points of historical interest and to local industrial plants.

The committee is also making plans to send a group of Cumberland boys to Camp Letts at Edgewater, Md., during the summer months.

Camp Letts, which is operated by the Washington, D. C., YMCA, is located 10 miles from Annapolis on a wooded peninsula near the point where the Rhode River and two smaller streams empty into the bay.

Three separate camping periods of three weeks each will be held at Camp Letts from June 27 through August 29. Information on enrollment may be obtained at Central YMCA from Winfield H. Adam, acting general secretary.

Rules Are Given For Outwitting Swindlers Who Offer Bad Checks

That's the warning issued by the National Better Business Bureau, Inc., which said the number of complaints to Bureaus all over the country indicate that check swindling is big business.

It's a problem in Cumberland, too, of course. Harold W. Smith, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, endorsed the following suggestions which, the Bureau said, may help businessmen to avoid loss by check swindlers:

If you don't know your payee, require personal and positive identification that the holder is the payee, even though you know the check is good.

Personal identifications is no good unless personally endorsed by the identifier. If he won't endorse it, why should you cash it?

Ask yourself this question: Would I be willing to lend this stranger the amount asked for out of my own pocket on his unsecured promise to pay?

Every strange check worth cashing is worth investigating. Check the references.

Do not overlook noting on the back of checks you cash any information relied on for identification, such as Social Security numbers, license numbers, addresses and name of employer.

Be especially suspicious if a check is offered for an amount more than a purchase made from you.
